

UNION PRINTERS GATHER AT ST. JOSEPH Annual Reports Show Progress During Year—Proposed Insurance.

St. Joseph, Mo., Aug. 10.—The fifty-fifth convention of the International Typographical Union convened yesterday in the Coliseum, St. Joseph's big convention hall. Addresses of welcome were made by Mayor Clayton, President Burnham, of the local typographical union, and others, and a response by President Lynch, of the International Typographical Union, after which the convention began consideration of a large volume of business.

The reports of President Lynch and Secretary-Treasurer Hays show great progress made by the union during the last year. The International Typographical Union is fifty-seven years old, and with the present gathering has held fifty-five consecutive annual sessions. In 1896 and 1898 biennial conventions were held. The International Typographical Union claims to be the oldest national or international organization of skilled labor in the world. Its sessions here this week are attended by three hundred delegates and eight hundred visitors.

Matters of importance that are to come before the convention are proposals for the establishment of an insurance feature, and certain changes proposed in the pension policy that was made effective by the union one year ago. The relations between the union and the American Newspaper Publishers' Association will also be up for consideration.

The International Typographical Union has many features that are unique with labor organizations, and which stamp this union as one of the most progressive in the labor field. The pension policy for retired members, which was introduced by the union in 1896, is one of the most liberal of any labor organization. Under the pension law, members who have reached the age of 60 years and are unable to secure sustaining employment after the age of 60, are paid $4 per week. The payment of pensions has heretofore been considered the function of the government, but in this instance the union evidently believes that its veterans should be taken care of independent of state or nation.

The payment of pensions began with the first of last August, and up to May 21, when the union's fiscal year closed, $87,580 had been paid to pensioners, while the administration of the fund had cost only $2,000. The union also conducts a Home at Colorado Springs, and contributed $100,000 to the Home for the aged at that place. The actual expense of conducting the Union Printers' Home was $72,598.94, and there was a balance in the Home fund of $28,377.06. The expenses and expenditures of the Home from its inception to May 31st, 1909, were $367,801.29 and $335,468.86. The Home property at Colorado Springs is valued at $1,000,000.

The union pays a burial benefit of $75. During the fiscal year there were 509 deaths, and the benefits paid amounted to $38,175. In advertising its union label the union paid out $7,617.48.

The expenditures of the International Typographical Union during its fiscal year were $1,544,347. From the year 1891 to 1909 the union received $3,188,045.75, and expended $5,860,888.90, this sum including the expense of conducting the Union Printers' Home. The union has a membership of 47,174.

The union also conducts a technical school at Chicago for the benefit of its members and apprentices who desire to perfect themselves in their trade. The sessions of the convention will continue throughout the week.

Three months ago her 15-year old daughter and herself were passed at New York and permitted to buy tickets for Ladyship, B. C., where they were to join the husband and father. But at Prescott, Ont., they were turned back by Canadian officers on the ground that they had not sufficient funds.
