The 'Poet Laureate's' Fies for the Birds. I heard the skylark's heavenward note, The thrush ere the day, And watched the white gull wheel and float Above the bright blue sea.

The kinglet flicker round the rose, The woodpecker alight, A moment where the woodbine blows, Then ripple out of sight.

And then another sight I saw— Tossed plumage, crimson streak, The shattering wing, the crippled claw, The breast and drooping beak; An' round this havoc creature fair, An' round this havoc creature fair, Not sad, but eager now With the dead spool to deck their hair And ornament their brow.

O tender maiden tranquil wife, Nurtured in bliss and ease, The welcome heaven the first you life gave life not as to the And when 'mid wintry frost and rime To Yale-low heart's clime! Remember in the sweet springtime The birds again will sing!

They with their lays your love will thank, If you will only spare, And once again to willow bank The kingfisher repair. O, let the tern complete the nest, Its tenderness begun; And oriole plume and egret crest Gleam, sacred in the sun!

NERVES

The Modern Malady and the Up-to-Date Scientific Treatment.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

Until the latter half of the present century nervous diseases were comparatively unknown and scarcely recognized by physicians. As nervous prostrations, hysteria and paralysis became better understood, science found means to cope with them and the crowning triumph of medical discovery was given to the world under the name of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, after the famous physician and author who first used this celebrated prescription.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is a great restorative, in pill form, which sends a thrill of new life through the body, and by giving new vigor and utility drives out disease. A few weeks' treatment will positively cure nervous prostration and exhaustion, nervous dyspepsia and headache, sleeplessness, irritability and all nervous disorders. Fifty cents a box. At all dealers, or EDMANSON, BATES & CO., Toronto.

THINGS OF VALUE.

'I am very sorry, Charlie, you don't admire my new dress,' said a young wife; 'everybody says it is charming.' Your friends, my dear, pay you compliments; I pay your bills; remind her husband!

There never was, and never will be, a universal panacea, in one remedy, for the ills to which flesh is heir—the very nature of man's constitution being such, that the source of disease and differently seated diseases require in the system of the patient—what would relieve one ill in turn would aggravate the other. We have, however, in Quinine Wine, when obtainable in a sound, undisturbed state, a remedy for many and grievous ills. By its gradual and judicious use, the frailties of the system are led into convalescence and strength, by the infusion of Quinine into the system, the system is restored. It relieves the drooping spirits of those with whom a chronic state of morbid despondency and lack of interest in life is a disease, and, by tranquillizing the nerves, disposes to sound and refreshing sleep—imparts vigor to the action of the blood, which, being stimulated, courses through the veins, strengthening the animal function of the system, thereby making healthy and vigorous the entire organism, which naturally demands increased abundance of all the organs of the system. Quinine Wine, of Toronto, has given to the public their superior Quinine Wine at the usual rate, and, given by opinion of scientists, this wine is the nearest perfection of any in the market. All druggists sell it.

John—'What's the difference between a visit and a visitation?' 'A visit, my son, is when we go to see your grandmother on your mother's side. A visitation is when she comes to see you.'

Cholera morbus, cramps and kindred complaints usually make their appearance at the same time, the hot weather, green fruit, and cucumbers, melons, etc., and many persons are debilitated from eating these summer fruits, but they need not abstain if they have Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial and take a few drops in water. It cures the cramps and cholera in a remarkable manner, and is sure to check every disturbance of the bowels.

'In what frame of mind was Ferrigno when you saw him this morning?' 'All frame; no mind.'

A Life Saver.—Mr. James Bryson, Casco, states: 'I was confined to my bed with inflammation of the lungs, and was given up by the physician. A neighbor advised me to try Dr. Thomas' Eucalypti Oil, stating that his wife had used it for a throat trouble with the best results. Acting on the advice, I procured the oil, and used it as directed. It cured me; I certainly believe it saved my life. It was with reluctance that I consented to trial, as I was used to such a state that I doubted the power of any remedy to do me any good.'

Don't be afraid to push your way in the world. The religious man is living was born without a penny in his pocket.

They Cleanse the System Thoroughly.—Farnell's Vegetable Pills clear the stomach and bowels of bilious matter, cause the excretory vessels to throw off impurities from the blood into the bowels and expel the deleterious mass from the body. They do this without pain or inconvenience to the patient who speedily realizes their good offices as soon as they begin to take effect. They have strong recommendations from all kinds of people.

'Can it be possible that Hawkins is in love with that girl? Why, she weighs 300 lb.' 'No; I don't believe he's in love; he's just infatuated.'

They Advertise Themselves.—Immediately they were offered to the public, Farnell's Vegetable Pills became popular because of the good report they made for themselves. This reputation has grown, and they now rank among the first medicines for use in attacks of dyspepsia and biliousness, complaints of the liver, indigestion, constipation, liver and acute and the innumerable complications to which these ailments give rise.

'No, Willie, dear,' said Mamma, 'no more cakes to-night. Do you know, Willie, I cannot sleep on a full stomach?' 'Well,' replied Willie, 'I can sleep on my back.'

Breathing.

We have often spoken of the necessity of breathing properly, if the body is to be kept in the best possible health, and so in condition to resist the attacks of disease. The subject, however, is of such vital importance, as regards especially the prevention of lung diseases, that no apology need be offered for returning to it.

All the substances utilized in the maintenance of health and life, none is so absolutely indispensable as oxygen, and as this is taken in with the air we breathe, whether we receive a sufficient supply or not depends entirely upon how and where we breathe.

But the supplying of oxygen is not the only function although it is the most direct and vital one, of proper breathing. Thorough expansion of the chest ensures the proper filling of the lungs with air, dilates all the minute air-cells, especially those at the summits of the lungs, where motion is least and where the seeds of consumption are usually first planted, and increases the circulation of the blood throughout all parts of these organs.

Still another effect of proper breathing is a beautifying one. The chest is broadened, the shoulders are thrown back, the figure is erect and the carriage graceful.

Perfect breathing is not natural to most men and women of sedentary occupation and indoor life. Like all good things, it must be worked for; and the work must be preserved in until full and deep respiration has become a habit.

The means of attaining this object are various and cannot be recounted here; but they are all based upon the principle of removing permanently every obstacle to the free entrance of air into the lungs.

School children sitting at their desks, clerks bending over their ledgers, seamstresses at work with the needle or the sewing machine, type-writers, and all who must stoop as they earn their daily bread, should learn to stop from time to time, sit back in the chair, or rise, throw back the shoulders, and draw in ten or twelve deep breaths, holding the breath for three or four seconds each time the lungs are filled.

These exercises, like breathing in general, should always be done with the mouth closed, for the nose is the only proper channel for the passage to and fro of the air. A school-teacher who will interrupt the studies once every hour through the session, and teach the class to do this breathing exercise, will be contributing more than she can ever realize to the future well-being of her youthful charges.

Cross-Education.

This term is used to describe a phenomenon which has recently been under investigation at the Yale psychological laboratory. Experiments carried on during the past year have shown that the effects of practice on one side of the body are transferred to the other side, where there have been no practice. For instance, a fencer, practicing lunges with a foil, and using only his right hand, gained in two weeks 56 per cent. of accuracy in aim. At the same time it was found that his left hand had also gained 36 per cent. of accuracy in the same exercise, although it had had no actual practice. So the exertion of the muscles of the right arm likewise increased the strength of the left arm.

A Pleasant Surprise

For those who have thought that Catarrh is incurable, and to whom the constant use of snuffs and ointments has been almost unbearable, is to learn of Catarrh's cure, the new medicated air treatment for Catarrh, Bronchitis and Asthma. Catarrh's cure is a guaranteed cure for these diseases and never fails to cure them. It cures by inhalation of medicated air and always reaches the right spot. This is no theory, but the result of actual experience, and thousands of testimonials back up all we say for our medicine. Price $1.00 at all druggists, or direct by mail on receipt of price. Send 10c in stamps for sample outfit to N. C. Folsom & Co., Kingston, Ont.

Changes of Climate.

Professor Arrhenius, who has recently investigated the causes of secular variations in the temperature at the earth's surface, thinks that they are more probably due to changes in the amount of carbonic acid in the atmosphere than to variations in the heat of the sun. If the amount of carbonic acid that the air now contains were diminished a little more than one-half, the mean temperature all over the earth would drop about 8°, which would be sufficient to bring on another glacial period. On the other hand, an increase of carbonic acid to between two and three times its present amount would raise the mean temperature 16°, and renew the hot times of the Eocene epoch.
