MUCH WANTED BROOK FOUND

Continued From Page One. Ferraro then procured a flat at 48 High street and took his wife to live there, at the same time stealing about two weeks ago he purchased considerable furniture from E. Marquis Company of Mill street and attempted to sell the furniture to a local second hand dealer for the purpose of securing money to escape from the city, as he evidently had become aware of the fact that he was being watched.

A Close Watch Kept. A close watch had been kept upon Ferraro during the last three months, and an effort was being made to secure deportation papers to have him sent back to Italy. It is known that Ferraro made a break and escaped from a rear window. The police were then notified, and between 7 and 8 o'clock officers Sheehan and Perry found him in hiding in Tony's house. He was taken to the guard room where he was identified by Mr. Fairfield. In his pockets were found two tickets for Boston and he admitted that he intended leaving for Boston on a 6 o'clock train. He also had $16 and a flask of whisky.

DEAD PASTOR'S SERMON READ IN CHURCH

way in which Great Britain might be involved unless this parliament should first consent. I am glad that he has receded, if I understand him rightly from that position. I do not see how he could avoid receding from it, because a declaration of THAT KIND WOULD MEAN THE ABSOLUTE AND COMPLETE INDEPENDENCE OF CANADA FROM THE BRITISH EMPIRE.

Utter Folly.

Next Mr. Borden took up the question of the gravity of the German peril and the reality of the emergency.

Mr. Borden dealt with the resolution of last March. If he were speaking today under the same conditions that then existed, he would support that resolution. "That we enjoy British institutions, British liberty, British justice," continued Mr. Borden. "That this wonderful majestic heritage of Canada is ours with all its infinity of promise for the future, all these blessings under Providence are ours BECAUSE OF THE BRITISH NAVY."

THE RESOLUTION OF 1909.

Still dealing with the resolution of last March, Mr. Borden made several observations upon it: "It has been complained that the resolution offered to Britain is not a declaration of independence, which would mean a navy—or the man who advocated annexation to the United States—which would mean heavy naval and military expenditures.
