The Latest Dodge.

Perhaps the very best joke of the reciprocity discussion is the resort of some old Anti journals to what they used to denounce as "the loyalty dodge." Because the Queen's speech at the recent prorogation of Parliament expresses the hope that "the negotiations begun at the desire and in the interests of Canada" may lead to greater freedom of commercial intercourse these jumping-jacks are telling their readers that the adoption of this reciprocity treaty is desired by the Queen and should not be opposed by any loyal man! Well, what is made out of this? It is a great deal, as though they were utterly brainless! The Queen's wish, the Empire's necessity, indeed! Canada, as represented by George Brown and the Ottawa Government, asked for this treaty, and Her Majesty can do no less than press the hope that the great colony may get the boon it has craved. Could she do less, considering that the interests of the Mother Land are not affected injuriously, but the reverse, by the proposed treaty? A treaty is proposed "by the desire and in the interests of Canada," the Queen hopes it may be accepted by the U. S. Senate, and intelligent people are asked to support the ratification of the proposal because it is Her Majesty's wish! This is good, certainly. What next?

Timely Topics.

Kate Stanton is enjoying herself abroad in the company of Mrs. Lucas, John Brinsford, Boston Post, Joseph Brundage, charged with causing the death of James McCuskey, in Westfield, has been arrested by order of the Magistrate and placed in gaol.

A man who tried to smuggle a wagon load of tobacco across the Belgian frontier, recently by driving at full speed, and her servant, who shot his horse with a rifle. The horse's bridle was so arranged with knife blades as anyone attempted to stop him would have been badly cut.

A woman at Warsaw, Ind., who put her hand in a hot stove, and was severely burned, and a young girl, who was killed by a runaway horse, were the subjects of the week's news.

A beggar placed himself at the door of an English churchyard, and kept saying, "A penny, please, sir! Only a penny, before you go in." "And for what, my man?" inquired an old country gentleman. "Because, sir," he answered, "you will not have one when you come out."

A young butcher, who was courting a girl with matrimonial intentions, was rebuffed by her when he asked her to marry him. She replied that she could not marry him. His proposal was not interdicted with unnecessary words, and he was advised to get a new trade.

A man has just been arrested in Bonaville, France, for shooting a crow. On searching his house the police found his two children, aged nine and five years, and a crow in the wall of an inner room. There was a loaf of bread and a pitcher of water near them. They were in a miserable condition, having been thus confined for some time.

Hamburg, Conn., has recently had a case of the yellow fever. Two brothers contracted the disease, and one of them died. The other brother, who was a young man, died of the disease. The disease was contracted by the young man from the other brother.

A had state of things appears to exist in some parts of Ohio. In Dayton especially and in that neighborhood highway robberies have become frequent, and the roads are unsafe without the aid of a posse of footpads. We are happy to state, however, that no such condition of society exists in Cincinnati where the influence of Deacon Richard Smith is constantly felt.—N. Y. Sun.

The South Kensington Museum, in London, has cost the nation since its establishment $5,928,548. A correspondent writes: "Those who have visited the museum will know that it is a vast and magnificent building, and that it is a treasure house of art and science. It is a place where the people of London can see the finest works of art and the most valuable specimens of nature. It is a place where the people of London can learn about the history of art and science, and where they can enjoy the beauty of the museum's architecture and the views of the city of London."

A special to the Courier-Journal says that D. B. Nau, jeweler, of Midway, Woodford county, Ky., while on his way home Sunday evening, was set upon by four masked men, and that there are no traces of him. Evidences of a struggle were discovered in the neighborhood. It is probable that he was murdered and his body hid. A man who heard his cries and went to his rescue was driven back with threats of death, and he was afterwards saved by the men carrying him away. He was then struggling and screaming for help, and was rescued by a party of men who were passing by. It is not known whether the object of the murder was robbery or revenge.

Marine Board Examination.
An examination before the Marine Board was completed last evening, and the following gentlemen received certificates: George C. Taylor, Dorchester, N. S.; master; John W. Welling, Sackville, N. S.; master; James Cain, Yarmouth, N. S.; master; Louis Hollibart, Annapolis, N. S.; master; Lindsay Kirkpatrick, Aylesford, N. S.; master; William Percival Parkes, St. John, N. B.; master; James A. Disobeying the Harbor Master.
Capt. D. E. Lewis, of the schooner E. B. Beard, was before the Police Magistrate yesterday to answer a charge of refusing to obey Harbor Master Taylor. It appeared from the evidence that the Harbor Master ordered the schooner out of Walker's Slip to make room for another vessel. The Captain refused to take his orders, and was fined $100.

The Harbor Master claimed that he alone had the right to order vessels to berth. The Magistrate, after hearing the evidence, and the arguments of the Harbor Master and the Captain, reserved his decision.

Shipping Notes.
The brig, Little Fly, at Queenstown, 20th ult., reports, lat. 48 N., lon. 54 W., fell in with bark Guanoque, of Newcastle, derrick and full of water. Sent a boat on board and got all the sails that were in sail-room and some rope. The Guanoque has since been captured and taken into St. John's, N. F., and proved a valuable prize.

At this season of the year, when so many of our people are suffering from colds, we call attention to AYER'S CURE FOR COLDS, BRONCHITIS, AND ALL AFFECTIONS OF THE THROAT AND LUNGS. It is a safe and sure cure not only for colds and coughs, but all affections of the lungs and throat. Having used it in our family for many years, we can speak from personal knowledge of its efficacy. There may be other remedies that are good, but in all our experience this has proved to be the best. It is pleasant to take, and should be kept at hand, by every family, as a protection against a class of complaints which seem harmless in the beginning, but become exceedingly dangerous if neglected.—N. H. Register.

Academy of Music Theatre.

"London Assurance" was played most effectively last evening. Miss LeClerc's Lady Grey is unsurpassable. Mr. Warner showed his versatility of talent by personating the old bean, Sir Harcourt Courty, with great success. Mr. Murdoch and Mr. McDowell, as Dazle and Charles Courty, kept up a by-play that caused much merriment. Their rendering of the duet, "Excelsior," was followed by applause so loud and long continued that they were forced to repeat a portion of it. Mr. Owen was an infinitely mercurial, loud applause greeting his marvelous facial variations and quaint intonations. Miss Noah was, of course, all that could be desired in a representative of Grace. Mr. Muller's music was justly applauded.

The bill for to-night is very attractive—Tom Taylor's "Wolf in Sheep's Clothing," with Miss LeClerc as Annie Cawling, and "Po-a-hon-tas," with original scenery, new jokes, &c.

The suggestion has been made by a great many people that a complimentary benefit to Mr. Nannary, on Tuesday evening next, would be only a just recognition of his services in supplying St. John with first-class dramatic entertainments. Mr. Nannary took the initiative in the formation of the company that has, under Mr. McDowell's direction, had so brilliant a career in the Academy. He had the courage to embark on this enterprise when more experienced people predicted that the Academy could not be made to pay, and the success of the company has been a decided benefit to the Academy and a pledge of first-class dramatic performances next season. We hope the benefit will be extended to Mr. Nannary and liberally patronized.

Mrs. Maskell's Readings.
This lady appeared for the first time before a St. John audience, last evening in the Mechanics' Institute. To say that she pleased and delighted her audience gives but a faint idea of her reception. From beginning to end of the entertainment the strictest attention was paid, and not one word that fell from her lips was lost. Whether reading play and lively, or serious and pathetic, the pleasure was the same. Without books she went through a lengthened programme in such a manner as to win golden opinions from all. "The Haven," a piece so frequently read, was never before given in this city as Mrs. Maskell reads it. Her conception of it seems to be the perfection of art. In "Jane Conquest," a piece written especially for her, she fairly held the audience spell-bound, and the applause that greeted this effort was long and loud. "The Knight and the Lady," and "The Way of Woe," proved her ability to read humorous pieces, her expressive countenance making them particularly pleasing. After the entertainment she was congratulated on her success by a number of gentlemen, including Mayor C. E. D. of St. John, N. B., who invited her to visit this city, promising her a most enthusiastic reception. To-night Mrs. Maskell appears for the last time, and presents a still choicer programme.

It is hoped the house will be crowded, as those who do not attend will miss a treat seldom attainable.

The Governor General's Medal.
The medal won by Brayley at the Kennebunk Regatta a year ago, has at length been received by him. It was manufactured by Wason, of London, and is very handsome. On one side is the coat of arms and the inscription—"Presented by the Governor General" on the other are the name of Lord and Lady Dufferin, with an inscription. On the edge is, "Alexander Brayley; New Brunswick Regatta; September, 1873."

It is certainly a very elegant medal, and our favorite sculler can wear it with pride. There has of late been considerable talk as to why it did not arrive before. Regatta Stewards did not themselves have the purchasing of the medal. It was entirely in the Governor General's hands. While on the Regatta question we venture to ask, what has been done with the money left after expenses were paid and the Stewards had fed themselves?

City Police Court.
The business seems to continue on the "even tenor of its way" this week, there being very little change. A few simple drunks appear each morning.

James Mare was first called, he having been found stiff in Water street. Fined $4.

George Ginter is a countryman. He came to town and drank so much that he lost his way and couldn't get home. King's Square looked so truly rural that he lay down and slept, being awakened by a policeman. He was sent home to the country without a fine.

Charles McCallum, arrested drunk in Pitt street, was fined $4.

William Crosby, arrested this morning drunk in Dock street, was too drunk for trial when the court opened.

Henry Simmons, in for protection, was let go.

Benjamin Lawton was charged with using abusive language to Sergt. Dobson, having called him a thief, liar, swindler and other villainous names, for which of course he must pay $5.

Mr. C. Spannow begs to intimate to Saint John epicures that he has engaged one of the best and most skillful cooks to be had from Boston, and he is now prepared to furnish breakfasts, dinners and suppers in the highest style of the culinary art. The public are respectfully invited to call and try his skill, at the Victoria Dining Saloon, No. 9 Germain street, opposite (Country Market).

Russia Leather Albums, edged in oxidized silver, with lock and key, at Notman's.

Deicide of a Young Woman who is said to have been seen by a Liverpool lawyer.

James Carr, who was charged with being drunk in Main street. He confessed and was fined $4.

The Third Presbyterian Sunday school of Albany is using a new "Short Catechism for Young Children." The following are some of the questions and answers: "What will become of you if you die in your sins?" "I must go to hell with the wicked." "What kind of a place is hell?" "A place of endless torment; being a lake that burns with fire and brimstone." "What are the wages of sin?" "Death and damnation." "What are you then by nature?" "I am an enemy to God, a child of Satan, and a heir of hell."

In the Chancellor's court, York, England, on July 24, the case of Stobart against Kennicot was heard. The defendant was the Rev. Benjamin Canham Kennicot, Vicar of All Saints, Monkwearmouth, in the diocese of Durham, and the plaintiff was one of his parishioners. The charges against the defendant were that for two years past he had given himself up to drinking, habitually resorting to taverns and ale houses otherwise than for his necessity or livelihood; neglected his parsonial services at the church of Monkwearmouth, of which he was perpetual curate and vicar; and that he caused a scandal to exist. The Court, after hearing evidence, suspended the defendant for three years, and condemned him in costs.

An interesting case relative to the right to keep greyhounds in Great Britain has just been decided in the Irish Court of Queen's Bench. A person had been refused the qualification required by an act of William III., viz. the act of 1697, which the necessary qualification was altered and no penalty mentioned; also on the Dog's Regulation Act, which declared that a person possessing a license may keep any dog he pleases. The Court unanimously dismissed the appeal with costs.

A fashion correspondent, writing from Paris, says that the pompadour is to be definitely abandoned as a part of indoor costume, or of a silk suit, and is only to be worn in heavy materials, such as velvet and cloth. In velvet dresses, noisettes are to be made very long and laid slightly at one side, the looping fastenings up wide a buckle and bow of ribbon. Bonnets are to be worn rather larger, and trimmed with a profusion of flowers; a wreath, placed inside the brim instead of around the crown, will be the most marked innovation. The question of strings or no strings has been left in abeyance, and probably will be settled later in the season by the fashion wearers themselves. Some effort has been made here to introduce boots of buff and grey linen to be worn by the ladies of the same shade, but the effect is bad, and articles unbecoming. Natural flowers are much worn on one side of the waist, and are arranged in the following manner: A small bouquet is placed in a tiny glass holder containing a few drops of water, which is then concealed in the folds of the sash.
