

C256320

(4)

INTRODUCTION
(Con.)

MEN COME AND GO - AND IDEAS CHANGE

If goodwill is universal, here again an international organization administering a definite set of rules to control affairs is of still greater advantage.

EXAMPLE;--

The most willing team of horses (or Men) need guidance, and by placing the reins of guidance in the hands of an efficient driver (i.e. an equitably controlled and competent organization, such as the International Court, as outlined in Book I,) the best balanced effort can be guided,(through the medium of its sub-councils, as hereafter described,) without waste of effort or time to the ultimate destination:--

The betterment of conditions under which all mankind shall in future live and the best guarantee of a future

" TOTAL PEACE "