DYSPEPSIA, that all prevalent disease of civilized life, is always attended with a disordered sympathetic system and bad secretions, and no remedy is better adapted to its cure than Burdock Blood Bitters taken according to special directions found on every bottle.

"Did you call your brother a liar?" asked the stern parent, and the culprit remarked, "Well, I said he was a sewing machine agent."

POET'S CORNER.

For modes of faith let graceless zealots fight;
His can't be wrong whose life is in the right.—Pope.

From off the running rivulet the icy chain is thawed,
And the flutter of the winglet of the dovelet is abroad;
The quacklet of the ducklet in the brooklet we can hear,
And the rootlet and the piglet will presently appear.

THREE KEYS.

There are two keys that you should shun—

The first leads to the second—
Whis-key I name as number one,
Turn-key my next is reckoned.
Don-key is my third and last,
And what you'd most resemble.
If you meddle with key number one
I'll surely make you tremble.

For if the first you take too oft,
One dollar I would bet you,
If I were a betting man,
That key number two would get you.

But the key that brings you joy and wealth,
That unlocks all you may try to,
Is Burdock Blood Bitters' Key to Health,
And that's the key to tie to.

ONLY.

Only a word, a little word,
Has a fond heart heal'd or broken;
When the word is yes what joy and bliss
Is the fellow's whose girl has spoken.

Only a flower, a simple flower,
Entwined in a maiden's hair;
Yet it caused unrest to the young man's breast,
And brought to him wild despair.

Only a pin, a little bent pin,
Yet placed point up in a chair
It possessed the might of a giant's fright
As it raised him high in the air.

Only a hair, a golden hair,
Yet it causeth the heart to flutter,
And makes one swear with defiant air
If it lurks in a chunk of butter.

Only a dose, a little dose,
Of Burdock Blood Bitters you try,
It will give you the test that it is the best,
And a full sized bottle you'll buy.
