OBITUARY MISS MARY A. CHAPMAN. Miss Mary A. Chapman, sister of the late Rev. Mgr. W. F. Chapman, V. G., who passed away on December 26 last, died yesterday morning at the Mater Misericordiae Home, after a week's illness of pneumonia. Since the death of her brother, for whom she had been housekeeper for many years, she had been rapidly declining, and it is believed that the shock of his death hastened her own end. She was sixty-nine years of age, and was born in St. Stephen. For many years she had been acting as housekeeper for her brother in the various parishes he had served, and for the last eleven years, until his death, she was with him at the parish of St. John the Baptist, this city. Following the death of Monsignor Chapman in Boston on December 26 she, being the last surviving member of the family, went to spend the remainder of her days in the Mater Misericordiae Home. Her passing will cause sincere regret among a large circle of friends, and her kindly and charitable disposition and good heart will remain for many years in the hearts of the friends she leaves behind. The funeral will take place this morning at 10 o'clock from the home in Sydney street to St. John the Baptist church for high mass of requiem. The body will then be taken back to the home and will possibly be held there until her nephew, W. F. Chapman, arrives from California. Interment is to be made at St. Stephen. Her body will be placed alongside that of her brother.—Telegraph, March 8.

ANGUS STYNSON The death of Mr. Angus Stinson, which occurred in Dorchester, Mass., on the fourth of March inst., marks a passing of a former resident of St. Andrews, who, for many years, was one of our most prominent and highly esteemed citizens. The late Angus Stinson was a son of Captain James Stinson, and had two brothers, John K. Stinson, now deceased, and Eber H. Stinson, at present of Montreal; a sister, Miss Alice Stinson, predeceased him. The deceased was, by profession, a carpenter and builder, and stood very high as a skilled mechanic. Many of the finest buildings in town bear evidence of his skill as a workman. He was the builder and master workman on All Saints Church, at the time of its erection. He also erected the building, which was for many years used as a Marine Hospital, and is now the property of Mr. H. F. Grimmer. He had the contract, too, for the erection of the Argyle Hotel, when that building was first begun in the early seventies. Mr. Stinson's partner in life was Miss Law, who passed away less than a year before his death. He is survived by three sons—Jarvis and Robert A., of Boston, and Allen, in California; also one daughter, Miss Grace Stinson, of Dorchester, who tenderly cared for her father during his declining years, and through his last illness. The remains were brought to St. Andrews.

FRANK T. BULLEN DEAD London, March 1.—Frank T. Bullen, the English author and lecturer, died today at Madeira. He was best known as a writer of sea stories. He was born in 1857. The son of a stonemason, the young lad received practically no education, going to sea as a cabin boy when only seven years of age. The next quarter-century he spent "before the mast," retiring from active service on the ocean when, with the rank of chief mate, he secured a position in the British Meteorological Office. Frank Bullen wrote his first great book "The Cruise of the Cahalot," when he was 41 years old, but by its publication he secured instantaneous and universal acknowledgment. Mr. Bullen subsequently wrote a great many tales of the sea, becoming one of the most widely-read of modern British authors. He made a trip through Canada in the year 1910, when he visited many towns and cities.
