PLANE TALE FROM SKIES. How Bird-men Stupefy Enemy by Audacity Under Fire.

During the first months of the war a Belgian biplane, containing pilot and observer, experienced motor trouble while behind the German lines and was compelled to come down. Pointing her nose toward home, the two officers hoped against hope, that they might glide without power back to their own territory. But it was soon discovered to be useless, for the wind was dead against them.

Leaning over the edges of their cockpits, the Belgians saw the earth rising nearer and nearer, while the speed of their craft continued distressingly slow. Everybody seemed firing at them.

The German trenches appeared, and they crossed them less than thirty feet above the enthusiastic riflemen below. Their own trenches were 200 yards distant. The machine struck midway in no man's land, and stopped. Ducking through the hail of bullets, both men succeeded in escaping to their trenches, thanks to their comrades' fire, without a scratch. Unhappily, though, they had had no time to set fire to their machine.

Two days later Capt. Jaumotte, the pilot of the stranded aeroplane, learned that his machine was still there. For two nights the Belgian soldiers had so carefully guarded it that the enemy had been unable to reach or rescue it. Jaumotte determined upon a rescue.

Securing an armored motor-car, Jaumotte took along his two mechanics and two gunners, and suddenly ap-

CHARMEUSE. A Material Much to be Reckoned With.

Charmeuse is a material very much to be reckoned with; it forms an admirable substitute for wool, having a certain warmth of its own and an "unshowiness" (if the word may be coined) possessed by no other silken material, and according admirably with the mood of the moment.

Moreover, charmeuse wears quite wonderfully, and does not crush, so that it gives really valuable service in black or dull tones. And charmeuse it was which was responsible for a clever gown, its subtle tone relieved by dull gold embroidery and a little collar of creamy georgette, the renewal of which alone will keep the dress going as a stand-by for regular wear all through the coming months.

Charmeuse again was called into play for a gown of almost dressing-gown-like effect, but in a mastic shade, with folds lined in slightly deeper hue repeated in the girdle, the front and collar in the same pretty material, but of ivory tone. The mode of draping was unusual, quite like many we may expect to become familiar as the season progresses.

LATE NOTES OF FASHION.

While day rigs are smart and plain and apparently simple, evening dress may be as lively as one likes. One silver cloth dress designed in Paris for an actress shows the oddest drapery. It is pulled up back and front under pearl-beaded and tasseled panels. The right side clings around the ankle, the length continues in a train.

Other cases are for afternoon wear and are of satin or heavy silks, the velvet vests of contrasting materials at the front. Of these are up to evening wear, though there are yet others which are only possible for evening. One is of blue chiffon velvet, lined with delicate rose satin, bordered with orchid shade.

Chinese art forms the basis for many ideas in costumes, and a number of fashionable designers feature oriental effects as to line and embroidery, either Chinese or Japanese costumes would be nothing without embroidery.

PUTNAM'S FINE FOR CORNS THAT ACHE

Even a drop or two of Putnam's Extractor takes the sting out of sore corns. Mighty slick work Putnam's does on a crusty old corn. You see Putnam's shrivels the corn up quickly transforms it to a bunch of dead skin, loosens it from the toe so you can pick it off, roots and branches, with your fingers. Its painless—that's why you should take a quarter to the drug store to-day and get a bottle of Putnam's Extractor.

TRENTINO FOLK. They Regard Themselves Italians Though Living Under Austria.

The people who inhabit the Trentino, as the southern portion of the Austrian province of Tyrol is called, differ very much from their neighbors in the rest of the province. The Tyroleans proper speak German, for the most part, and are especially remarkable for their fervent loyalty to the house of Hapsburg. The people of the Trentino speak Italian. All their sympathies are with Italy, and ever since the final settlement which followed Italy's wars of liberation, a settlement which excluded the Trentino from the new kingdom of united Italy, they have regarded their land as a part of Italy unreluctantly.

The dual race problem in Tyrol is, indeed, a very ancient one. By far the greater part of the country was inhabited, when it first made its appearance in history, by the Rhaetians, held by some to have been a Celtic race. They were conquered by the Romans under Drusus and the land was later organized into the Roman province of Raetia. Then, in the fifth century, after the fall of the Roman empire in the west, the northern part of the country was overrun by the Ostrogoths, but the Teutonic Langobards, but the Teutonic Langobards, who pressed up from Venetia and the plains of Lombardy became Romanized themselves, and the dual race question was firmly established.

The next important epoch in the history of the Trentino was in the tenth century, when Emperor Conrad II, in a trusted ally temporal power in the district to the bishops of Trent, at the same time detaching the country from Italy, to the bishops and actually always being bishops, in their turn, exercising temporal power through lay hands.

The Trentino was a part of the Roman empire in the west, the northern part of the country was overrun by the Ostrogoths, but the Teutonic Langobards, who pressed up from Venetia and the plains of Lombardy became Romanized themselves, and the dual race question was firmly established.

TAILOR-MADE, SMART, SIMPLE.

Paris tailor-mades are simple and smart, and in black with a faint white line forming a check and a lining of which shows in a very narrow piping round the skirt and round the coat.

The coat was further trimmed with white bone buttons, set in rows closely together where the basques were all at the back.

Two materials are used to make up most of the dresses, Jersey and cloth, taffetas and Irish lace as a waistcoat, taffeta and Jersey, linen and cloth, crepe de Chine and crepe Georgette.

Sand-colored tweeds and navy blue serge are used for a coat, and a certain water-proof material is used for coats. The little overcoat in a light cloth for morning wear is also a novelty of the season.

Tussore is used, and there are many dresses in taffeta, crepe de Chine, silk Jersey and other materials.

Understanding Hearts.

If you see a man smiling to himself in a crowd don't imagine that he is crazy, says a writer. Usually such are the sanest of individuals and possess an enviable appreciation of themselves. They do not need to be influenced by exterior conditions and circumstances in order to call forth that spirit of gladness which lies deep within the soul.

CHILDHOOD CONSTIPATION

Constipation is one of the most common ailments of little ones and unless relieved may become chronic and baby's health for all time become impaired. Nothing can equal Baby's Own Tablets in regulating the bowels.

For certain slang expressions used by the Annapolis cadets," writes Julian Street in his new travel book, "American Adventures, I am indebted to a member of the corps. From this admiral-to-be I learn that a 'bird' or 'wazzo' is a man or boy; that 'steam' is marine engineering, and to be 'bilged for juice' is to fail in examination in electrical engineering; to get an 'unsat' or unsatisfactory mark, or even a 'zip' or 'swab,' which is a zero cadet do not escort girls to dances, but 'drag' them; a girl is a 'drag,' and a 'heavy drag' or 'brick' is an unattractive girl who must be taken to a dance. A 'sleuth' or 'jimmy-legs' is a night watchman, and to be 'ragged' is to be caught. Mess-hall waiters are sometimes called 'mokes,' while at other times the names of certain exalted dignitaries of the navy department or of the academy are applied to them."

FLY TIME IS COMING.

In attacking the fly menace, main reliance should, of course, be the prevention of fly breeding. Nevertheless, it is important to deal with all phases of the problem and to starve, swat, stick and poison the pests wherever they may be found.

The use of muscicides or fly poison preparations has many distinct advantages over the methods of combating the fly nuisance within the household. A serious drawback to this method here heretofore been the extremely poisonous character of the substance available and the consequent danger, especially to children, attending their use.

This study has necessitated the development of an experimental technique for the determination of relative muscicidal efficiencies of various preparations. The procedures developed and permit the determination of a relative coefficient, one thousandth normal sodium arsenite, serving as a standard basis of comparison, a substance frequently recommended, potassium dichromate and quassia syrup have been found to be of little value. Formaldehyde, on the other hand, when properly employed, has been found to be much more efficient than the standard arsenic solution. The studies have shown that the most efficient strength of the formaldehyde solution to be from 0.5 to 1 per cent, which is equivalent to 0.5 to 2.5 per cent. of the 40 per cent. solution of formalin.

A muscicide of almost equal efficiency and of distinctly superior qualities in the determination of relative muscicidal efficiency has been found to be a substance sodium salicylate, a 1 per cent. solution of which is recommended. This can be approximated by dissolving three teaspoonfuls of sodium salicylate in a pint of water.

Portrait of Wesley.

The portrait of John Wesley is now in the possession of an art collector in Philadelphia. The picture is one of the finest that came from the brush of the famous George Romney. In this connection it is interesting to note that for the portrait, measuring 30 inches by 24 inches, and its frame, the artist charged but 40 pounds.

Is Proud of Her Fine Little Girls

WHY MADAME PEPIN IS GRATEFUL TO DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS. Quebec Lady Tells How Her Children Were Cured of Childish Weakness and Made Strong and Well.

St. Honore, Chicoutimi Co., Que., May 6th.-(Special).—"I have two fine little girls, thanks to Dodd's Kidney Pills and I can't tell how grateful I am."

It was out of a full heart that Madame Pierre Pepin, a well-known resident of this place, uttered these words. "I have given Dodd's Kidney Pills to my two little girls," she added, "and now they sleep well and do not wet the bed. They are perfectly cured."

Whether or not kidney disease is hereditary, the fact remains that many children suffer from weak kidneys that are unable to do their full work of straining all the impurities out of the blood. The result is that many parents whip their children, when what they really need is a remedy for their kidneys. Dodd's Kidney Pills have been used in Canada for over twenty-five years as a kidney remedy. If you don't know of the great work they are doing, ask your neighbors.

Above Analysis. Women wish to be loved without a why or a wherefore; not because they are pretty or good, or well bred, or graceful, or intelligent, but because they are themselves. All analysis seems to them to imply a loss of consideration, a subordination of their personality to something which dominates and measures it. They will have none of it, and their instinct is just. As soon as we can give a reason for a feeling we are no longer under the spell of it; we weigh, we appreciate, we are free, at least, in principle. Love just always remains a fascination; a witchery, if the empire of woman is to endure. Love must always seem to us unadvisable, insoluble, superior to all analysis, if it is to preserve that appearance of infinity, of something supernatural and miraculous which makes its chief beauty.—Amel.

Naval Cadet Slang.

"For certain slang expressions used by the Annapolis cadets," writes Julian Street in his new travel book, "American Adventures, I am indebted to a member of the corps. Brilliant red jewelry is one of the fads of the moment. Flowers in some cases are made of sawdust. Tamps, when used with flame makes a good combination for a gown. For evening, sleeves are slashed over the top, showing the arm through. Handkerchiefs are being introduced for sports wear. Apron effects are in vogue, some made of satin, other hand-embroidered or designs based on aprons.

Small, close-fitting, bands banked with flowers, the entire crown being covered. Tussah and satin are used for making coats and suits. Straight Watteau capes feature fronts which form surplice bodies. Lapin and navy blue continue to be the favorite shades of blue. Unbelted tailor-made suits are being displayed as a feature. Black and white checked suits are in demand among the popular-priced suits. Charmeuse and satin are used for separate coats, in gray, dark blue, taupe, khaki and brown. White satin or poplin vests are worn in many of the suits and capes.

When a fellow carries an engagement ring in his pocket his best girl is apt to give him the glad hand.

ISAAC E. MANN. Metapedia, P. Q. Aug. 31st, 1908.

appeared in front of the abandoned aeroplane. While the gunners worked their machine guns, Jaumotte and the two mechanics, protected by the armored car, busied themselves with the disabled engine.

The German soldiers, stupefied by this incredible audacity, could only watch it through their periscopes. Every time a head appeared, the motor-car gunners raked the trench with their machine guns.

In fifteen minutes the work was completed. Climbing into his seat Capt. Jaumotte signalled the mechanic to turn over the propeller. The engine roared, and with one wave of his hand the audacious pilot swept away over his own cheering trenches, while the mechanics clambered back into the motor-car with their tools and returned home to their aerodrome.

For this feat Jaumotte received a citation from the Belgian army—Century.

Minard's Liniment Cures Colds, Etc. Worn-Out Tires.

The world discarded 183,000 tons of automobile tires during the year 1916. Adding to this the large number of bicycles tires thrown away every year by their owners, it appears that the world spends every year at least $600,000,000 for pneumatic tires alone. During the last Automobile Exposition in New York it was pointed out that nearly 5,000,000 automobiles are now in use in the United States. To supply these with tires nearly 80,000 tons of India rubber are needed every year, and the American automobile owners pay every year as much as $200,000,000 for their tire bill.

FINEST IN EXISTENCE

is what Mrs. C. A. Campbell, of Pownans, Ont., says in describing Zam-Buk. She writes: "I blistered my heel badly by wearing new shoes. Some dye from my stocking got into it and caused a sore. It was extremely painful and for a week I could not get on. Then I heard of Zam-Buk and commenced using it. It healed my sore and healed my inflammation. It is the finest medicine I have ever used."
