NEWEST STYLE OF BEGGING.

It is to Go Up to a Man in a Restaurant and Ask Him For Dinner.
"The greatest exhibition of nerve I ever saw," said the man who eats in an up town restaurant a good deal, "was put up the other night by a friend of mine who happened to dine with me very unexpectedly and whom I never expect to see again."

"He did not look like the genteel panhandler you meet on Fifth Avenue with a hard look story and a tale of other days. As he walked into the restaurant on Thirty-fourth street where I was dining no one would have thought that he was going to do what he did. His clothes, to be sure, did not fit the place, but they had been good ones when they were new. He was middle aged."

"I was just preparing to devour my steak when he came rather hesitatingly toward my table. When he reached it, he pulled out the vacant chair opposite me and sat down. Then I saw him take up the card and noticed that his fingers shook a little, although he had not been drinking. In a moment he touched me on the arm and in a quiet voice said:

"I beg your pardon, but would it be too much to ask you to buy me something to eat?"
"For a minute I didn't speak. I was so surprised at getting such a request in the kind of a restaurant I was in that I didn't know what to do. Then I looked down the aisle and saw my waiter heading for my table, the usual smirk on his expansive countenance."

"Give your order quick," I said as the waiter came up. Then I went on with my dinner.
"Give me a beefsteak rare, fried potatoes, lettuce, then some black coffee and a piece of mince pie," said my guest in a voice that seemed strangely composed. After the waiter had gone the man put down the dinner card, looked at me for a moment and then said: "I suppose you think I'm a good one, but I'm actually starving. I haven't had a thing to eat since yesterday noon. I've begged, borrowed and been tempted to steal even to get something to eat, but it was no use. I had to do something or go plumb crazy."

You think it's funny, I know, that I struck this place, but if I'd have struck a beefsteak joint or anything under this it's dollars to daughtens that the kind of man that eats in them would have turned me down hard."

"The man was ravenously hungry. When he got through, the platter was as clean as I ever saw one. He never tried to continue the conversation. While the waiter was getting his coffee I saw him figure up the price."

"It's going to be $1.25," he said.
"I know," I said, and when I thought none was looking I passed the money under the table. When he got it, he said, "Thank you," and I think his voice kind of shook. He took the check from the waiter and without another word went out, paying at the desk as he passed."

On Keeping Out Flowers.
A woman who has given much thought and care to flowers gives some valuable suggestions for preserving their beauty as long as possible after cutting. She says:

The ends of the stems of all flowers should be cut off before they are placed in water. It is better to strip the leaves from that part of the stem which will be immersed.
Do not allow the ends of the stems to rest on the bottom of the vase.
In cutting the ends snap them off at right angles to the stalk.
Change the water each day, and at the same time again cut the ends of the flower stems.

Do not place flowers near or under lights, gas or lamp, when it can be avoided.
Mignonette is generally grown in a cool house and for this reason often droops when first placed in a heated room. It is well to put it in the ice box, in water, for a time, when it will revive, "harden" and, if properly cared for each day, last a long time.

Do not allow the ends of the stems to be placed in water with the chill off until the stems have become filled and are then allowed to stand in an ice chest or very cool place for a time. Roses will occasionally revive if placed in ice water, always with the ends of the stems previously cut.

Never place cut flowers in a draft or in sunlight.

Hope For Baldheads.

The gold cure for baldness is the latest thing, says the Philadelphia Record. This treatment is being given by a little German doctor who lives in Cherry street, and he is building up quite a large practice in his specialty, particularly among women, who are always less skeptical than men. The loss of hair, he says, is due to a germ that gets under the scalp. Of course there is nothing new in this theory, but his method of eradicating the evil is decidedly novel. He claims that the only thing that will effectually exterminate the germs of baldness is an injection of bichloride of gold under the scalp, and that is the basic principle of his treatment.

A Convenient Boundary Line.
Under an act passed at the last session of congress the Virginia-Tennessee boundary line has been fixed in the middle of the main street of Bristol. There is a car line in the street, and passengers on opposite sides of a car now ride in different states. The marriage of minors, forbidden in Virginia, may be performed on the south side of a car. A Virginia criminal on the south side of the street is safe from arrest, should he so insist, until regulation papers can be obtained from Tennessee.

Growing Children in Summer

Thrive Wonderfully on Malt Breakfast Food

Mothers who use Malt Breakfast Food in summer for their children call it a family friend. It keeps the growing child in perfect health; it nourishes the body and keeps the bowels regular. Malt Breakfast Food being predigested, is easily absorbed by the system, quiets the inflamed and irritated stomach and gives the little ones restful sleep. All children thrive on Malt Breakfast Food. At all grocers.

An Irish orator speaking of his native land said: "Ireland's cup of misery has been overflowing for years and is not yet full."

The mother who would be horrified at the thought of letting her daughter wander away to a strange country without guide or counsel, yet permits her to enter that unknown land of womanhood without counsel or caution. Then, in utter ignorance, the maiden must meet physical problems whose solution will affect her whole future life. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has been well named "God-send to women." It corrects irregularities and imparts such vigorous vitality to the delicate womanly organs, as fits them for their important functions. Many a nervous, hysterical, peevish girl has been changed to a happy young woman after the use of "Favorite Prescription" has established the sound health of the organs peculiarly feminine.

Every woman should own a copy of the People's Common Sense Medical Advisor, sent free on receipt of 31 cent stamp to pay expense of mailing and customs. The same book of 1008 pages in substantial cloth for 50 stamps. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

How Catarrh Poisons the System

Few people realize the vast amount of ill health that arises from the absorption of catarrhal poisons into the system. Langour, sleeplessness, loss of appetite, indigestion and many other discomforts are caused by catarrh. But to know this is only half. Catarrh is a most deadly disease, and affects more than 90 per cent. of the people to-day. It undermines health and if unchecked, leads to the grave. Consumption can be traced back in most instances to a bad cold or catarrh that was neglected. Don't court this while you can, insure yourself at once against it by inhaling Catarrhoxone, a pleasant antiseptic medication that is inhaled into the lungs, nasal passages, throat and bronchial tubes where it kills disease germs and prevents their development. Catarrhoxone heals inflamed surfaces, relieves congestion, clears the head and throat, aids expectoration and absolutely cures Catarrh and Bronchitis. Quick relief, cure guaranteed, pleasant to use. ### WHAT COLOR TELLS IN HORSES.

Arabs Believe the Chestnut Is the Strongest and Swiftest.

Whether or not a horse's color is an indication of his breeding and powers of endurance is a much disputed question. The color theory doubtless originated among the Arabs, for centuries famous as horsemen. Its exponents say that it is the result of constant observation and long study, but many competent horsemen decide it is a superstition.
Be this as it may, the chestnut is the Arab ideal of perfection. In this connection it is significant that the majority of successful race horses have been chestnut in color. Chestnuts also seem to have carried off the greatest number of honors in the show ring. The Arabs, like the dictionary, make but little distinction between the chestnut and the bay and consider the latter color about as desirable as the former. The dictionary defines bay as a shade of chestnut.

Horses of a rich seal brown are good to look upon, but among the Arabs are very few of this color. They are considered lacking in hardihood, prone to sickness, with little or no endurance. Roan horses are by many regarded as very hardy, but all horsemen are not of this opinion, and, as the race horse trainers express it, the roan color indicates a cold cross somewhere in the breeding.

The black horse is, in the American mind, suggestive of the funeral, which possibly accounts for some of the prejudice against it. A black horse is a nightmare to his groom, for his coat shows the slightest speck of dust or dirt, and a little gust of wind often spoils hours of hard grooming. When a black horse has been exposed to the sun and weather for some days, his coat fades to a rusty, washed out color.

Piebald and skewbald horses attract too much attention to the rider or driver to be considered quite the thing and, like the white horse, remind one of the sawdust ring. A mixed coat is a pretty strong indication of low breeding.

There is an ancient tale of a band of Arabs being pursued by their enemies which sums up their theory about a horse's color. Among the fleeing band was a man with unusually long legs. He was from time to time he would describe to his leader the horses ridden by the enemy.

"What manner of horses do they ride?"

"Then there is no need of haste."

"At the noon halt the leader again asked: "What manner of horse do they ride now?"

"Bay horses."

"Then we must ride harder."

A few hours later the leader asked, "Are they horse again?"

"They ride chestnuts."

"Then we ride for our lives."

A Spider's Instinct.

A correspondent sends us a remarkable instance of adaptation of instinct in a trapdoor spider. Says the writer: "A friend of mine noticed near his camp a trapdoor spider ran in front of him and popped into its hole, pulling the lid down as it disappeared. The lid seemed so neat and perfect a circle that the man stooped to examine it and found, to his astonishment, that it was a sixpence. There was nothing but silk thread covering the top of the coin, but underneath mud and silk threads were coiled on and shaped corners (as usual). The coin had probably been swept out of the tent with rubbish."

Commenting on this, a contributor to Nature says: "As is well known, the doors of 'trapdoor spiders' burrows are typically made of flattened pellets of earth stuck together with silk or other adhesive material. The unique behavior of the spider in question showed no little discrimination in her part touching the suitability as to size, shape and weight of the object selected to fulfill the purpose for which the sixpence was used."

Some Sayings of Napoleon.

You know my army; it is an ulcer that would eat me up if I stopped giving it other food.

You have made great use of algebra in all your campaigns. I seem to recollect that you had strength in it and that you could understand how minus multiplied by minus gives plus. I have applied this rule fairly well—Germany minus Austria minus Prussia minus Italy minus—but you must allow that I make a fine plus.

Our textbook told you and me that mass multiplied by velocity gives force in action. I have what makes mass; I shall not fail in velocity, and all will be over before the sunset. The days are short in Russia when the sun shines. I shall fight two or three battles if he will stop to meet me.

The Cause of His Awkwardness.

He—At last we are alone, and we have an opportunity to speak. I have been seeking this moment for days and days, for I have something to say to you.

She—Go on, Mr. Harkins.

He—I will, Miss Jones, you perhaps have not noticed that at times I have been constrained, uneasy, even awkward, in your presence, that I have had something on my mind that I felt I must say to you?

She (softly)—Yes.

He—That constraint, that awkwardness, Miss Jones, was due to—due to—

She—Go on, Mr. Harkins.

He—Was due to the fact that I feared you were not aware that I am engaged to your mother.

Savages and Marriage.

Savage man is almost everywhere a marrying man. Often he is a very much married man. He abhors the single state. Old maids and old bachelors are rare in all savage and barbarous communities. The idea is to marry early and sometimes also to marry too often. Here is one point of difference, and a notable one, between uncivilized and civilized societies.

The Cloud.

He—There, dear, after toiling and planning for years we have at last been able to buy this beautiful home, and you ought to be perfectly happy.

She—But I'm not.

He—What's the matter?

She—I know we shall never be able to sell it.

WONDERS OF THE NERVES.

Unmistakable Proof That Many Serious Ills Begin With Derangement of the Nervous System—The Astonishing Success of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

It is only in recent years that physicians have come to understand the nervous system, and to recognize that many diseases which affect the head, heart, lungs, stomach and other organs are due to an impoverished and exhausted condition of the nerves. Over-work, worry, care, anxiety and severe mental strain are sure to be followed by headache, neuritis, dizziness, sleeplessness, heart-trouble, indigestion, and serious functional disorders. Gradually the symptoms grow worse; pains and aches increase, and one organ after another gives evidence of derangement, until finally there comes collapse of the nerves and prostration or paralysis.

The family physician seldom gets at the cause of these ailments. He gives a powder for headache, some form of opium to cause sleep, or a stimulant to whip up the debilitated system. Such treatment is only of temporary benefit, and the trouble soon returns in an aggravated form. The tired brain, the worn-out nerves, the wasted strength must be nourished and built up before nature can have power to drive out disease. No prescription was ever filled that can do this so thoroughly as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. Mrs. D. W. Crossberry, 168 Richmond street west, Toronto, Ont., states:

"My daughter, who sews in a white goods manufactory, got completely worn down by the steady confinement and close attention required at her work. Her nerves were so exhausted, and she was so weak and debilitated, that she had to give up work entirely, and was almost a victim of nervous prostration."

"Hearing of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, she began to use it, and was benefited from the very first. It proved an excellent remedy in restoring her to health and strength. After having used four boxes she is now working again, healthy and happy, and attributes her recovery to the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food."

It is only a few years since Dr. Chase's Nerve Food first became known in Canada, and now it is universally acknowledged by doctors, as well as others, to be of unsurpassed value as a thorough restorative for weakened and run-down systems, and for all nervous prostration. It is possible that you have erred, as have many others, and used a wrong treatment. If you would be healthy and strong use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food regularly and persistently, and it will make you so; 50 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmundson, Bates & Company, Toronto.

It is never too late to mend, but sometimes it is time wasted.

THE KIDNEYS AND THE SKIN.

In the spring, the kidneys have much to do. If they are weak or torpid, they will not do it well, and the skin will be pimply or blotchy. That is telling the story in a few words. Hood's Sarsaparilla strengthens and stimulates the kidneys, cures and prevents pimples, blotches and all cutaneous eruptions.

Don't fail to take it.
