Kathryn Hutchinson can say of her own life, "Truth is strang-er and nicer than fiction." She was born in Montpelier, Vt., and had she followed her father's wishes would have gone to Smith College when she graduated from the high school, and in that case would probably have only a perfectly ordinary life. But feeling that she could make something of her voice, she persuaded her father to allow her to go to Boston and study singer in the Unitarian Church at Roxbury, her next, of a decidedly differen sort, in the chorus of "The Show Girl." The third step in her musical caree was a sort of a one-act drama in Kathryn's private life which should be entitled "From Chorus Girl to Leading Woman in One Night."
