This spring a couple of registered letters disappeared from Vesta postoffice, and Deputy Inspector Maloney, of London, came up to inquire into the matter. The result of the investigation is that Morley Puncheon has been called on by Inspector Hopkirk to pay Messrs. Sheehan and Young the amount they lost in their letters, because of the imperfect security for registered letters in Vesta postoffice.—Paisley Advertiser.

The Sacred Congregation of Rites of the Roman Catholic Church has issued a decree prohibiting women from taking part in the music of divine services, either in solos or in chorus. The prohibition is thought to apply more particularly to the Roman Catholic Church in France, where actresses are frequently employed to sing solos in church. The Roman Catholic authorities in London have not as yet been notified officially concerning this decree. It is thought that it will apply to all, but distinctively Roman Catholic countries, as special privileges are generally allowed to the church in countries where it is in a missionary state. This decree is not entirely a new one. It has been strictly observed for many years past in Quebec, and in the archdiocese of Cologne in Germany. It has never been made a general decree applicable to all the churches throughout the world, but if orders came from Rome forbidding women to sing in the Canadian churches it would be impossible to carry on the musical services at St. Peter's Cathedral and St. Mary's Church in the accustomed way. If this should be done it will cause a considerable shaking up in Roman Catholic choir and make harder work for the choir leaders.

A LA "MILLENNIUM." A New England Minister's Comparison

A peculiar remark made by a minister at a New England dinner caused some comment. He was being served for the first time with Grape-Nuts Food. He looked up and asked what it was, and being told, said: "The might have named it Millennium." The hostess, a lady on the editorial staff of the Boston Watchman, further remarks:

"Since the 'Millennium' came to our cuisine we have no further occasion to take into our stomachs the masses of pasty, partly-cooked food that we used before Grape-Nuts came. I speak directly of myself. I have been for a long time a victim of gastric indigestion, brought on by steady mental work and a lack of proper food. I passed sleepless nights and work in the day time was exceedingly difficult. Many spells of vertigo came on and my nerves and temper were in anything but a normal condition. I finally had three successive night attacks and I verily thought the end had come. I would throw out at midnight the lunch of Scotch porridge eaten the noon previous, unchanged except that it had turned intensely bitter. Violent vomiting continued for eight or ten hours and the after-exhaustion was all but deadly. I could plainly see that utter break down was ahead of me. Just at this time I was led to eat Grape-Nuts, and I found the food cure. I quickly gained strength and flesh and my gastric troubles were relieved and my sleep sweet again. Aside from the powerful nutritive value of Grape-Nuts Food, do you know that it imparts its delicate nutritive flavor to almost any dish that it is added to? For instance, a spoonful or two stirred into a bread pudding before baking gives it a marvelous flavor, far superior to spices, also a little cooked custard for lunch or supper, not only adds special relish, but special sustenance." Mrs. L. S. Goodwin

MURDERED BY ROBBERS

Railway Watchman Shot in the Eye—Escape of a Murderer Who Had Had Three Trials.

Marshall, Mo., Sept. 7.—H. H. Mowrey, night operator of the Chicago and Alton Railroad, was held up last night by three masked robbers. While the men were rifling the station money drawers, Night Watchman Augur appeared, and pointing his pistol through the partly open door, commanded the men to surrender. He was immediately shot in the eye by one of the robbers and died soon after. The robbers escaped.

MURDERER ESCAPES.

New York, Sept. 7.—William Bullock, a negro, who had been tried three times for the murder of Chief of Police James Welsch, of Red Bank, N. J., and who was waiting a fourth trial, escaped from the Monmouth county jail at Freehold some time last night. Bullock tunneled through the concrete floor of his cell to an area-way underneath, while confederates from the outside managed to make a hole through the wall of the jail, which enabled him to reach the open air. A large posse of deputies is searching the surrounding country.
