Seeing Week-End Market With Aunt Maria's Eyes

Saturday was the time to buy maple syrup, if it was a question of quantity and price. Compared with previous days since the season opened, the old Covent Garden square was literally flooded with it. And the price, almost without exception, three dollars a gallon.

Talking to the young farmer guardian of a milk-can of syrup at $3 a gallon, one woman bemoaned the fact that she had purchased her season's supply the first day of the "Big Storm."

"And you did well," was the surprising answer of young farmer. "You mean I did well to spend a dollar and a half more than I needed to?" asked the woman, suspicion in her voice that someone was having a joke at her expense.

"I mean exactly what I said—that you did well," repeated young farmer. "You got syrup that was worth that much more when you got the first run of the season. Of course, I want to sell mine, and it looks as if I'm going to, but a fellow might as well tell the truth about these things."

In any case, superior as is the first run, there was no reason to quarrel with the flavor or thickness of much that was offered on the week-end market.

Nothing like having a perfectly good alibi. Something was said to a vendor about the appalling price of onions at 25 cents a quart.

"No wonder," he said, "considering all the distance they come." "You don't mean those seasoned onions are imported from Florida, too?" said Aunt Maria, her eye on a big measure of spinach not far away, and the tomatoes offered in boxes.

"Don't grow them there," said Mr. Gardner. "These onions come all the way from New Zealand. It costs about 16 cents to get a quart of onions here."

"Then the public pays for the freight and not for the onions?" said the market lady.

"It about comes to that," replied the vendor.

An opportunity immediately presented itself for Aunt Maria to show off her knowledge. Right nearby was another seller of onions and sundries.

"How much are your onions?" she asked. "Twenty-five cents a quart."

"Oh," she commented, "you ship them from New Zealand?" "Ship them?" exclaimed the farmer. "Nothing. Grow them myself."

"Nothing? Of course, from New Zealand," he said, "but he was equal to the task. These are greener, he said, mine are properly ripened."

Insisted Aunt Maria, "you must like well on them, compared with the man in the next rig, when you don't have to pay freight amounting to 16 cents a quart to get them to London."

Not a moment's hesitation seemed necessary to think up the answer. "You see, he didn't have all the trouble of drying 'em," said Mr. Farmer.

Poultry was more plentiful than for several weeks, and there was at least one lordly turkey at 35 cents a pound that would nobly grace a festive Easter board.

On the whole, the price of "chickens" was a bit more reasonable—about 40 cents a pound, it was discovered on consulting the scales in the corner, and excellent quality poultry at that.

Sells "Drawn" Bird. Isn't there a city bylaw prohibiting the selling of drawn birds? The first drawn bird seen there in required to keep the line in order in the forenoon hours of the sale when the choicest wares were still in stock. In any case, one policeman had his hands full, and the volunteer staff of saleswomen experienced one of the biggest rush days in their lives.

When the shop was filled to overflowing it was necessary to close the doors to give customers and those in charge a chance. The back door became an exit, and "admittance only" the order in front. Again and again it was necessary to repeat the "full house" performance.

The sale continued until 4 o'clock or later, and when returns have all been totaled up it is expected there will be a gratifying amount to be applied to the fund for much-needed renovation of the Wellington street residence.

Mrs. A. G. Calder, convener of the residence committee, was general convener, and amongst those assisting her were Mesdames E. Yeates, J. Brown, Taylor, John Macpherson, Watson, William Boyd, Lamb and the Misses Sutherland, Elliott, Moore and Vickery.

DOMINION FEDERATION IS LEADING QUESTION

Programs Out For Ontario Home-School Convention—Dr. MacGregor Speaks.

Programs have been received in London for the 3rd annual convention of the Ontario Federation of Home and School Clubs, to be held in the assembly hall of Knox College, Toronto, April 18, 19 and 20.

An important matter coming up for discussion will be the formation of a Dominion federation, and Harry Charlesworth, president of the Canadian Teachers' Association, is quoted as follows on the subject:

"With regard to the suggestion for a Dominion federation, I would personally favor such a scheme, for I am fully convinced that unless the people of Canada are awakened to the supreme need of education our country will never take the place which it should occupy amongst the peoples of the earth. Furthermore, the fact that education in Canada is controlled by the provincial authorities makes it more difficult to create a national sentiment in its favor. I do not wish to be misunderstood—I am not criticizing in any way the wisdom of provincial control of education; my object is solely to emphasize the necessity of the fullest provincial co-operation so that common policies may be adopted as far as practicable."

As far as British Columbia is concerned we are this year co-operating with the Parent-Teacher Federation in their attempt to form a provincial federation. There is no doubt that this will be accomplished at Easter, and this should make it easier for British Columbia to then affiliate with the Dominion federation."

Rev. Dr. D. C. MacGregor is the only Londoner who will speak, and by request is delivering the address on "Optical Aspects of Recreation," which he gave at the educational convention for Western Ontario held the end of February under the auspices of the London Union Mothers' Clubs. Miss Alma Binzel of Cornell University is giving a couple of lectures on child training, and among other speakers are Hon. R. H. Grant, minister of education, Sir Robert Falconer, Dr. John Waugh, president of the O. E. A., Prof. T. S. Soares, University of Chicago; Miss Metzner, supervisor of special classes; Dr. F. W. Merchant, Prof. J. L. Morrison, M.A., Queen's University; J. T. M. Anderson, director of education among the new Canadians, Regina, Sask.

Miss Turnbull of Guelph is a visitor in town, the guest of Mrs. A. G. Calder.

Mrs. Craig of Toronto will be a visitor in town in the near future, the guest of Mrs. Mara, Waterloo street.

After an absence of three years, Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Benbow have returned to London, and will reside at their home on Elliott street.

Miss Gwendolyn Edmonds has returned home after a delightful visit in Detroit, where she was a guest in the home of her uncle, Rev. R. S. Hannah.

Miss Grace Blackburn who addressed the Women's Canadian Club in Chatham last week, is in Windsor, where she is speaking at the Music, Literature and Art Club of that city.

The date set for the graduation dance of Western University given by artists '23 is April 24, and will be held in the Oxford street gym, which is familiar to the graduating classes as the scene of many former parties.

Mrs. D. L. McCrae will go to Teeswater on Wednesday, where she has been asked to deliver an address under the auspices of the Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church.

Rev. Jabez Edmonds and Mrs. Edmonds, Witley, near South London, announce the engagement of their daughter Margaret Gwendolyn to Mr. George Tennant White of Windsor, Ontario, the marriage to take place quietly, the end of April.

Following the joint Easter thanksgiving meeting of the London Women's Missionary Auxiliaries of the Presbyterian Church, to be held in St. Andrew's Hall Tuesday afternoon next, April 11, the executive of the Presbyterian W. M. S. is entertaining the speaker of the occasion, Mrs. John MacGillivray of Toronto, president of the Dominion Council, at a down-town tea in the First Presbyterian Church, the ladies of the First Church looking after the serving.

A quiet wedding took place at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the

Kippen-Croden Wedding of Saturday Smartest Society Event of Spring

An outstanding society event of the spring season was the Kippen-Croden wedding, which took place Saturday afternoon in the First Methodist Church. It was the occasion of the marriage of Gladys Marie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Croden, to Major William Harold Kippen, D. S. O., M. C. and bar, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Kippen of Toronto, Rev. R. D. Hamilton of Burlington performing the ceremony.

Emphatically at 3:30 o'clock the bridal party entered the church, which was lovely with fragrant flowers. Tall Easter lilies intermingled with palms filled the choir loft, surrounded with clusters of ferns. Bright daffodils were caught to the guests' pews with fluffy bows of tulle.

Preceding the bride up the aisle to the strains of the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin, played by Mr. A. D. Jordan, came the bride party, headed by the matron of honor, Mrs. R. S. Grindley, Chicago, and the tiny flower girl, Miss Theresa Purdon. The bride was charming in her graceful wedding gown of white molly crepe, simply made, and falling in straight lines to the uneven hemline. It was caught only at the waist with a soft girle of pearls, repeated again on the hem. A veil of rose point lace fell from a coronet of pearls and orange blossoms. A shower bouquet of Ophelia roses, lily of the valley and orchids, with streamers of tulle caught with clusters of pansies, completed the costume. The matron of honor's gown was likewise blue, caught at the waist with a girle of blue velvet flowers, the skirt falling in graceful drapes. Her hat was orchid mohair, with a facing of blue to match her gown, and trimmed with French flowers, and she carried a colonial bouquet of sweet peas, orchids, forget-me-nots and roses, with a shower of panicles falling from the streamers.

The flower girl was frocked in pink silk net, with tiny frills and pink ribbons, caught with rosebuds, and wore a hat of pink silk, tied with a large bow of net under the chin, her socks and slippers were pink, and she carried a colonial bouquet of many-colored blooms. Major John Gillespie, M.C., of Toronto acted as best man, and Mr. Arthur Lewis of Toronto, Col. Eric Reid, D.S.O., Col. Bartlett Rogers, C.M.G., D.S.O., M.C., of Toronto, and Mr. James Croden, brother of the bride, were ushers.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Central avenue. The rooms were effectively decorated with spring flowers, and the table, centered with the wedding cake, was lovely with pink roses and sweet peas, gracefully arranged.

Mrs. Croden, mother of the bride, who received with the happy couple, wore a black gown of canton crepe, embroidered in jet beads, and a black hat.

For going away the bride donned a black wrap with a carcel collar, and a smart henna hat. Mr. and Mrs. Kippen will spend their honeymoon in North Carolina.

The groom's gift to the bride was a handsome bag; to the matron of honor, brilliant shoe buckles, and to the flower girl, a pin, and the ushers, gold penknives.

The out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Kippen and Col. Carson McCormick of Toronto.

Another criticism offered by the speaker was with regard to the obituary notice in "Tommy and Grizel." It was a mistake, she held, to write the sequel to the delightful "Sentimental Tommy." Evidently Barrie realized he had created a character that couldn't grow up to a good end, and he felt that he had to dispense of him in a way to satisfy the conscience.

Mrs. Albright contributed much-appreciated solos. Miss M. McPherson presided, and regretful mention was made of the fact that Miss Helen Grange has tendered her resignation from the presidency owing to the fact that she is leaving the city for a length of time.

A tempting array of home-cooking was offered at the sale held under the auspices of the Princess Patricia Chapter, I. O. O. F. Saturday morning in the old Advertiser Building. Everything was to be found on the attractive tables, including pies, cakes, buns, tarts, jellied meats, pickles, bread and candy. Mrs. Eric Reid, the convener, was assisted by Mrs. Philip, Mrs. Gordon Hunt, Mrs. Gordon Ingram, Mrs. W. W. J. Lince, Mrs. Harvey, Mrs. Gerald Pearson, and Miss Edith of the chapter funds.

Members of the Women's Missionary Auxiliaries of the Presbyterian Church in the city are looking forward with much interest to hearing the president of the Dominion Council, Mrs. John MacGillivray of Toronto, at the joint Easter thanksgiving meeting to be held Tuesday afternoon in St. Andrew's Hall. Mrs. D. C. MacGregor will give the Bible reading, and Mrs. A. Robson will have charge of the music.

Talbot Street Baptist Church, when Violet Gladys, daughter of Mrs. Walter Edwards, Dorchester, was married to George Edward Kemp, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kemp, Egerton street, Rev. Dr. Sowerby officiating. The bride wore a smart gown of navy blue broadcloth with a suit of navy blue and a corsage of roses. Miss Kate Edwards was her sister's bridesmaid, wearing a suit of sand shade and a black moiré hair hat, and a corsage of roses, and Mr. Laurie Bell was best man. Wishing you and the Boxites every success, I remain, IMA TYZER.

Good luck to your Mail-Box garden, Ima Tyzer. Many thanks for the inclosed hospital mite.

PHYLLIS ASKS FOR HELP. Dear Miss Grey,—I am sending you a small box to let you know I think of you sometimes and of all the good things you have done for me. Now, I sent you a letter today and asked you to see if any Boxite had any old clothes I could get to make over for my children, and also if any of them had any cast-off shoes, size 9 or 9. I would be very grateful if I could get some, as we have no money and no work and our baby is very sick. Now, I hope some good person has something they could give me. Now, I have nothing I could send you, but a kind neighbor fetched me in a basket of apples, so I am sending you one as I am sure that living in a city you do not get many. I am also inclosing you a yoke. I hope you like it. It is not very much, but I cannot afford any different now, but when times get better and my hubby has work, I will try and be of some help to you and the mail-box, too. Wishing you every success, PHYLLIS.

Thank you for sending the apples and crocheted yoke, but you should have kept them for yourself, but I did appreciate the little gifts, especially the apples. I am sorry to hear that you are in poor circumstances again, just as things were starting to look bright again. Your name is on file, and anyone wishing to help you may have it from the mail-box corner.

Dear Miss Grey,—I have been a reader of the page for two years, and like it fine. I was reading in the Mail-Box that a lady will send a green suit to any of the readers needing it. I would like to have it, if I am not too late, as it is just my size, and I need it very badly, as I have a large family. I will pay express on it. Thanking you, WILD ROSE.

You are indeed a veteran of the Mail-Box. Wild Rose, and I sincerely hope that you are not too late to receive the suit, but I am afraid there will be a large number of Boxites disappointed, as there have been quite a few requests for it.

THIRTY-SEVEN. P. S.—Would have written to Mother of Four if she had inclosed her address.

Plans a Garden. Dear Miss Grey,—It is quite a while since I have written to my Mail-Box pals, but, nevertheless, I anxiously wait each day for the paper to read the letters. Don't you enjoy this beautiful spring weather. It seems to give one new life after the dreary, cold winter days. While roaming around my lawn this morning I noticed the spring bulbs I am commencing to peep their tiny heads above Mother Earth. I am a great lover of flowers, as I believe many other Boxites are. I am making plans to have a large flower garden this year. I have success with it I shall tell you. Six Children's fund. Boxes next fall and so help to swell the Sick Children's fund. If you haven't some of the flowers I have mentioned, possibly you would send me others. Inclosed find mite for S. C. F.

WANTS A SCOTCH CORRESPONDENT. Dear Miss Grey,—May I become a member of your cozy corner? We have taken The Advertiser for over a year, and I read your page with great interest. I also keep all the hints and recipes.

I have come over to this country from Scotland and just think it a fine country. Now Miss Grey I should like the words of "Margy," "Peggy O'Neil." I should like to get some correspondents among girls from Scotland, or those whose parents are Scotch, if they would write first. Well, I had better stop or you'll be chasing me away. May I call again? I am sending 10 cents for S. C. H. fund. "TRUE SCOT."

Certainly you may join our Mail-Box corner, the more the merrier. Thank you for sending the words for Spring Beauty, and I am sorry that I cannot return the words you have asked for. Thank you for remembering our hospital fund.
