FINE LOVE ROMANCE
In THRILLING FILM
Sweet Story Told in Superb Picture
"The Covered Wagon"

One of the most compelling and primitive love stories ever told on the screen, is embodied in "The Covered Wagon"—Emerson Hough's novel which was pictured by James Cruze for Paramount with a feature cast. The picture will be the feature at the Opera House for three days beginning Monday next.

The romance between Molly Wingate, "the belle of old Liberty town" and young Will Benton, late of Duplan's army in the war with Mexico, with a clouded record which brings about near disaster for the loves of both, is not only beautiful but inspiring. There is all the strength of passion, the rugged charm and the wilderness sweetness that characterized the country in days of '48.

A bitter rival in the character of Sam Woodhull causes untold trouble, but in the end all comes right. The production is one of exceptional massiveness. Thousands of persons appear in the varied scenes, fully one thousand being full-blooded Indians, all descendants of the savages who harassed the wagon trains as they crossed the plains during the rush period of 1849. There are many dramatic scenes, the chief of these being Indian attacks on the wagon trains, a real buffalo hunt and a thrilling prairie fire.
