IF your year's subscription or any portion of it is paid in advance, we thank you. If your subscription is not paid in advance, we will have to stop it without further delay.

Is it good policy for the country consumer to buy from the city department store? Even though in a few instances he stands to gain in dollars and cents, in the long run does it pay? Suppose he were altogether dependent upon the city department store. Think of the inconvenience of such a condition. Or, on the other hand, since some must buy at home, he is forcing the home merchant to put up the prices of such lines of goods as he is purchasing abroad—the limited demand involving the higher price. On this subject the "Maritime Merchant" has the following to say:

"Here are limits beyond which it is impossible to go in buying from far-away stores and still find it profitable, and that limit is reached just as soon as it commences to affect the retail trade of a community. However much they may buy in that way, there are always numerous articles that they must get from the nearby dealer and if they persist in sending the better part of their business away it may happen at last that the local retail man will either have to go out of business or charge high prices for the few articles that he gets an opportunity to sell. In other words, the consumer who thinks he is saving money by buying from catalogue houses is really losing what he saves by having to pay higher prices on the things he buys from the man on whom he depends so much at the corner. Or perhaps the corner convenience disappears altogether and he must go without or depend upon some "small" shop that cannot give him satisfaction.

"Of course this is an extreme case, yet it is a logical possibility of this system of buying. We think the consumer would do well to remember that he owes something to the merchant in his own town. Maybe the merchant is not there expressly for the convenience of consumers, i. e., maybe the merchant is not thinking so much of the convenience he may be to consumers as of the incidental profit there may be in doing business. But he is a convenience, nevertheless, and the people owe it to themselves as well as to him to enable him to be as much a convenience as possible. In any case, it is a good policy to throw as much as possible in the way of the man nearest one; for it is with his that one's interests are most mixed up.

"In one aspect of the case it may be narrow; but in another it is really broad; to give one's very best patronage to the one nearest his own door. The "Made in Canada" idea is good for Canadians; the "Made in Nova Scotia" for Nova Scotians; the "Made in Halifax" for Halifaxians; the "Made in Annapolis" for the folks at home. Like charity, patronage should begin at home, and go abroad only so far as it is necessary that it should reach. For after all, we are more home people than citizens of the particular place in which we live; for the strongest ties are those of the family; we are more citizens of our town than of our province, and of our province than of our Dominion—not that we are any the less Canadian in the strict sense. After that, we are citizens of the Empire, then citizens of the world. There is nothing narrow in this. It is only mutual interests in the last analysis, that binds individuals into political units, whether small or large. And we can consider ourselves in relation to the people nearest us, or to the people far away, as much as we please at the department store to have a claim on the man who runs the "cheap" journals. Perhaps if consumers would get into this way of thinking on the matter they would think less of the bargain they can get a thousand miles away, and more of the interest they can carry right at their own door.

—Yarmouth Herald: A number of "frooly" loily papers are exercising themselves in hot weather over the flag incident, and go so far as to call persons "fools" because they hoist the Stars and Stripes now and then. In our opinion they are the bigger fools who make any such "foolish" allusion. The Stars and Stripes are flying all over London and other English cities, day in and day out, so a correspondent informs us, and the incident passes without notice. If it is foolish to hoist the American flag, is it not just as foolish to hoist the Norwegian, the French, or any other national color? This is done over and over again and the "cheer" of these "fool" journals isn't exercised one bit. Do give us a rest.

—Lord Dunsford has been recalled by the War Department of the English government. Much political capital has been made out of the incident which led to his dismissal and recall. Whether any good results will be the outcome of his attack upon the military organization of Canada the future will determine. At present the only conclusion is that the gallant soldier has rather lost his head, which is not surprising in view of the manner in which he has been "lionized" by his supporters.

—Boston Free Press and Printer: Many an editor has given away his success in free advertising, says an exchange. Would a farmer give away his garden truck, a little here and a little there? Would he part with his chickens or his sheep for a plethora of fatter? No; he would accept the money! And this is just the difference between some farmers and some editors.

—Sewerage Construction. At a meeting of the Town Council held recently, the return of the preceding officer for the recent election to receive money for sewerage purposes was read, showing 13 votes in favor and 11 votes against, giving a majority of two votes in favor of both sewerage and a partial system of sewerage. And it was resolved that the town borrow a sum not to exceed five thousand five hundred dollars for the purpose of constructing and maintaining a sewerage system, and that the necessary debentures be issued under the hands of the Mayor and Town Clerk and the seal of the town, and that the services of an engineer be procured to make plans and specifications for the work.

Local and Special News.

—Mass will be celebrated at St. Alphonse's Church next Sunday at 11 a. m.

—The farm of Capt. John Longmire at the east end of Bridgeport, has been purchased by Mr. John Elliott, of Lawrenceport.

—Mr. William Connell has purchased from Mr. Leslie Fair the property on the corner of Park and Rectory streets, and will occupy the same at once.

—The services of Louis Whitman, engineer, have been procured to make plans and specifications for the construction of the new sewerage system.

—Rochester Democrat and Chronicle: "Does your boy own a toy pistol? If he does you might well read up on tetanus or lockjaw, and find out whether your doctor has a supply of antitoxin on hand."

—LOST, on the road, Saturday, July 23rd, between Fletcher Bay, Paradise, and Bridgeport, a small gold pin with blue stone. The finder will be suitably rewarded by leaving it at this office or at Mr. Bent's.

—The Prize List for the Exhibition of Kings, Annapolis and Hants, has just been issued. It contains a list of $1300 offered in regular and special prizes. Copies may be obtained from the Secretary, Mr. F. J. Porter, Kentville.

—The Camp Meeting at Berwick the Dominion Atlantic Railway will issue Excursion Return Tickets at one first-class fare from all stations to Berwick from August 3rd to 27th inclusive, good to return until August 15th.

—The strike at Sydney has come to an end, and the P. W. A. have been completely vanquished in the contest. The company have reinstated most of the strikers in their old places, but at the same wages as they had received previous to the strike.

—The announcement in our advertising columns of the tea-meeting to be held at Port George on Aug. 17th will be read with general interest, as the success which has attended similar gatherings has made them events of importance. A very attractive day's outing is offered. Note the date.

—The Court House in Kentville, where the Robinson murder trial was going on, was struck by lightning last Wednesday evening during the trial and the cupola of the building was much damaged. It caused a thrilling sensation among those in the Court House at the time.

—The plans of the alterations of the Bank Building for the Union Bank of Halifax will be in their office in a few days and will be open for tender. The General Manager was in town looking into the matter, and the plans have been approved of and the alterations will take place as soon as possible.

—Avard Longley Bishop, of Lawrenceport, has recently been honored by an appointment on the teaching staff at Yale, in the position of instructor in Economics, which carries with it free tuition in the post-graduate course and a salary of $700. This is in addition to a scholarship of $600 awarded Mr. Bishop this year.

—At the July meeting of the W. M. A. S. in connection with the Baptist Church, the members presented their retiring president, Mrs. E. C. Young, with a very handsome bible, accompanied by an address, as an appreciation of her services as their leader the past seven years. Mrs. J. W. Peters was elected as the new president.

—Miss Bertha Hebb, a former teacher in Kentville, who returned from Africa, where she went with the Canadian teachers' contingent, is returning to Africa this month, where she will work as an inspector for one of the school districts in the Transvaal. She was accompanied by Miss Crowe, of Lunenburg, who has secured a position as teacher.

—Robinson, the condemned murderer, who left the Court room at Kentville with such an air of bravado, has completely broken down, and it is expected that he will make a full confession. On the morning after the trial, the jailer found him weeping piteously. He said his wife had appeared to him in the night, and after standing gazing upon him some minutes had approached and kissed him upon the forehead, after which she slowly withdrew and vanished from his sight.

—A deaf and dumb boy named Smith, who was walking on the railway track at Yarmouth last Wednesday afternoon, was struck and killed by the "Bluenose" train from Halifax. The engineer had noticed him on the track and the warning whistle was repeatedly blown, but apparently the boy did not have any idea of the approaching danger. When the engine crew realized that he was paying no attention and the train was brought to a stop it was too late. Smith had been a pupil at the deaf and dumb institution at Halifax for some time, and was about 17 years of age.

—The Garden Party, Tea and Fancy Sale in progress this afternoon and evening, under the auspices of the ladies of St. James Church, on the grounds about the house of Mr. Lewis Whitman, Granville Street, promises to be an unusually pleasant affair. It is really an out-door tea, and for the modest sum of a "Quarter" each, all and any will be served tea any time after five o'clock. On the hot after-noon nothing could be more pleasant than the evening meal in these well shaded grounds. In addition there will be a small table of fancy articles for sale, and ice-cream and home-made candy may be obtained at all times during the afternoon and evening. An especial feature is music by the Italian orchestra. Don't fail to attend.

—Yet another tea-meeting is on the tapis, and one that our readers will all well make a note of. On Wednesday, Aug. 24th, the members of Young's Cove purpose trying to even out the mammoth gathering they had two years ago. This time they will call it an "Economic" dinner and tea-meeting, thereby suggesting that their friends and well-wishers will give them the same liberal patronage as on the former occasion, and thus enable them to finish their church. The last hundred dollars required has been promised by a Society in England, but about two hundred more must be raised before this can be claimed. Keep a look out for the advertisement, and note the date. Patronage will insure a splendid drive to and fro, and plenty to sustain the inner man when there.

HYMENEAL. WHITE—SAFEAN. A quiet but pretty home wedding, with Mr. Winard White, of Young's Cove, and Miss Alma Safean, of Paradise West (and for the past two school terms of Phinney Cove) as contracting parties, took place at the residence of Mr. Chas. Safean, Paradise West, the home of the bride, on Wednesday last. Owing to the illness of the bride's sister, only immediate friends of the family were present.

Shortly after 11 o'clock, the bride, daintily gowned in white muslin and leaning on the arm of her father, entered the room to the strains of the wedding march. Miss Delap acted presiding at the organ. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. E. Underwood, Rector of Bridgeport.

After luncheon was served the newly wedded couple were driven away amid showers of rice and the customary tokens, followed by the best wishes of all present. Mr. and Mrs. White will at once take up their residence at Young's Cove. —Com.

Yes, Quality is Important. It's very important in a sewing machine—quality means good work—the kind you take pride in showing to your neighbor. Quality stands for more than beautiful work and an attractive outside appearance. QUALITY GOES BELOW THE SURFACE and is just as apparent in the least as in the greatest part. The White has built up a reputation for quality work that is world wide. No trouble at all to show what it can do. JAS. A. GATES & CO. General Agents. Middleton, N. S.
