

TO-DAY

In medicines, as in every other necessity, the public is satisfied with nothing but the best! This explains the ever-increasing demand for Zam-Buk. Not only is this great balm the best household remedy to-day, but it is also the most economical.

Zam-Buk's superiority is due to the fact that it is all medicine, containing none of the coarse animal fats or harsh mineral drugs found in ordinary ointments. As such, the medicinal properties are so highly concentrated that they contain the maximum amount of healing, soothing and antiseptic power, so that a little of this balm goes a long way.

Another reason why Zam-Buk is most economical, it will keep indefinitely and retain to the last its strength and purity. Best for skin diseases and injuries, blood-poisoning and piles. All dealers, 50c. box.

Death of Robert Bent Young

On Saturday evening, January 4th, the death occurred at Young's Cove, of Robert Bent Young, after a lingering illness of upwards of two years. Mr. Young was one of the best known men along the shore. He was born at Young's Cove in August 1877, being the eldest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Daniel W. Young. By occupation he was a fisherman and as such, well known in the ports of St. John, Digby and Yarmouth. In October 1902, he married Winnifred Lee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Foster Farnsworth, of "Hay Side," and of this union has been born one daughter and three sons, all of whom with the widow, survive him. As an indication of the place held in the affections of his large circle of friends, there stands upwards of two years of unflinching kindness the equal of which is rarely seen, and for this the widow desires to express on her own behalf, as well as that of her husband, their deepest appreciation. In September, 1917, the deceased went to the Victoria General Hospital, Halifax for consultation and treatment but after careful watching of his case it was found nothing could be done to permanently arrest the progress of his affliction. After his return home, in the intervening months, he suffered much until his death on Saturday evening last. The funeral took place on Monday from the little church of St. Peter by the Sea, Young's Cove, with interment in the cemetery near the school house where he went as a boy, the services in the church and at the grave being conducted by the Rev. E. Underwood rector of the parish.

The deceased had reached the advanced age of 89 years, the immediate cause of her death being heart trouble. She is survived by one sister, Miss Helen Quirk, with whom she resided, and two brothers John and James Quirk, both of Bridgetown. The funeral took place Tuesday afternoon with interment in the Riverside cemetery, the services being conducted by Rev. D. K. Grant, pastor of the Bridgetown Presbyterian Church of which the deceased was a member.

Death of Mrs. Louisa Shaw

After an illness of three months, Mrs. Louisa, wife of the late Thomas Shaw, passed away with the old year at the home of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Oliver Ruffee, Tuesday night, aged 89 years. Her husband had predeceased her 14 years ago. She was a member of the Baptist church and highly respected by a large circle of friends. She is survived by one son Henry Shaw, of Denver, Col. She also leaves one sister, Mrs. Peaks, of Somerville, Mass. The funeral took place Thursday afternoon with interment in the Riverside cemetery, the services at the house and at the grave being conducted by Rev. M. S. Richardson, assisted by Rev. Dr. Jost. THE MONITOR'S NEW FOREMAN

Short Sketch of 'One of Bridgetown's Heroes'

Mr. Harry E. Carter, who took charge of the MONITOR'S mechanical department, Dec. 30th, is one of Bridgetown's returned men who has been through several severe engagements and has experienced a lot of hardships in the defence of his King, his country, and the people at home.

He is also a good printer as well as a good soldier. Mr. Carter, who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Carter, of Bridgetown, began work on the MONITOR in the capacity of "printer's devil" in the spring of 1910, working here until 1912.

In the fall of 1913, he joined the Annapolis Spectator staff, returning to the MONITOR office about a year later, remaining here until he enlisted 29th January, 1916, joining the 112 Battalion. After six months' drilling in Canada he went overseas July 27th, 1916, as a drummer. He proceeded to France, in the spring of 1917 in a draft for the Royal Canadian Regiment, a member of the infantry. He was slightly gassed several times, but "kept going" until the battle of Passchendaele Ridge where he got wounded Nov. 15th, 1917. The muscle of his left leg was badly shattered and he also received a large wound in the left thigh, being at the same time thrown about 10 feet in the air from the concussion of the large shell which caused the shrapnel wound.

It was owing to this wound that he was sent to England and finally to Canada, arriving home October 10th. After spending a short time at home he returned to Halifax and was discharged on Nov. 11th, the day on which the Armistice was signed.

He was asked by the manager to join the MONITOR staff as soon as he was discharged and therefore went to work Wednesday morning, Nov. 13th, taking charge Dec. 30th as already stated.

The above cut, which was made from a snapshot, does not show his three years' service stripes, or wound stripe.

We are pleased to be able to give this deserving hero steady employment and the honour of being placed in charge of the shop in which he learned his trade.

It is the duty of all of us who were too old, or from other causes, not able to fight, to show our appreciation by employing returned men and we trust, that both the federal and local governments, will not only fill present vacancies with returned men, but give them a preference whenever possible.

During 1917, 14,361 persons arrived at Boston from Nova Scotia, while in 1918 only 1304 were recorded. This was due largely to the discontinuance of the passenger service from Yarmouth.

Feeding Dairy Cattle

The amount of bran, middlings, and cottonseed meal now on the market falls so far short of the requirements that the farmer has grave difficulty in properly feeding his cows. To meet this situation the manufacturers of proprietary or mixed feeds have put forth great and commendable efforts to stock the market with their products. In addition to these there is to be had a certain amount of wheat screenings and special screenings, mostly weed seeds by the way, but nonetheless good feed when ground. The only feed offered in any quantity that is rich in protein is linseed, or oil meal. Linseed meal is an extremely valuable feed and may be used with good results instead of cotton seed meal.

The Secretary for Agriculture for Nova Scotia, anticipating an acute shortage in the standard feeds, arranged early with the big dealers in New York and Ontario to place a considerable amount of this meal in N. S. This action has already resulted in many dealers and Farmers' Associations being able to buy linseed meal at a fair price. If the demand justifies it, further quantities may yet be obtained, although the Armistice conditions have already resulted in large purchases by Great Britain, Denmark and Holland, in which countries this feed is valued very highly and as a result market prices have increased several dollars per ton.

The Universality of the Telephone

THE loyal citizen backs up home institutions. There is probably no public utility in which the best interests of Nova Scotia are bound up as they are in the telephone. It serves well-nigh universally; it should be supported likewise. Today, one person in every twenty-two in this province actually pays for a telephone. Soon it will be one in ten.

Every telephone subscriber owes it to himself and his community to be a telephone stockholder, to share in the prosperity of this company and to have a voice in its management and operation, thus making it a huge cooperative enterprise.

As an investment for the Nova Scotian, it is unexcelled because its plant and operation are always under his eye, so that he can intimately observe them from day to day.
