

THE PRINTER'S MISCELLANY

as a vehicle of information for printers and publishers, and as a medium through which type foundry, press, paper and ink manufacturers, etc., could, with advantage to themselves, bring their productions to the notice of printers. It circulates very largely in Canada and the United States, and as an advertising medium for any articles used in connection with printing and the kindred arts, has no superior.

Subscription $1.00 per annum—50 cents to apprentices. Advertising rates on page 158.

From Ontario.

The Printer's Miscellany for December is at hand. This monthly, although well known to many Canadian printers, should be known to many more. To printers of the Dominion generally its monthly visits cannot but prove a source of pleasure; whilst to typos acquainted with the Maritime Provinces its appearance is hailed with little short of delight. It has greatly improved since its first appearance, and loses nothing by contrast with many older and more pretentious periodicals published in the interest of the craft. Its annual subscription price is but one dollar, which, considering its merits, is remarkably cheap. At the same time it will be sent to printers' apprentices for fifty cents per annum. This latter feature will, we have no doubt, make it exceedingly popular with the "kids," as it contains many useful hints to young typos—and old ones, too, for that matter—which are worth its subscription price ten times over.—Advertiser, L'Original.

We have before us The Printer's Miscellany for February. It is the eighth number of the first volume of this really excellent journal. We might here say that each number as it appears is an improvement on its predecessor. We feel called upon to specially notice the February number, for we find it not only up to and beyond the previous numbers in its matter and make-up, but the enterprising editor and proprietor has added four pages to its size, making it now a twenty-four page journal. We hope friend Finlay has found a mine of wealth in his Miscellany, and if the members of the "art preservative" are as appreciative as we take them to be, he has. Every printer should have the Miscellany.—Orange Sentinel, Toronto.

From Quebec.

The Printer's Miscellany.—We have received the February number of this useful publication. It has been enlarged to twenty-four pages and contains a great variety of information useful to the craft, and much that will also interest the general public. Its wide circulation makes it an excellent advertising medium.—Pilot, Sorel.

The Printer's Miscellany is the title of a neatly got up magazine of special interest to the craft, published at St. John, N. B. It should be in the hand of every printer who cares to know what his brethren are doing.—Observer, Cowansville.

From Newfoundland.

The Printer's Miscellany for December shows that useful vehicle of pressmen's news to be growing in interest, bulk and value. We do not see why all our local craftsmen should not enjoy, for fifty cents, an annual Miscellany.—Temp. Journal, St. Johns.

From Rhode Island.

The February number of The Printer's Miscellany is received. It is replete with interesting news to the craft, and its articles, original and selected, such as to reflect credit upon the editor. It has now reached its eighth number and has twenty pages of excellent reading matter, all for ten cents or one dollar per year.—Evening Times, Providence.

From Massachusetts.

The Printer's Miscellany comes to us this month enlarged to twenty-four pages; an interesting paper, containing much that is interesting to printers, and every member of the craft should subscribe for it.—Advertiser, Cape Ann.

From Nova Scotia.

We have to acknowledge The Printer's Miscellany in a very improved form. The dress is exceedingly neat and the make-up as pretty as one could wish. Four pages have been added, thus giving the typos of the Dominion a periodical of their own, twenty-four pages, filled with everything that can possibly interest or instruct the craft. The short article on "Specimens" is true to the letter, as the skill of the compositor or job printer is seen, not in what he may turn out, but in what he may turn out with the means at his disposal. The Miscellany is most welcome to our table, and we hope it may have the greatest success possible during the coming year. There is certainly no medium now in existence in Canada better fitted to bring the members of our fraternity together than The Printer's Miscellany.—Sunday Astro.

The Printer's Miscellany for February has come to hand, enlarged to twenty-four pages. This is the eighth number of this tip-top magazine, and we are very glad to know that Mr. Finlay, its publisher (who has long been foreman in the St. John Telegraph office), has received so much support and encouragement as warranted him in extending its borders. It is, so far as we are aware, the only printers' and editors' publication, which has for its only object the interests of its patrons, on the continent, and should be liberally patronized.—Eastern Chronicle, New Glasgow.

From New Brunswick.

The Printer's Miscellany.—We are glad to see the rapid progress which this excellent publication is making. It has again been enlarged by the addition of four pages, making twenty-four pages in all. Its literary merit is of a high order, and in useful information for the craft it is invaluable. Every printer and apprentice should have it. It is supplied to the latter at the nominal price of fifty cents a year.—St. Croix Courier, St. Stephen.

From P. E. Island.

The February number of The Printer's Miscellany comes to us considerably enlarged—four pages being added, making it now a handsome paper of twenty-four pages. The Miscellany is, without doubt, the best paper of the kind published in either the Dominion or the United States. The older it grows the more it improves, and the valuable and abundant information it gives concerning the "art preservative of all arts" demands from the printers of Canada every encouragement and their generous support.—Journal, Summerside.

From New Hampshire.

The Printer's Miscellany, Vol. 1, No. 8, by Hugh Finlay, St. John, N. B., Canada. This is a very neatly printed monthly of twenty-four double-column pages. The typographical execution, as well as the contents, such as will interest all members of the craft who have the taste to appreciate what is excellent.—Daily Union, Manchester.

From Pennsylvania.

The Printer's Miscellany, published at St. John, N. B., contains a leader, a sensible article on "Uniformity in Composition," and many other matters of interest and value to the typographic fraternity. It must prove an excellent advertising medium also for those dealing in printing materials.—Daily Dispatch, Pittsburg.
