

I N D E X.

W.

- Wade*, Mr. his account of the defeat of the Duke of Monmouth's army at Sedgmoor, ii. 315.
- Walpole*, Sir Robert, his love of peace, ii. 631. Horace, a character of him, ii. 631.
- Walsingham*, Sir Francis, not honourably treated by Queen Elizabeth and Lord Burghley, i. 334. 361. His letter to the Earl of Leicester, Governor of the Netherlands, 359. Letters from him to Sir Edward Stafford, Ambassador in France, 361.
- Water Mills*, floating, on the river Loire, i. 69. Other mills at Tarare, 71.
- Wentworth*, Lord, his representation to Queen Mary of the defenceless state of Calais, i. 104. His account of the siege, 109.
- Westmerland*, Countess of, her letter to Secretary Windebank on the troubles in Scotland, ii. 128.
- Wharton*, Philip Duke of, his character, by Sir Benjamin Keen, ii. 636.
- White*, Sir Nicholas, Master of the Rolls in Ireland, his character of Mary Queen of Scots, i. 189.
- William III.* remarks on his conduct in negotiating the partition treaty, ii. 333. Extracts from his letters to Pensionary Heinsius relating to that business, 334. His sentiments on France's renunciation of the partition treaty, 393. His correspondence with the Earl of Sunderland and Lord Somers, relating to a change of the ministry in favour of the Whigs, 443.
- Windebank*, Secretary, orders Lord Conway to fortify Newcastle against the Scots, ii. 146. Informs the Earl of Northumberland that the Scots receive supplies from Sweden, 200.
- Winwood*, Secretary, is ordered by the Earl of Buckingham, in the King's name, to discover Sir Walter Raleigh's expedition to the Spanish Ambassador, i. 398.

Y.

York, minutes of the Great Council of Peers there, in 1540, ii. 208.

F I N I S.