

LETTER—No. 37.

Transit up the Arkansas river, p. 36.—Fort Gibson, 1st regiment United States' Dragoons reviewed, p. 33.—Equipping and starting of Dragoons for the Camanchee country, p. 38, 39.

LETTER—No. 38.

Fort Gibson, p. 40.—Osages, p. 41.—Portraits of Osages, p. 41, pls. 150, 151, 152, 3, 4, 5, 6.—Former and present condition of, p. 43, 44.—Start for Camanchees and Pawnee Picts, p. 44.

LETTER—No. 39.

Mouth of the False Washita and Red River, p. 45.—Beautiful prairie country, p. 45.—Arkansas grapes.—Plums.—Wild roses, currants, gooseberries, prickly pears, &c. p. 46.—Buffalo chase, p. 46.—Murder of Judge Martin and family, p. 47.

LETTER—No. 40.

Sickness at the Mouth of False Washita—one-half of the regiment start for the Camanchees, under command of Col. Dodge, p. 49.—Sickness of General Leavenworth, and cause of, p. 50.—Another buffalo hunt, p. 51.

LETTER—No. 41.

Great Camanchee village, Texas, p. 53.—A stampede, p. 53.—Meeting a Camanchee war party, and mode of approaching them, p. 55, pl. 157.—They turn about and escort the Dragoons to their village, p. 56.—Immense herds of buffaloes, p. 56.—Buffaloes breaking through the ranks of the Dragoon regiment, p. 57, pl. 158.—Wild horses—sagacity of—wild horses at play, p. 57, pl. 160.—Joe Chadwick and I "creasing" a wild horse, p. 58.—Taking the wild horse with lasso, and "breaking down," p. 58, pls. 161, 162.—Chain of the Rocky Mountain, p. 60.—Approach to the Camanchee village, p. 61, pl. 163.—Immense number of Camanchee horses—prices of—Capt. Duncan's purchase, p. 62, 63.

LETTER—No. 42.

Description of the Camanchee village, and view of, p. 64, pl. 164.—Painting a family group, p. 165.—Camanchees moving, p. 64, pl. 166.—Wonderful feats of riding, p. 65, pl. 167.—Portraits of Camanchee chiefs, p. 67, pls. 168, 169, 170, 171, 172.—Estimates of the Camanchees, p. 68.—Pawnee Picts, Kiowas, and Wicos, p. 69.

LETTER—No. 43.

The regiment advance towards the Pawnee village—Description and view of the Pawnee village, p. 70, pl. 173.—Council in the Pawnee village—Recovery of the son of Judge Martin, and the presentation of the three Pawnee and Kiowa women to their own people, p. 71.—Return of the regiment to the Camanchee village, p. 72.—Pawnee Picts, portraits of, p. 73, pls. 174, 175, 176, 177.—Kiowas, p. 74, pls. 178, 179, 180, 181.—Wicos, portraits of, p. 75, pl. 182.