Canadian Representative on Committee of Defence Would Be No Superior to Permanent Secretaries or Other Officers of Departments of British Government.

PETERBORO, Dec. 17.—(Special.)—A plea for the imperial conference as contrasted with the committee of imperial defence was the feature of speech delivered last night by N. W. Rowell, K.C., M.L.A., before the Peterboro Canadian Club. "The position of a representative of Canada on the a representative of Canada on the committee of defence," said Mr. Rowell, "would apparently be equal, but not superior, to that of permanent secretaries or other officers of the departments of the British Government, and it is quite clear from the statements made by Mr. Asquith and others appearing recently in The London appearing recently in The London Times, that there is no intention on the part of the imperial government of making this committee, even with the repressentatives of Canada and the other dominions upon it, anything more than an advisory committee to the British Government, a committee colutely under the control of the prime minister of Great Britain. While representation on the committee of imperial defence may serve a useful purpose when matters affecting Canada are under consideration, all must agree that no one would seriously suggest that giving Canada or the other dominions a seat on this committee would be giving them any real voice in the management of defence or of foreign policy. Two imperial organizations of equal status and responsibility are impossible. Do not let us lose the substance in grasping for the lose the substance in grasping for the shadow. Let us maintain the one to which the statesmen of the empire have for years given their best thought and which has proved such a unifying force in promoting the highest interests of both the dominions and the empire, an organization which, judged by its past history, as well as by its representative character, is capable of developing to meet the needs and exideveloping to meet the needs and exi-gencies of the future."

Many Differences.

Mr. Rowell contrasted closely the differences between the imperial conference and the defence committee, as follows:

"(1) The imperial conference is a conference between governments. The committee of imperial defence is a conference of individuals. "(2) The imperial conference is composed of prime ministers commanding parliamentary majorities and can, therefore, make their decisions effective. The committee of imperial defence is not so constituted, but is simply an interdepartmental committee of the British Government, composed partly of cabinet ministers and partly of permanent officials, and can only recommend action to the British Gov the governments are equally represented and have an equal voice and vote in its deliberations and decisions. On the committee of imperial defence Freat Britain has an overwhelming preponderance, and from the very na-ure of the committee must decide as the Builish Cabinet may desire.

"(4) The imperial conference recognizes the full autonomy of all the do ninions, and its decisions can only be nade effective with the consent of hese dominions. The committee of mperial defence cannot, from the very ature of its object and constitution to other than carry out the plans of he British Cabinet.

(5) The imperial conference is orpanized to deal with all subjects of ommon interest to the empire. The ommittee of imperial defence is limit-'ence, and, only very incidentally, of foreign policy."

Mr. Rowell spoke on the question of mperial relations, dealing particulary with the imperial conference and the ominittee of imperial defence at the pecial request of the Canadian Club.
