From all Parts of Ontario,
The Hospital for Sick Children is a great charity—great in its work, and great in the area of work that it covers.
It cares for the sick child of any parent in the Province of Ontario who cannot afford to pay for treatment. Its mission covers the entire province from the Ottawa to Rat Portage—and last year it had 316 patients from 217 places in Ontario, and altogether it had 391 inpatients—so that it has a good claim upon the people of the province.

The hospital is not a local or. Toronto charity in any sense of the term—for the sick child who lives in Rat Portage or any other part of the province has the same privileges as the sick child who lives within sight of the mother hospital in College-street.

The trustees are making their appeal for aid, and ask those who are charitably disposed to send what they are able to give—if only a dollar—to J. Ross Robertson, or to Douglas Davidson, secretary-treasurer of the hospital, in College-street. It Looks After the Sick Children

LIVELY DAYS AHEAD.

St. John. N.B. Telegraph: The indications are that there are lively days ahead in Saskatchewan, and that the new province is fully able to deal with its own problems. As for the schools, which were one of the chief issues in this campaign, the province in the end will virtually make its own educational arrangements and carry them out without regard to outside interference, as other provinces have done.
