Pastor Russell's Sermon

"Behold, He Prayeth" (Acts ix., 11)-A Discourse on the Reverence of Prayer

GLENS FALLS, N.Y., June 27.—Pastor Russell, of Brooklyn Tabernacle, preached to large audiences here today on two occasions. We report his ize they have fallen short of the Lord's intended and natural blemishes; when they realize they have fallen short of the Lord's intended and of their own standards. discourse on prayer from the text, standard, and of their own standards;

"Behold, he prayeth," as follows:

The thoughtless utterance of formalistic petition is not prayer, even the it be so called. The poet expresses the truth on the subject in the words-'Prayer is the soul's sincere desire,' day condemned those prayers which were offered in public places to be seen or heard of men, to be considered pious. His curt criticism of such praypious. His curt criticism of such prayers was, "Verily, I say unto you, they have their reward." They were in reality praying to men, seeking for human approbation. They got the reward they sought, in that many were deceived and thought them holy, pious. But while men might be deceived with such outward pretensions, God looketh fipon the heart, and accepteth only the soul's sincere desires. "The Father seeketh such to worship Him as worship Him in spirit and in truth." (John iv. 24.)

and an opponent of all those who sought to walk in His ways. The Lord had allowed him to proceed to a considerable extent in his persecu-tions of the church. The Lord wished a certain amount of persecution to come against His cause, and more forgiving toward all with whom permitted an honest-hearted man to they have to do. go considerable length in his opposi-tion. The intention of this was to accomplish the scattering of the church, that the believers, going everywhere, wited to pray except the penitent who might proclaim the Gospel; that Saul turns from sin and accepts of Christ. Thimself might feel humiliated and for we have seen how the people of God we have seen how the people of God complish the scattering of the church, ever afterward be on guard against danger of being deceived respecting the Lord's will. prayed, and in spite of their prayers made mistakes, it has doubtless generally been true that the mistakes made by religious people have been along the lines of too great confidence in themselves—too much self-assurance in respect to the teachings of the Bible, too much self-confidence as respects their service of the truth. And when good men have made mistakes the church, believers who are now being called out of the world—to separate themselves as God's peculiar people. It was for these that Jesus prayed, and for these, therefore, we, following His example, should pray. Their afflictions are His afflictions, because have made mistakes, it has doubtless not only possible but probable that with it. Hence, as the apostle says, their prayers were only partially sin- we should pray one for the other, as Lord, "Thy will be done on earth as in heaven," they sometimes meant. Approve my will on earth as I approve my will in heaven—"deceiving themetous selves." Let us all be on guard against any such self-deception. Let us remember the Master's words, "Blessed are the pure in heart." Let us remember that to be pure-hearted of all the families of the earth.

Well as labor to assist each other, and to build one another up in the most to build one another up in the most holy faith, for this is the will of God. This is the plan of God—that during the present age the elect class should be called and tested and chosen, in order that in the next age they with order that in the next age they with this production of "The School for Scandal," "The Merry Wives of Windsor," "Oliver Twist," Wives of Windsor," "Oliver Twist," The Newcomes," "The Tempest," means to be sincere, and to utter no-

Some of our Lord's most severe criticisms of the formalistic piety of His Surely this is true, as every developed day condemned those travers which our text is a part of the Lord's message to Ananias when directing him to Saul of Tarsus. The latter had been a persecutor of the church, an injurious person, honest at heart, but missuided and prejudiced. Saul had sought to do God service by opposing the church of Christ. Following the lead of his elders, the Scribes and Pharisees of Judaism, he had allowed prejudice to make him a foe to Christ, and an opponent of all those who

The explanation given by the answer, because it is not the Divin standing. The explanation given by the Lord to Ananias in sending him to Saul was, "Behold, he prayeth."

How much meaning there was in these few words! They meant, Saul of Tarsus is a changed man; he is no longer the self-confident one, boastful of his phariseeism, his holiness, his tithes, and his service of persecution; but, humbled to the dust, he has come manking—every creature. He does not but, humbled to the dust, he has come mankind—every creature.
