MAYOR AND ALDERMAN SQUABBLE OVER SHED

It is Used as a Fire Station and Annoys Dwellers on the Mountain.

HAMILTON, July 11.—(Special.)—Mayor McLaren and Ald. Morris flashed their knives at each other again to-night at the meeting of the city council. The alderman wanted to know why the board of control, in a report, made no mention of the action it had taken re the application of the shed and mountain residents for the removal of a shed which was placed on the roadway, and which is used as a fire station. The mayor said the matter would be settled satisfactorily, but perhaps, not to the satisfaction of those who had lots to sell.

The alderman said it seemed to him that the board had not treated the residents with due consideration. The alderman said he had written to the mayor, but he continued to ask for a report, and read a notice of motion to have the subject discussed. After Ald. Allen questioned the alderman of putting in, Mr. Morris dropped the subject for a while. A short time after he tried to introduce his notice again, while the mayor was in the chair. He was told to give it to the clerk.

A Fox Scheme. To prevent the introduction of the notice, the mayor appointed the alderman chairman of the committee. The council went into thinking thereby the matter would be dropped. The alderman, however, but after the proceedings had been called a farce and irregular, the matter was dropped.

The report that no contribution be granted to Charles Smith, for 50 years city messenger, was adopted. Another report from the works committee, requesting that the police be asked to enforce the lawn sprinkling by-law, was also adopted.

The by-laws to raise $55,000 for parks, to provide for the firemen's increases, and appointing Dr. Roberts bread inspector, were read a third time. The jury which inquired into the death of Susan Perkins, the nurse killed in the accident to Robert Hobson's auto on June 23, brought in the following verdict: That death was accidental, and recommended that in future all persons obtaining a chauffeur's license be made to pass an examination.

Inquest on Auto Victim. Keith McCrea, the chauffeur, gave evidence, but was unable to remember anything that happened between the time he left Albion Mills, some distance from the scene of the accident, and the time he found himself pinned under the wrecked car. He said the machine was in perfect order. Robert Hobson testified that his daughter, who is still hovering between life and death, said that just before the accident, a cloud of dust blew into their faces and that they went over the bank before it cleared away.

Mrs. Nixon, who saw the car leave the road, swore that it was enveloped in smoke and dust. She said the car came down the road very close to the fence. Mrs. Alex R. Donald, East Hamilton, died this afternoon at a visit to Thomas and Mrs. Thompson, of Georgetown. The deceased was born in West Flamboro, and was sixty years of age.

George Woods, 7 South Walnut-street, the father of Robt. Woods, the young man killed yesterday on the railroad tracks near Dunnville, left this afternoon to drive the body home. Robert McNeil, a driver for P. J. Gullvin, a grocer, was thrown from his rig this afternoon and injured internally. He is resting at the city hospital in a very precarious condition.

A Rising Young Author. A new story by H. Graham Starr has appeared in "Buyman's Magazine" for this month, entitled "Flies Flies." It deals with some of the horrors of the north country in our own Canada. Mr. Starr is a young civil engineer and evidently knows what he writes by experience. He has written for a great many magazines during the war years. He is a son of the well-known Rev. J. E. Starr.

Killed by a Train. DUNNVILLE, July 11.—Robert Woods, about 21 years old, was found dead on the G. R. tracks about five miles west of Dunnville. His home is in Hamilton, and he had been working in Seneca.

SCARCITY OF TEACHERS DUE TO WESTERN HIRE

Dr. Pyne States That Teachers Trained in Ontario Go West for Larger Salaries.

In one paper Saturday there were 200 advertisements for public or separate school teachers, one calling for 200 teachers for Alberta and Saskatchewan, and 40 for collegiate and high school teachers. Salaries offered ranged, for public schools, from $350 to $600 a year in Ontario. In the west, one advertisement from Saskatchewan offered $850 for a principal and $575 for assistant; another in Saskatchewan offered $700 a year. One Ontario community offered $500 a year for a teacher of three years' experience, with a second-class certificate, to teach a senior class.

"Yes, the scarcity of teachers, which has been felt for about seven years, still exists to some extent and will continue to be felt for another year at least," said John Dr. Pyne, minister of education, yesterday. "The two chief factors in the situation are the movement of Ontario teachers to the western provinces and the inadequate scale of salaries in Ontario. The substitution of normal for model schools has not affected the situation. All our normal schools, except that at North Bay, were filled last year and the applications thus far received for the coming session indicate an even larger attendance. In this respect the government's policy has worked out exactly as was expected, and the supply of candidates to enter the teaching profession is quite satisfactory."

"But the question is, will the teachers trained in Ontario stay here? I have investigated the subject as far as it is possible to do so and am greatly impressed by the heavy drain to the west. Salaries are higher there, and we are losing both experienced teachers and the new graduates of our training schools. The conditions are serious and I cannot urge too strongly raising salaries still higher if we are to keep qualified teachers in the province and prevent the westward movement of our best talent. The teaching profession is being drained away from the province and it rests with school boards to apply the remedy."

"The province is producing enough teachers if they can be induced to remain. This year we have granted 1600 teacher certificates. This rate of supply, if kept up, is ample. The number of openings this year is apparently larger. But this is due to the enforcement of the regulation that, with a few exceptions, school boards are not permitted to employ a teacher with lower than a second-class certificate, unless after due advertisement in a newspaper with a provincial circulation they are unable to procure one. Accordingly the recent increase in the number of advertisements for teachers is greater than usual. The trustees, I repeat, have the matter in their own hands. By giving liberal grants on the basis of the salary share, a government has done its part. A circular has been issued to public school inspectors, in accordance with which they can recommend to the department special action in cases of emergency."

Advice to Labor Men. Addressing the Building Trades Council at the Labor Temple, last evening, James Simpson, the labor representative on the royal commission investigating industrial and technical education, urged council to present the best informed man to present the case at Toronto at the meeting in October. The following will gather data and prepare information to give before the commission on workmen's compensation: J. W. Bruce, W. Mouldie and W. Nettleship.

SHEARD AT $6000 IS COUNCIL'S CHOICE

himself, and Controller Church urged that he do so or give a reason. On the next division he supported Dr. Sheard and Ald. McCausland, becoming mixed, did likewise, making the count 16 to 7. This was halted with a joyful demonstration, but Ald. McCausland insisted another vote. He declared warmly that Dr. Sheard was a compromise candidate, and that members had said they would vote for him if they couldn't get the man they wanted.

Dunn Blamed Controllers. Another vote taken showed a score of 15 to 8, and Ald. McGuire, McBride and Dunn pleaded that they were broken and that council cease acting "like a lot of schoolboys." Ald. Dunn asserted that the majority would not have resigned, but for insults heaped upon him at conferences with the board of control, and accused Controller Spence of being chiefly responsible. The controller retorted that no uncivil word had been spoken to the doctor, and that he would vote for him if they couldn't get the man they wanted.

The city will insist on having five representatives on the board of control, a museum of Toronto, instead of three as proposed by the museum committee. The acquisition of the city's $105,000 in the "The Grange" as well as maintaining the grounds and spending $5000 yearly on the maintenance of the museum. Controller Spence held out for the larger representation and was solidly supported. No objection was made to the acquisition of the St. Patrick-street and Bay-street properties as proposed by the board.

Improving the Seawall. The section of seawall and boulevard between Dufferin-street and Indian-road as previously authorized will be 100 feet wide, and 10 feet high. The original plan was to have it constructed only 200 feet out, but Controller Ward, father of the change. Controller Foster wanted the scheme referred back for preparation of plans, but was voted down.

"The Fighter." Last night, before a large audience, the Percy Haslett Players, now appearing at the Royal Alexandra Theatre, presented "The Fighter," a new play, "The Fighter," adapted by Hilliard Booth from Albert Payson Terhune's popular novel "Gale Conqueror." In its general lines it follows the story of the strong drama of moose and man in which an actor, who marked a success two seasons ago, is now in a position to develop in the last two acts of "The Fighter," which has closer human interest than the power of arousing stronger popular interest.

The drama may be taken as a satire on the social ambitions of a certain class of the United States society. Conover, who is a typical political boss, and a ruthless in his methods, has a healthy human side and even despises the social conventions into which he has been introduced. His daughter has married an Italian prince, and he is disillusioned, his son has married a New York chorus girl that old is not without a genuine, if rough, affection that is prepared to yield even when it appears most indifferently.

Band Concerts at Hanlan's. For this week the Hanlan Point management have provided an exceptional good musical entertainment by engaging Antinarelli's famous band of forty artists. This organization has achieved a high and deserved reputation for its music, and it is now touring America for the first time. Its first appearance at the Point yesterday afternoon attracted a large audience and was rewarded by a choice selection of classical and popular numbers, all admirably rendered. The band contains many soloists who are thorough masters of their various instruments, and as a whole it is a conspicuous feature for the quality and solidity of tone, precision of attack and artistic cooperation.

Signor Antinarelli is a temperamental conductor, who enters with real enthusiasm into his work, and his art is responded with readiness and sympathy. When necessary, the volume of tone is rich and massive, and in lighter passages the flow of melody ripples with ease and freedom. The nuances show keen attention to light and shade, while the balance is firm and steady, and the voice of each instrument given proper prominence. Concerts will be given daily at 5 and 8 p.m.
