

Cascampec on every alternate Sunday. The congregation has gradually increased, and occasionally has been too large to find accommodation in the pews. On the Bishop's visitation in August last, the people willingly assembled for Divine Service, which was held on Thursday evening. After prayers, the Bishop addressed the candidates for confirmation, and then confirmed those who were presented for that rite. The Grave Yard was also consecrated: this was a novel sight, being the first ever witnessed at Cascumpec. His Lordship expressed his satisfaction with the Church and Yard—the former being neatly built; since then we have finished both the tower and spire, and underpinned the whole, and we purpose next summer to complete the inside.

The Sunday School at Cascumpec has been regularly attended. The Teachers have been greatly encouraged in their work by the steady progress of the children who have been rewarded with Bibles and other books, for their good behaviour and attendance.

The neat little Church at the Capes, was consecrated during the Bishop's visit in August. He was pleased to express his entire satisfaction at the very neat and becoming style in which this church was finished, and also at the fact that no debt whatever remains upon the building. There is a well conducted Sunday School at the Capes.

The services at Tignish have been encouragingly attended with the promise of future prosperity and blessing. In the Temperance Hall, where I preach once a month, the congregation, consisting of members of different denominations, has been pretty regular and attentive; and at the French Village station, though the congregation is similar to the last, the services are fairly attended.

At Hill's River station, the same aspect presents itself, and I am pleased to add that a manifest change is apparent in the lives and conversation of some who attend the service at this
