RECENT DEATHS

Fredericton, N. B., Dec. 22—News from Kalispell, Montana, is to the effect that Charles M. Lawson who had an arm taken off by a train in that city on December 5, succumbed to his injury on the following day. The first report was that he was recovering. The deceased was a native of Gagetown and a son of the late David K. Lawson, some time deputy sheriff and jailer of Queens county. He was one of a considerable number of New Brunswick people who went to Montana in 1880. A. C. M. Lawson of Fredericton is a cousin.

Splendid opportunities for young men Sixty-five dead from exposure, and all the others badly frost bitten, the yawl sigged French schooner Quo Vadis, from Martinique for St. Pierre (Miq.), with salt, was picked up on Brown's Bank westerday by the Gloucester schooner Catharine, Captain Arch. McLeod, and towed into liverpool (N. S.) For days the schooner battled with gales off the coast and the crew were rendered help-less by the cold, the men having no warm wearing apparel. Charles Luce, aged seventeen years, died on December 18, after intense suffering.

When the Catharine sighted the help-less or being rescued. The distressed seamen are being well care for.

During the trip to Liverpool, William Barnes, one of the crew of the Catharine, had his leg broken.

The Quo Vadis was built three years ago at St. Malo. France.

St. Peatrick Kehoe.

St. Peatrick Kehoe is dead. He was ninety-five years of age and the survivor of that interesting couple who resided at Red Rock. James McKelvey, the other member and stepfather of Mr. Kehoe, died several years ago, at the age of 115. He was undoubtedly the oldest man in New Brunswick, if not in Canada. The two old gentlemen resided on a beautiful farm in Red Rock and were known far and wide. Years ago they guided fishing parties and hunters in that section and no sportsman visited Red Rock without an interview with the two old men. Mr. Kehoe lived to see all his neighbors in Red Rock join the silent majority or leave the country. He was a typical Irishman, witty and rugged, and his death removes a land mark. The funeral was held on Friday with services by Rev. Father Holland in the church here. Interment was in the new Catholic cemetery.

Vera Bell Tonge, the sixteen-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Tonge, passed away at the residence of her parents on Black River road yesterday after an illness of two weeks. Sle was the second daughter and she leaves besides her parents seven brothers, besides her
