LONGINGS.

Oh, gentle river—gliding
For ever to the sea;
Never in one place biding,
How do I envy thee!

Oh, meek-eyed daisy, lifting
Thy quiet look to the sky,
Nor from thy birth-place shifting,
Could I beside thee lie;

O, green leaves that will wither,
To a lovelier decay,
And when cold and storm come hither,
Unheeded pass away;

O, rocks that brave the passion
Of Tempest and of Time,
With the same enduring fashion,
Stern pulseless and sublime.

Why turns my spirit mild-like,
And envying to you all,
Seeking with longings child-like,
To 'scape its present thrall?

Why ask to be in motion,
Yet pant to be at rest,
With a passionate devotion,
As the wild bird for its nest?

Let the waves say why their heavings
In foam-wreaths melt away,
Then my heart may tell the grievings
Which fret it to decay.

SONG.

Farewell!—and when to-morrow
Seems little like to-day,
And you find life's deepest sorrow
Melts gradually away;

Yet do not quite forget me,
Although our love be o'er,
Let gentle dreams regret me,
When we shall meet no more.

Not painfully, not often,
Should such a thought intrude;
But let my image soften,
Sometimes your solitude.

In the twilight, dim and tender,
Think how we parted here;
All hope I can surrender,
But memory is too dear.

THE INVOCATION.

BY MRS. HEMANS.

Oh! art thou still on earth, my love?
My only love!
Or smiling in a brighter home,
Far, far above?

Oh! is thy sweet voice fled, my love:
Thy light step gone?
And art thou not, in Earth or Heaven,
Still, still my own?

I see thee with thy gleaming hair,
In midnight dreams!
But cold, and clear, and spirit-like,
Thy soft eye seems.

Peace, in thy saddest hour, my love!
Dwelt on thy brow;
But something mournfully divine
There sitteth now!

And silent ever is thy lip,
And pale thy cheek:
Oh! art thou Earth's, or art thou Heaven's
Speak to me, speak!

Money.—There is nothing ensures more respect, nothing hides so many faults, nothing passes for so many virtues as money; without money an honest man is despised, and with it the meanest rascal or greatest scoundrel is respected. You shall see a being without the least pretension to feeling or humanity, a mere lump of ignorance, and depravity—one of the vilest of the vile; provided he possesses the one thing requisite, followed, flattered and almost adored by a parcel of lick-spittle sycophants, while a poor man of virtue and an independent soul, is obliged to walk alone and unfriended through a world that care not for his sorrows. To be poor is the lot of many from the commencement of their existence, but misfortune is apparently considered as a crime, and there is nothing so galling to a man than to be insulted on this account by an upstart minion of fortune, more especially if he has once been in good circumstances, he feels it keenly—it sinks deep. Chalmer's British Essayist.

Cheap method of Covering Roofs, equal to Slate.—Shake a quantity of Lime in Tar, in which dip sheets of the largest and thickest brown Paper; lay them on in the manner of slating; they will form a durable covering and will effectually resist the weather for years: this is an invaluable composition and well calculated for rural economy in covering barns, out-houses and other buildings, easily effected and at little cost.

An old lady, remarkable for her confused idea of the meaning of words, described a clear summer evening thus:—"It was a beautiful bright night—the moon made everything as LIGHT AS A CORK!"

THE NIGGER TRADE.—A nigger-jockey, said he, what is that? I never hear'd the term afore, since I was a created sinner—I hope I may be shot if I did. Possible, said I never hear'd tell of a nigger-jockey! My sakes, you must come to the State then; we'll put more wrinkles on your horns in a month there than you'll get in twenty years here, for these critters don't know nothin'. A nigger-jockey, sir, says I, is a gentleman that trades in niggers—buys them in one state, and sells them in another, where they ar'n't known. It's a beautiful science, is nigger flesh; it's what the lawyers call a liberal profession. Uncle Enoch made enough in one year's tradin' in niggers to buy a splendid plantation; but it ain't every one that's up to it. A man must have his eye teeth cut afore he takes up that trade, or he is apt to be let in for it himself, instead of putting a leak into others; that's a fact. Niggers don't show their age like white fols, and they are most always older than they look. A little rest, ilein' the joints, good feed, a clean shirt, a false tooth or two, and dyin' the wool black if its got gray, keepin' 'em close shav'd, and gist givin' 'em a glass o' whiskey or two afore the sale, to brighten up the eye, has put off many an old nigger of fifty-five for forty. It does more than trimmin' and groomin' a horse, by a long chalk. Then, if a man knows geography, he fixed on a spot in next state for meetin' ag'in, slips a few dollars in Sambo's hand and Sambo slips the halter off in the manger, meets massa there, and is sold a second time ag'in. Wash the dye out, let the beard grow, and remove the tooth, and no one could swear to him ag'in. If it takes so much knowledg to choose a horse, or chose a nigger, what must it take to choose a member? Who knows he won't give the people the slip as Sambo does the first master; ay, and look as different, too, as a nigger does, when the dye rubs out, and his black wool looks white ag'in? Sayings, &c., of Saml. Slick, of Slickville.
