

the approaching season, but an effort will be made to overtake it.

As to the Agent's recommendation to mark the centre of the sections, there is doubtless a good deal to be said in its favour, but as it would involve no small amount of extra work and consequently expense, a decision can not be arrived at until the time comes for making the survey.

You will kindly advise the Chief in the direction herein above indicated.

Your obedient servant,

W. HAYTER REED
Deputy Superintendent General of Indian Affairs.
