A Model Reform Minister. Mysterious hints have been coming from Ottawa for some time in reference to the Minister of Justice, and complaints in regard to the disorganization of his department have been coming from all who have had business with it. More recently Ottawa correspondents the United States sheds considerable riodical in Canada. light on the important private duties that have kept this noble Reform Minister of Justice from his officd: Parliament, figured conspicuously, oc-curred last night in a lower town saloon. The row was occasioned through a dispute of a bill. The Minister was intoxicated, and Frechette thought the landlord was imposing on him, so he interfered. This account is so circumstantial, as the Freeman says about the reports of miracle-working at the saintly shrine of Lourdes, that it is impossible to doubt its correctness. And yet we would like to hear it contradicted by some trustworthy authority, as it is not pleasant for us, as Canadians, to have the people of the United States sneering at our Minister of Justice as a drunken Cash Advances bar-room brawler. But even with all his faults Fournier is as good as his col-tertainment is not inviting, and I shall leagues, fully as respectable, and we think more honest, for he has not, like them, been involved in silver-mine speculations in Government land at Lake Superior, in land jobbery in connection with canal extensions, in wholesale wild-cat mining frauds on English capi-
