

Some day, when in conversation with some friend of Mr. Beatty's, I might find it possible to put in a word for you in an indirect way, and I shall be glad to do that, if any chance offers so to do.

I am also keeping an eye open for anything which I think might be along the lines in which you are interested. With conditions what they are at the moment, the chances for everyone are restricted, and while parliament is in session I am so preoccupied with pressing obligations at every hour that I have little opportunity for much else. Please, therefore, do not put too much faith in what I may be able to do, though, naturally, if any chance presents itself at any time, I shall not fail to keep your wishes in mind.

With my best love and wishes,
Believe me, dear John,
Yours affectionately,

John Lay, Esq.,
720 Spadina Avenue,
Toronto, Ontario.
