ABSTRACT EFFECTS. Fellows' Hypophosphites, on being introduced into the stomach, unites with the food, and immediately enters the circulation; and, being perfectly miscible with the blood, speedily pervades every part of the system. Its effects are first declared by a pulse slightly increased in fallness and strength a general exaltation of the organic functions, and exhibaration of the intellectual powers. Its specific influence is on the brain and nervous substance, increasing the activity of the absorbents, and re-newing the blood, thus causing the healthy museular formation so necessary in restoring the functions of the previously weakened organs, Being then, a tonic of the nervous and circulatory system, it follows that, when there is a demand for extraordinary examino, its use is invaluable, since it supplies the waste through the circulation, and sustains the general system.

At no period of life is watehful care over the functions of the brain more requisite tdan during the acquisition of knowledge by the youth: plod. ding, persevering study requires a store of vigorous nervous force, or the child may sink under the mental toil. Stern necessity may compel the student to strain his powers beyond the dictates of prudence, and the early promise of excelience may be blighted thereby To such we recommend Fellows' Hypophosphites it will not only restore the sinking patient, but it will enable the toiling student to preserve his montal and nervous standard without detriment.
