

DEATH PENALTY FOR BOLO PASHA ASKED

Accepting Money From Bernstorff in Itself a Capital Offense, Prosecution Rules—Summing Up Of Government's Case

By Courier Leased Wire
Paris, Feb. 13.—Captain Mornet, the prosecutor in the court-martial of Bolo Pasha on the charge of treason, today began the summing up of the Government's case. He first defined "intelligence with the enemy" in the meaning of the code. He pointed out that the mere fact that Bolo Pasha received money from Count von Bernstorff, the former German ambassador at Washington, through Adolph Pavestadt, the former head of the Am-Snick Banking House of New York, was sufficient grounds for asking for a death sentence even though the money was not used against France. Consequently Captain Mornet said, he would ask for the death penalty.

The Government counsel then referred to Bolo Pasha's relations with Ferdinand Monier, ex-president of the Paris Court of Appeals, and former Premier Joseph Caillaux. The prosecutor declared that Bolo Pasha case was preliminary to other trials in the course of which all affairs now under investigation would be cleared up.

The crowd which swarmed the court room to hear Prosecutor Mornet sum up the state's case against Bolo Pasha broke all previous records at the trial. The proceedings were re-opened belatedly with the people massed to overflow the court. The spectators were perched on chairs, desks and radiators or seated on the floor, famous Parisian actresses sharing the benches with society leaders.

The crowd at the outset, however, was doomed to disappointment, for the prosecutor, instead of summing up read a letter from Premier Clemenceau announcing that two documents sent in August and September, 1917, by Prosecutor Mornet to Minister of War Painleve, referred to in the proceedings yesterday would be placed at the disposal of the defence. This was considered to be a point for the defence, the state had bitterly opposed the publication of the papers.

A second disappointment for the spectators came when Captain Bouchardon was called as an additional witness, for it was Bouchardon who prepared the case against Bolo and his appearance was equivalent under the American law to the calling of a preliminary trial judge against the defendant in a higher court.

Captain Bouchardon related the delay which had been placed in his way in preparing the Bolo Pasha trial by the former ministry of war, which he said, had withheld the documents from April to September, 1917.

BUDGET DEBATE NOT LIKELY LONG Political Truce Will Do Away With Heated Criticisms

By Courier Leased Wire
Toronto, Feb. 13.—It is not believed that the debate on the budget, which opened in the Legislature yesterday, will be a prolonged one. Political truce is in the air and it is understood that the opposition will not indulge in very vigorous criticism or bring up matters likely to prove contentious. This attitude is, they feel, in a measure forced on them by the agreement to prolong the life of the Legislature, and, from their point of view, the life of the government, until after the close of the war.

J. C. Elliott, West Middlesex, will continue the debate on the budget when the House meets this afternoon and it is understood that the attitude he and other opposition speakers will take will be to point out that the surplus on which the government prides itself is to a great extent derived from tax of "milk," which they claim was forced on the government by the persistent urging of the opposition. They will admit the excellent financial position of the province, but will tell the government not to take too much credit to itself about it, and will state that there were others who had something to do with the matter.

OTTAWA STORM BOUND By Courier Leased Wire

Ottawa, Feb. 14.—Once again Ottawa and its environs were in the grip yesterday of a snow storm of big proportions. It was not a blizzard, there was not wind enough, nor was it cold enough to designate it by this term, but a regular mid-winter snow storm, during which about six inches of snow fell and the street car service was badly demoralized, while all trains, Ottawa-wards arrived considerably overdue when they arrived at all.

SIDE TALKS BY RUTH SANDER CAMERON THE GRATITUDE BANK

If a friend wanted to give you something, would you ask him the price and consider whether you could afford it, or would you hand him a signed check and tell him to fill in the amount for himself, without having any idea how much he considered the article worth?

I don't mean to infer that one wouldn't be willing to trust one's friends not to embezzle the money in one's checking account, but that one prefers to know what one is to pay for a thing before one buys it. And yet when one accepts too many favors from friends, I think one is, in a manner of speaking, giving them a signed check on the gratitude bank to be filled in with whatever amount they think fair, and cashed when the spirit moves them.

Then Your Account is Dishonored. True, one can refuse to honor those checks, but then one's account at the gratitude bank is dishonored as far as that friend is concerned. I have in mind a young couple whom another young couple in much better circumstances financially, took a very friendly liking. The B's did all sorts of things for the A's, dined them at expensive restaurants, carried them about in their limousine and sent them candy and flowers. Of course the A's entertained the B's on the simple scale of their own existence, but they felt that was not sufficient return. Then one day the wealthier couple filled in their check on the gratitude bank and presented it. If wasn't from their point of view a large thing that they asked, but it involved an expenditure of more than the young man who was in business for himself could afford to pay. He refused to cash the check, and relations have been strained ever since. They say they will "ungrate" again anything for which they have to give a gratitude note.

She Had to Give Him a Puppy. A friend of mine lived in a summer place where most of the dogs were brought in from the States. When he bought his own, sometimes he brought it from the States, sometimes he had it sent in the fall the dog which this woman owned had a litter of puppies; the man was crazy about them and it seemed the most natural thing that after all his kindness she should give him one. Of course she did, though the price she could have gotten for the puppy, if sold, would have been much more than the amount he had given her. Yet if she had not given the puppy she would have been considered ungrateful.

Don't Run Up Your Gratitude Debts Too High. It would be an ugly place to live in if we didn't accept little neighborliness and pay for it. Of course one should be careful how one runs up a debt of gratitude and reckon on well one's resources to pay it with. And I think one should be careful when one tacitly demands payment that the demand is not inconvenient or exorbitant.

BOYCOTT URGED By Courier Leased Wire

Montreal, Feb. 13.—Le Progres du Saguenay, dealing with the boycott movement against Ontario, urges the manufacturers and merchants to assist the purchasers in the boycott.

"Our manufacturers must prepare their lines and give the merchants as easy terms as those of the Ontario manufacturers, while on their side, the merchants should contribute by their encouragement of French-Canadian manufacture to increase and perfect their output. While our merchants should encourage French-Canadian manufacturers, the latter should make themselves worthy of encouragement. This, in fact, is absolutely necessary to the perseverance of the buyer to boycott the industry and commerce of our enemies and persecutors. The great attraction of the Ontario catalogue trade is, so they say, its punctuality, its precision and its honesty, consequently it behooves our French-Canadian houses to adopt the same system."

Music and Drama

"OH DOCTOR"
Hal Johnson in the musical comedy "Oh Doctor" comes to the Grand Opera House next Monday, Feb. 18th. The plot is ludicrous and fairly scintillating with fun. During the action of the comedy sixteen delightful musical numbers are introduced by the clever principals and one of the most dainty and best dressed choruses ever assembled for a musical comedy.

"MAGGIE"
There has been a marked preference shown by the public for the past two seasons in the direction of the lighter forms of dramatic entertainment. There is an apparent desire for plays that possess wholesome humor and supply cheerful entertainment.

Like other prominent managers, George C. Tyler was quick to gauge this tendency on the part of theatergoers, and in selecting a new play for the Grand Opera House, he decided to produce "Maggie," a comedy by Edward Peple, which will be presented at the Grand Opera House Friday, February 15th.

It is a play of laughter and happiness with sufficient heart interest to hold the attention. Its story is built along original lines, and the title role gives Miss Nellson-Terry a splendid chance to display the art which has made her famous.

Those who are familiar with the work and personality of this distinguished young actress, will find new interest in her portrayal of an Irish girl, whose sudden elevation into the English aristocracy develops many extremely amusing situations. It is a play that everybody can enjoy and the various characters will be interpreted by such capable players as John McFarlane, Edgar Norton, Arthur Lewis, David Gladstone, Harry Neville, Phyllis Ralph, Lelia Repton, Rose Morrison and others.

Geraldine Farrar is noted for her temperament and even on the operatic stage her changing moods are well shown. In "The Devil Stone," Miss Farrar kills her husband with a candlestick when he attempts her to take the big emerald around which the story is woven. Tully Marshall played the part of the husband, and he admits he was nervous until the big scene was taken. "Of course in picture-work one takes a crack on the head as a matter of course," says Tully, "but with Miss Farrar I didn't know just how hard that crack would be."

Herbert Warren, chief of the secretary department of the "Ratty" Arbuckle company, with headquarters at the Balboa studio, is one of the happiest of men these days. Mr. Warren was married recently to Valerie Burgess, the original "Madam Butterfly" in the original stage version put on by David Belasco.

Douglas Fairbanks has entered into partnership with "Spike" Robinson, his trainer, to raise pigeons. Spike was at one time one of the shining lights of the pugilists world. When interviewed, Spike said: "Yes, and Doug is going in to raise pigeons, extremely. He says he had say extensively, because he had had Doug and I raise."

After two years of untiring effort, Howard S. Moss, a student of novel titles in motion picture productions, has completed his film "Esmeralda," a reel feature, "The Dream Doll," a picture is enacted almost entirely by four-inch dolls; thus proving that the motion picture industry is capable of something entirely new.

It is now thought there are no prospects to endure in the picture, and Charles McClenahan and Monte Blue, who took a year's vacation in the Hawaiian Islands, are to be the next picture. The location was well covered with brush, and as a result, Mrs. McDowell and her husband were so busy that she had to be shot in for several days.

PENN BRIT OF EACH IN SERIOUS DANGER London Workman's Supper Controlled by Government
London, Feb. 13.—The "penetration" of fish and chips, one of the big classes, is in a serious danger. This article of diet, consists of small fish and varieties that could not be sold in the ordinary way of trade, dipped in a stiff batter and fried in oil, hard or dripping.

As hard and dripping have become scarce and dear, oil is being used almost exclusively for frying purposes.

Now the Government has taken control of all oils that can be used for the manufacturing of margarine, the cottonseed oil is no longer obtainable. The chip shops are now actually working on the stocks on hand, without prospect of future supplies.

Protests to the Food Control Committee have so far resulted in the intimation that the Government would prefer to deal with an association representing the British of the United Kingdom. The few local organizations are attempting to form the necessary organization. A committee has received a telegram from the director of oils, expressing a proposition that a limited quantity of edible tallow shall be supplied to fish fries on conditions that they use a mixture containing home fat and cotton or any salt oil which the department can provide.

The newly formed committee intends to urge the Ministry of Food to supply the chip potato trade with potatoes at the same price as they are now being supplied to the bakeries—$17.50 a long ton. They point

Hot Water Each Morning Puts Roses in Your Cheeks

To look one's best and feel one's best is to enjoy an inside bath each morning to flush from the system the previous day's waste, sour fermentations and poisonous toxins before it is absorbed into the blood. Just as coal, when it burns, leaves behind a certain amount of combustible material in the form of ashes, so the food and drink taken each day leave in the alimentary organs a certain amount of indigestible material, which if not eliminated, form toxins and poisons which are then sucked into the blood through the very ducts which are intended to suck in only nourishment to sustain the body.

If you want to see the glow of healthy bloom in your cheeks, to see your skin get clearer and clearer, you are told to drink every morning upon arising, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, which is a harmless means of washing the waste material toxins from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, thus cleaning the entire alimentary tract, before putting more food into the stomach.

Girls and women with sallow skins, liver spots, pimples or pallid complexion, also those who wake up with a coated tongue bad taste, nasty breath, others who are bothered with headaches, bilious spells, acid stomach or constipation should begin this phosphated hot water drinking and are assured of very pronounced results in one or two weeks.

A quarter pound of limestone phosphate costs very little at the drug store but is sufficient to demonstrate that just as soap and hot water cleans, purifies and freshens the skin on the outside, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the inside organs. We must always consider that internal sanitation is vastly more important than outside cleanliness because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood while the bowel pores do.

Women who desire to enhance the beauty of their complexion should just try this for a week and notice results.
