God Understands.

It is so sweet to know, When we are tried, and when the hand of pain Lies on our hearts, and when we look in vain For human comfort, that the Heart Divine Still understands these cares of yours and mine. Not only understands, but day by day Lives with us while we wait the earthly way. Bears with us all our weariness, and feels The shadow of the faintest cloud that steals Across our sunshine, even tears again The depth and bitterness of human pain. There is no sorrow that He will not share. No grief, no burden for our hearts to bear. Without His help no care of ours we could To cast on Jesus, let us cast Him all— Lay all His fact, the story of our woes, And in His sympathy, our souls receive.

Bismark's Definition.

In the newspapers of to day we very often find the words entente cordiale. Most readers understand the meaning of the expression, but it is rather difficult to make a translation that expresses the exact meaning of the original French. Prince Bismark gave a good explanation when his daughter asked him what the entente cordiale really was.

"Well," he said, "it is not so easy to define literally. It means a cordial understanding, but it has a little different significance. For example: You were out in the court yard this morning when I came from the garden with Nero; Diana was in the yard gnawing a large bone. My Nero saw her and ran to seize the bone. Then there was a little fight, until I struck them a few sharp blows with my cane. After that the bone lay in the middle of the court, while both dogs stood off at some distance, and looked eagerly at it. Each dog, in fact, was as anxious to keep the other away as he was afraid of my cane, and therefore neither ventured to seize it. You see, that is what they call it in diplomatic circles an entente cordiale."

Boys and Sleep.

One thing a growing boy wants to be long on is sleep, and yet he is most apt to be careless about it. It is during sleep that a boy grows most and catches up. During waking hours he tears down and burns up more tissue than he builds. Good, sound and sufficient sleep is essential to growth, strength, and endurance. A boy should sleep at least nine or ten hours of sleep out of every twenty-four. If you lose out of this amount on one day make it up the next. Whenever unusually tired or out of trim stay in bed a few hours more if it is possible. A boy should wake up each morning feeling like a fighting cock. When he doesn't he ought to get to bed earlier that night. Sleep is a wonderful restorative and tonic. It helps to store up energy and conserve strength.—Boy Scouts of America.

Gentleness.

Gentleness is like a fragrance of a flower by which it reveals its identity and its character. Gentleness is part of the sweetness of Christianity when it blooms in a human life under the sunshine of the Lord's presence. It reveals to others the sympathy in the heart, the tenderness in the mind's thought and even the subervience of the body itself to the usefulness of the spirit. Gentleness in the tone of voice indicates a kindly affection; in the form of speech it reveals consideration of the effect upon the feelings of others; in the gesture of hand or its friendly grasp, it implies a sweet humility and a sense of fellowship. Gentleness is always in keeping with strength, whether in repose or in action; and harshness and overbearing are characteristic of the weakness of selfishness.

Politeness.

There is a difference between politeness and etiquette. Etiquette can be defined, classified, formulated. You can tell young people to take their soup from the side of their spoons, to eat with their forks; not to make a noise in eating; all these and countless more, such injunctions are important. But I would rather eat a hundred dinners with my knife than laugh one malicious laugh at someone else who did so.—Cardinal Manning.

Fannie was eating an apple, when she suddenly cried out in pain. "What is the matter, darling?" asked her mother. "I stepped on my tongue with my teeth!" said Fannie.

A Strong Man Cast Down.

(Continued from the Montreal Witness.) A recent Scott Act case in Kings Co., N. S., has furnished a spark for a growing conflagration which endangers some interests in high circles. In a case decided by Squire J. E. Macdonald, of Canning, against the Montreal, an appeal of certiorari was taken to the Supreme Court. During the trial before Beckwith, counsel for the accused had attacked the jurisdiction of the magistrate, on the ground that he was a member of the County Temperance Alliance. Along with the evidence which was to be reviewed by the Supreme Court, some interested parties attached affidavits derogatory to the character and fitness of Beckwith, which ex parte and unusual evidence were made exclusively the ground of the decision of the court, and the language of Chief Justice Townsend was so sharp that Wilson, of Montreal, made it into a circular to advertise the 'Invalid Port Wine,' the sale of which Beckwith had condemned as intoxicating and a violation of the Act. The court reversed his decision, and although Beckwith asked for the falsity of the affidavits against him, it was refused and he was dismissed. The case was discussed in the House of Assembly, and a delegation from Kings County waited on Premier Murray, but got the reply that he must take the counsel of the county members, which means to foster the work of the disreputable rhyou liquor element of this county.

WILFRED LAURIER.

The announcement is made that Sir Wilfrid Laurier will pay a visit to the Maritime Provinces sometime during the present month and will address public meetings in Halifax, Moncton and Charlottetown as well as hold conferences with the party leaders in Eastern Canada. Sir Wilfrid Laurier's visit to these provinces in the campaign of 1911 was not productive of much good from a party standpoint. Indeed, we are well within the truth when we say that it was disappointing. Much was expected of him and he failed to live up to the expectations. We had, in the charm of his striking personality, forgotten that he had lost much of his power as a platform orator. Not one-third of any of his audiences could hear him, the force that placed him in the forefront of political leadership were gone. He is regarded today more of an historic character than the leader of the Liberal party. He has played a great part in our national life and while we trust that he may be long spared to Canada yet we cannot disguise the fact that even now he is sacrificing his closing years for the benefit of his party. A parallel will be found in the career of Sir Charles Tupper who essayed to lead the Conservative party to recover in 1900. He was eighty years of age and although a man of marvellous vigor, remarkable memory and wonderful attainments, yet he was out of touch with the young life of Canada and this is largely a young man's country. Sir Charles, at eighty, endeavoring to win new laurels for the great Liberal Conservative party was a rather pathetic figure and Sir Wilfrid Laurier in 1900—a great character but belongs more to the past than the present or future. He is acting wisely in limiting his addresses but his personal association with the young life of Canada and with the party leaders in the east may lead to his old comrades in arms putting up a good fight for him although as in the case of Sir Charles Tupper, history is likely to repeat itself.

Antidotes for Stains.

Carmel Waters, who conducts 'Woman's Interests,' in the Canadian Live Stock News, has the following tried and true hints, now that the season for acquiring stains is upon us. Acid—Use ammonia or chloroform. Blood—Soak when fresh in cold water. Chocolate—Soak in kerosene and wash in cold water. Coffee—Treat with boiling water when fresh. Fruit—Soak fresh stains in milk, or use oxalic acid. Grass—Rub the spots with molasses and wash. Grease—Rub French chalk or tulle earth on spots. Ink—Use salt and lemon juice. Iron rust—Use lemon and salt or Javelle water. Mud—Soak in kerosene. Paint—Use turpentine or benzine. Perspiration—Nothing but boiling will remove. Scorch—Wet and expose to sunshine. Tar—Soak in warm milk and salt. Tea—Use boiling water. Wine—Put dry salt on fresh stains; warm milk on old ones. Mildew, she says, is obstinate and difficult to remove. If lemon and salt or Javelle water do not remove it, nothing will. "How do you tell had eggs?" queried the young housewife. "Said the fresh grocery clerk, 'If I had anything to tell a bad egg, I'd break it gently.'"

Effect of Open Air Life Upon the Business Man.

"The American man, the American business man of forty or forty five, has got a new shape," said a tailor. "He's got a lean, straight shape—full chest, narrow hips. But if you could have seen him a generation ago!" "The business man of forty expected to be fat a generation ago. He rather admired, in fact, a fat, soft shape. The richest business men were fat and soft, and that made a fashion of it, just as Queen Alexandra's lameness made a limp fashionable in Victorian times. "What stomachs our fathers had at forty or forty-five—leather bell stomachs, which they balanced by bending backward! A big stomach was a sign of success, a sign of gentility. If you were lean—why, you must be a laborer. Perhaps you did not get enough to eat. "What is the cause of the slender agile figures of to day? Open air and exercise, that's the cause. Golf is the cause. Motoring is the cause. "My friend," the tailor impressively ended, "my books show that the middle aged business man of to-day is four inches bigger around the chest than the middle aged business man of 1850 and eighteen inches smaller around the stomach."

Summer Complaints Kill Little Ones.

At first sign of illness during the hot weather give the little ones Baby's Own Tablets, or in a few hours he may be beyond aid. The Tablets will prevent summer complaint if given occasionally to the well child and will promptly cure these troubles if they come on suddenly. Baby's Own Tablets should be kept in every home where there are young children. There is no other medicine so good and the mother has the guarantee of a government analyst that they are absolutely safe. Mrs. Edward Cavell, Lombardy, Ont., says: "A mother who has once used Baby's Own Tablets for her children will never fail to show her gratitude for them. They made a wonderful change in the health of my little ones." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Things are absolutely dead in my business.

"Things are absolutely dead in my business," said the man in black. "And yet you seem cheerful about it," replied his casual companion in the smoking compartment. "Sure," said the man in black, "I'm an undertaker."

Wicked New York.

"Bob" Jones, the Southern evangelist, who many believe will be a second Billy Sunday, and who has visited dance halls and tango teas in the New York restaurants for the past week, broke out Friday in a storm of denunciation. "New York is dancing on the brink of hell," he cried. "I shudder to think how many slim, well shod, twinkling feet are going to carry their owners over into the abyss." "And then he exclaimed: 'Drink and dance—dance and drink. That's the program. There are three mile posts on the road to ruin—drink, dance and cigarettes. And the fashionable women, the society leaders, are leading young and innocent girls along this glided path.' "In a whirl of epigrammatic denunciation, he continued: "Nowhere else has the devil been so cleverly disguised. Vice in the small cities is ugly and naked. Here its hideousness is disguised. If I had the choice between three hours in the lobster palaces and three hours in hell, I'd choose hell. "The only difference I can see between Manhattan and hell is that Manhattan is entirely surrounded by water. "I'vey hit a trick and subterfuge of costume seems to me to have been added together—really I should say subtracted—to make the New York girl's attire serve the one single central purpose of 'bees appeal.' "If God had meant women to dress like that, he surely would have covered their backs with hair. I had to wait until some of them stood up from the tables to tell what they had on. "If I had a daughter of eighteen I'd rather see her dead and in her grave than have her whirling, close pressed in some fellow's arms, in the midst of this swarm of silly, cigarette-smoking, cocktail drinking, half clad, empty headed votaries of the modern dances. "The cause? The artificial, abnormal plane of New York's life. The debasement of home life. The 'new freedom' of women, which so many of them have converted into license men.

Good Times Ahead.

In a review of the present industrial States and Canada, Hon. W. S. Fielding, Sir Wilfrid Laurier's Finance Minister, traces the history of the depression to the tightness of the money market in Europe subsequent to the Balkan war, with the consequent effect on the purchasing power of the people, leading in turn to the overstocking of factories and wholesale houses. This re-acted on the manufacturers who closed down part or the whole time, and the earning and circulating of money was to a great extent suspended. Mr. Fielding analyses the situation, especially as found in the United States and then proceeds: "The same conditions hold largely true in Canada. Mr. A. O. Dawson, General Manager of Canada Cotton Linted, in an interview given to the Journal of Commerce a few days since, emphasized the fact that the jobbers were buying to meet actual needs only, as was evidenced by the fact the manufacturers were doing an extraordinary large express business. Retailers also have kept their shelves clear of surplus stocks and so are in a position to buy heavily from the jobbers at the first favorable turn in the economic condition of the country. The prospects for a bountiful harvest in Canada are extremely good. Hundreds of millions of dollars will, in a very few months, be in the control of the farmers throughout the length and breadth of Canada. This will mean added purchasing power, the payment of notes to implement farms and the like. This will put the manufacturing industries of the country on a sound basis and permit them to extend their operations. The process of liquidation through which the country has gone during the last year has meant much for the same revival of trade and industry. The period of depression in Canada has almost passed, and we may confidently look forward to a revival of business such as Canada has never experienced before in her history."

Books Written in Prison.

A publisher was talking about Oscar Wilde's strange book, De Profundis, with its pathetic cover decorations of a bird beating its wings against the bars of a cell. "Wilde is not the first good book to have been written in jail," he said. "In fact, seems to be a good place to write books in. Literary men surpass themselves there. "John Bunyan wrote Pilgrim's Progress in jail. "Cervantes wrote Don Quixote in prison. "Defoe laid the plans for Robinson Crusoe during a term of confinement imposed on him for the writing of a pamphlet called The Shortest Way With the Dissenters. "Leigh Hunt wrote Rimini in jail. "Sir Walter Raleigh, during his fourteen years' imprisonment in the Tower of London, wrote his excellent history of the World. "Silvia Palluco and Tasso both did their best work in jail."

Saving the Daylight.

Under this caption, 'In League with Old King Sol.' Mr. William Willett, the author of the British Daylight Saving Bill, shows in this week's 'Canadian Courier,' just how strongly public opinion is in his favor. He winds up: 'On the 10th inst. a resolution in favor of an international adoption of the principal of daylight saving' was passed unanimously by the International Congress of Chambers of Commerce at their meeting in Paris, at which nearly every commercial country on the face of the globe was represented. It is impossible to exaggerate the importance of this pronounced opinion of the World of Commerce and I submit that not only has as much support as could reasonably be expected been obtained for this movement but that the volume of that support is now so great that the already dwindling opposition will, before long, be overwhelmed.
