Play the Game.

Go off by yourself and moan; We have worries of our own; Keep your troubles in their place; We have all we can face; Everybody bears the cross; Undergoes some sort of loss; Has a grief within his breast; But the truth is seldom guessed; There are duties to be met; We cannot afford to fret; Though we are suffering much; There are wounds we don't reveal; Heart stabs that will never heal; But we fight on just the same; Cheek the heat, conceal the pain; Play the man and play the game; We can hide the pain, and you Must stand up and under too!

National Service By The People of Nova Scotia.

G. S. CAMPBELL, THE MEMBER OF THE NATIONAL SERVICE BOARD FOR THIS PROVINCE, OUTLINES WHAT HAS BEEN DONE AND WHAT IS PROPOSED TO SECURE THE FULL MAN POWER FROM NOVA SCOTIA THAT THE EMPIRE REQUIRES.

To the People of Nova Scotia:—

The directors of National Service met at Ottawa recently and formulated a scheme for carrying on their work. The duties of directors are, in effect, to make themselves acquainted with industrial conditions in their respective districts, to consider what kinds of work are essential or beneficial to the country under war conditions, to draw out and utilize all available labor so that the largest possible number of men may be freed for military service, and to defend, when called upon, whether in the interest of the country or in the interest of the overseas forces of Canada. To do what is called to, but whose services are considered more valuable to the state in their present employment than if they joined the military forces, badges and certificates of exemption will be given.

As the basis of all effort to utilize our resources to the best advantage was considered essential to take a census of the man power of the Dominion. The rough outlines of a scheme having that object in view were drawn up, and the director-general had conferences with the census and post office departments of the government.

The officials of these departments are now engaged in working out the details of a scheme which, we hope will give us all necessary information within a reasonable time, and at much less cost than would be entailed by a regular census.

When the data is secured and classified, we should be in a position to know what man power we have, what proportion of it is essential to carry on the necessary business of the country, and what proportion may be considered available to enter the military and naval forces of Canada.

Another fact that occupied our attention was the utilization of woman's labor during the war. It was believed that there were thousands of women in Canada who would gladly give their services temporarily for special kinds of work, provided they knew that they were thereby releasing men for military duty. It was decided to encourage women to offer their services for such work as was suitable, and to induce employers to take advantage of such offers when opportunity arises.

With that object in view it was resolved to organize committees of women, to be known as "Women's National Service Boards," for the purpose of opening registers for female labor, or for the supervision which would be necessary under new conditions.

It was also suggested that if considered desirable advisory committees of prominent employers and others might be formed for the purpose of co-operating with the women's boards, and helping to secure employment for the women. The view was held that there is a large reserve of labor available if our women are asked to co-operate, and confidence was expressed that our employers would find it to be in their own interest as well as that of the country to encourage the work of the Women's National Service boards.

A number of other matters were discussed on which definite action will be taken later. Some of the directors were of the opinion that the duties of the board are too negative in scope, and that their usefulness would have been increased if authority of a more positive character had been granted to them. It was agreed however, to exercise our present authority with the expectation that if should prove advantageous, enlarged powers might be granted by the government.

To prevent misunderstanding it should be stated that under the regulations of the board, the work of recruiting is left entirely in the hands of the military authorities, but it is the duty of the directors to co-operate with them and furnish all available information to enable them to procure the men required for military service.

The outlook for change in the chairmanship of the board will come some temporary delay in its functioning. It is expected that the directors will soon be in a position to begin with their work feeling confident that they have the full support not only of the government, but of the people of Canada.

The people of Nova Scotia have already given proof of their patriotism and self-sacrifice to devoting themselves to war work but we can do still better by organizing our resources and co-ordinating our efforts.

The Board of National Service is a non-partisan body formed to meet the unprecedented conditions arising out of the war. It has before it a most difficult and complex task requiring the best thought of the ablest men in the country, and that task cannot be successfully accomplished unless the directors have the sympathy and co-operation of all classes of the community. I would especially appeal to the press to give us their hearty and united support, because on their attitude will largely depend the measure of our success.

The Premier of Canada has just issued an appeal calling upon every man and woman in the country to devote themselves to public service in some capacity during the course of the war. I feel confident that as far as Nova Scotia province is concerned that appeal will not be made in vain. Those of our young men who have not yet answered the call to receive service will feel impelled to consider their position, and those of us who have to remain at home will feel led upon some day to do our share in our own defense. We have only to remember that all our efforts are concentrated to the task of supporting our noble boys who, for us, and for the honor of Canada, are daily enduring and dying in the trenches.

Director of National Service for N.S.
