

The NEW EDISON

"The Phonograph with a Soul"

At last you can learn
What Edison Did
during the War

YOU wondered—everybody wondered, and practically nobody knew how Edison "did his bit." At last the official announcement is out! Come in and get your copy of the bulletin: "What Did Edison Do During the War?"—or write, if you can't call. It tells what Edison did while Chairman of the Naval Consulting Board—how he spent months at sea, experimenting and inventing devices for foiling the German submarines. The bulletin also tells how Edison stood the gaff and kept the price of the New Edison down to bed-rock during the era of high costs and soaring prices. The New Edison has increased in price (in the United States) less than 15% since 1914—part of this increase is war tax. The bulletin also tells Mr. Edison's views on our Budget Plan which makes the New Edison easy to buy.

The United States And The League Of Nations

In an article in The World's Work from the pen of Henry M. Morgenthau, the able former American Ambassador to Turkey, entitled "Our New Relation to the League of Nations," after a most interesting allegorical introduction, there follows a question: "What is the sound basis for the League in reason; and what is the practical way to make it work?" This is his interesting answer: "First, I should say, there is a reason in history and evolution and humanity for America to enter the League of Nations. Those who would have us maintain a 'splendid isolation' overlook one of the noblest attributes of man, which is also one of the outstanding traits of American character. I mean gratitude. The world, indeed, needs many things which America alone can give it. But does not America owe that same world a debt of gratitude for most of its own inheritance? Whence came our boasted liberties, but from our British ancestors who gave us the Magna Carta and the writ of Habeas Corpus? Whence did we get the glorious ideal of the equality of man which was the inspiration of our revolution, but from the French who the philosopher Rousseau first dreamed of? History tells our debt, in that great struggle, not only to the flaming Lafayette but also to the Polish patriot Kosciuszko, and to the German drillmaster Steuben, who set their swords to us.

Think of our debt to the Old World in the arts. The architecture of the Washington Monument is borrowed from Egypt; the beautiful Lincoln Memorial, by which we express our reverence for the Great Emancipator, came from Greece; the Capitol at Washington, the symbol of our free institutions, reveals our debt to Rome. Our operas come from Italy and Germany and France; the songs we sing our children to sleep with come from the British Isles. Shakespeare moulded the very tongue in which we speak; and our most profitable inner processes of thought and reason follow rules laid down by Plato, Aristotle, Kant, Hegel, Bacon. Gutenberg gave us the printing press, a Scotchman gave us steam, a Swede dynamite, a Chinaman the compass, a Jew the prevailing religion. Certainly, as Tennyson sang, America is "the heir of all the ages, in the foremost files of time."

Surely we cannot be indifferent to the distress of our kinsmen overseas. I have seen them in their sorrows born of the late war. Children hungry, women borne down with anxiety and grief, men gaunt and desperate for remunerative work. All look to us for aid—not merely the aid of money, food, and the materials of labor, but more for the spiritual energy to renew the processes of life.

What if the practical means now at the Republicans have won and the entire responsibility of a nation is upon them, they are taking stock of their own future, and in this process, I am sure, they will find ways to express in legislation the deep aspiration of the country—nowhere more sincere or more profound than in the ranks of the Republican Party itself—for a working arrangement for our entrance into the League of Nations. Mr. Root's recent work for a permanent Court of International Justice is a step upon this path. Mr. Taft's association with the League forces in Europe is a point of departure for further efforts. Among the Republican Senators are able men who, however determined they were that we should not enter a League on Mr. Wilson's terms, are nevertheless, I am sure, equally determined that we shall not be kept out of the League on other terms; and they can help to find the means to accomplish that purpose. In any event, by some means, we must accomplish it. Our own salvation, no less than that of Europe, is at stake in the League of Nations.

In determining our course of action—our gratitude to our brethren in Europe, Asia, and Africa, the descendants of the peoples who gave us all we have—should be supplemented by our own deep sense of duty as one of the present Trustees of Civilization, and by our deep consideration and love for our own future generations. We must bequeath to them a broadened horizon, a spirit of tolerance, a reputation for Samaritanism—and the Crusaders—a reputation that, when our test came, we not only were not found wanting but also did our full duty—voluntarily and not under compulsion.

So looking both backwards and forward it is our task to assist as effectively as we can in a sane, evolutionary reconstruction of the war-stricken peoples.

INSUFFICIENT EVIDENCE

A man was being tried for selling illicit whisky. The liquor was offered in evidence. The jury returned after taking fifteen minutes to come to a decision.

"What is the verdict?" asked the judge.

"We would like more evidence," replied the foreman of the jury.—Everybody's Magazine.
