MARSHALL BROTHERS.

Objects of Pity.

By last night's train there arrived two little girls, named Pve, who were objects of sympathy to all those in the railway station. The children came alone and are to enter the C. of E. Orphanage. Sergt. Savage and other policemen looked after them. When questioned about her parents the eldest child said her father had been killed at Sydney by an electric wire, and cried as if her heart would break. This affected all who heard the child's story.

Wedding Bells.

WHITTEN-FIELD.
On Wednesday evening at St. Nicholas Church, Torbay, a very pretty wedding took place when Mr. Robert Whitten led to the altar Miss Margaret Field, both of that settlement. Rev. Mr. Barton performed the ceremony. The bride, who was given away by her step-father, looked charming in a dress of white silk with hat to match. The bridesmaids were Miss Maud Whitten, sister of the groom, and Miss Lizzie Tilly, cousin of the bride; while Mr. Henry White, step-brother of the bride, and Mr. Geo. Phillips, cousin of the bride, supported the groom. After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents and dancing kept up till early morning. The bride and groom received many useful presents. The Telegram extends congratulations.

ZAM-BUK CURES PILES

Read What Those Who Have Tried It Say!

Mr. Thomas Pearson, of Prince Albert, Sask., writes:—"I must thank you for the benefit I received from Zam-Buk. Last summer I suffered greatly from piles. I started to use Zam-Buk and found it gave me relief, so I continued it and after using three or four boxes I am pleased to say that it completely cured me."

Mr. G. A. Dufresne, of 183-185 St. Joseph Street, St. Roch, Quebec, P.Q., writes:—"I can highly recommend Zam-Buk to everyone who suffers from piles. I have also found it most effective in curing a sore thumb with which my little son was suffering. The thumb had begun to swell and feater and had lost the nail. I resorted in the application of Zam-Buk and the sore is now entirely healed. Zam-Buk is indispensable as a household remedy."

Not only for piles, but for inflamed sores, ulcers, eczema, ringworm, boils, eruptions, scalp sores, itchy children's sore heads, etc., Zam-Buk is without equal as a healer, and also for cuts, burns, stiffness, etc. All druggists and stores at 50c. box. Zam-Buk Soap will be found as superior amongst medicinal and toilet soaps as the balm is amongst salves. Mothers should use it for baby's bath. 25c. tablet, all druggists and stores, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., St. John's, Nfld.

Mr. English Replies to Mr. McGrath.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—My letter of a couple of days ago has elicited from Mr. McGrath the statement that he is not responsible for what appears in your book, or what is equal to such a statement. It is interesting to know this. The book contains nothing original but is merely, in a manner, a collection from official reports, etc. Nobody would ever know this did not Mr. McGrath tell us so in this evening's Chronicle for the author of the words does not quote his authority. He tries to get up over the shoulder of Mr. Howley, but fails utterly. He wants to make Mr. Howley responsible for the assertion that "large areas within its confines are occupied by igneous and eruptive materials evidencing extended volcanic action in the formative periods of its history." What Mr. Howley does say is this: "It has passed through the fire so to speak, and large areas are found to be occupied by igneous, eruptive and igneo aquerous materials, other wise highly metamorphosed, sedimentary, indicating prolonged volcanic action at different periods of its structural history."

From this it would seem that the origin of these metamorphic rocks is uncertain. There is nothing to prove that they are altered sediments or plutonic or eruptive. The fact that they are highly metamorphosed does not indicate volcanic action. I do not think that Mr. Howley will differ from me here. I am a geologist, with out fear of successful contradiction that evidence of volcanic action on any great extent, if at all, is not furnished by the rocks of this country. Before taking up any of Mr. McGrath's mistakes, I should like to ask that gentleman if Mr. Howley is his authority for the statement that "the geology of the country is very simple." I am of the opinion that the idea originated in Mr. McGrath's mind, and is altogether disproven by the fact that there are large rock sections in this country that up to date have not been referred to in any definite epoch or era, for that matter, era. We have not to go away from the neighbourhood of this town to find proof of this.

The best that can be done is to call them precambrian. What about those highly metamorphic rocks, is it a simple matter to make out their horizon? I wonder if Mr. Howley is responsible for the new name for seals in Mr. McGrath's book they are called "ice-riding pinnipeds." Surely the author of the book must have been thinking of crabs when he wrote "pinnipeds."

So far I have confined my criticism to the passages relating to geology and minerals mainly. Those pages hold so many mistakes as to cause one to wonder how the author ever had the temerity to inflict it on the public. Its nearly every page contains something to offend against good taste. As the author very humbly admits that the body of the work has been checked, it is inclined to let the subject drop. I am not anxious to prove to Mr. McGrath that I do know something about geology. Mr. McGrath's opinion is a matter of indifference to me. Mr. McGrath throws slurs at me; of those I take no heed. If he is anxious to cross swords with me intellectually I think I can take very good care of myself.

With your kind permission, Mr. Editor, I intend to point out a few other glaring defects in "Newfoundland in 1911," and shall offer you another article on the subject to-morrow.

Special to Evening Telegram.

LONDON, Nov. 30.
Sir William Grantham, Judge of the King's Bench Division of the High Court of Justice, is dead of pneumonia, aged 76.

ROME, Nov. 30.
At the public consistory this morning fourteen cardinals received their red hats.

PERIM, Nov. 30.
The fortified seaport of Mocha, in the province of Yemen, Arabia, in the Red Sea, was bombarded this morning by Italian warships. No details.

ROME, Nov. 30.
A party of officers, surgeons and reporters has been searching the places in Tripoli, retaken by the Italians on November 29th and has found many bodies of Italians, who were the victims of the fighting on October 23rd, the day before the Italian massacre by the Arabs. These bodies had been atrociously mutilated. Some of the victims had been crucified, and their eyelids stitched so that they could not close them. Some were buried up to their armpits, their hands lopped off and their eyes gouged out. The agonized faces of many of them suggest that they had endured awful tortures while still alive. An Italian, who escaped by hiding for three days in a ditch, pretending that he was dead, and witnessed the mutilations, declares that Turkish officers and women were present. Five of the Italians were buried alive up to their shoulders and allowed to starve to death.

LONDON, Nov. 30.
The probability of a big naval loan in the near future is revived by the "Mail" Gazette, which anticipates that $150,000,000, and possibly more, will be required as supplemental to the usual naval estimates. It is argued that in view of the campaign in Germany for an increased navy for that country, it will be necessary for Britain to show that she is determined to preserve the 2 in 1 standard. The provision of adequate docks or Dreadnought battleships also necessitates heavy expenditures.

BERLIN, Nov. 30.
Chancellor Hollnagel and the Foreign Secretary will reply in the Reichstag in the course of next week to the recent speech on the Moroccan question by Sir Edward Grey. It is said that one or both of the German statesmen will indicate the opportunity for England to manifest goodwill to Germany, either in connection with the Bagdad railway or with the consolidation of the German colonial empire in Africa by concessions of Belgian or Portuguese territory.

LONDON, Nov. 30.
In reply to an inquiry, the Foreign Office says that Britain, Japan and the United States are in "close communication regarding the situation in China. They would be glad to offer mediation should the opportunity arrive, for the present, however, they are observing strict neutrality between the parties. The British Government is now consulting the British minister at Peking regarding the desirability of sending troops, but it does not seem that foreigners are now in greater danger than hitherto.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.
Admiral Murdoch of the United States Navy in the Asiatic Station, has sent two of his ships up the Yangtze River, from Shanghai to Hanking, where General Chang, who is the flower of the Imperial army, is engaged by the revolutionaries. As many warships of other nations are also there, if the bombardment of the city cannot be prevented, the remaining foreigners there can find refuge on the warships during the fighting. It is not expected that the troops will be despatched from Manila to China until another meeting of the Council of Ministers at Peking.

Here and There.
HERRING PLentiful.—Herring are reported very plentiful in Conception Bay and good hauls were made yesterday, especially in the neighbourhood of Portugal Cove.

A LARGE FREIGHT.—The s.s. "Rospero" took a full freight north yesterday, and is now bound for Cape Shore, came in by last night's train to enter the General Hospital. He will get treatment for a sore foot.

PATIENT FOR HOSPITAL.—Michael McGrath, of Patrick's Cove, Cape Shore, came in by last night's train to enter the General Hospital. He will get treatment for a sore foot.

POOR WOMAN'S LOSS.—A poor woman named Fitzpatrick lost $5.50, which she could ill afford, yesterday between Military Road and the Crosbie Hotel via Victoria Street. The finder will do a charitable act by leaving it at the police station.

DISASTROUS FIRE.—The fire at Bell Island a few mornings ago destroyed two tenements owned by Andrew Murphy, now residing at Port au Port. The families living in them barely escaped with their lives and had to leave in their night clothes. They lost nearly all their belongings. The houses were insured.

TROUBLE WITH CREW.—To-day the police had to arrest two of the crew of the Maggie, now ready for sea. The men were being brought to Baird's wharf when they became very disorderly, attacked the officers and gave them a hard time. They were then arrested and will likely be severely punished. The vessel will get a new crew.

A WONDERFUL COLLECTION.—Last evening, at eight, Officers Byrne and Tobin were again engaged in assorting small goods found in Mrs. Butler's House. The collection comprised such things as paper weights, dried sachets, India rubber balls, skipping ropes, and the articles are so varied and numerous that the police will not wear out if they find time to properly list them.

CONVINCING

It is impossible for any argument in favour of Sunlight Soap to be more convincing than a trial of the Soap itself.

Uncle Walt

THE POET PHILOSOPHER.

A stately squash grew on a vine that hung upon a fence, and it was large and smooth and fine, and sold for seven cents. The buyer put it in a crate and shipped it off to town; the railway charged ten cents HIGH COST for freight, and got the money down. Then divers kinds of OF LIVING middlemen passed that old squash along, and each one got a rake-off then, in which they saw no wrong. The jobber to the grocer sold that autumn squash one autumn day, and it was scarred and bruised and old, and tending to decay. The farmer who raised that squash to town came on his wheel; at dinner time he said: "Boosh, I'll have a good square meal!" So to a restaurant he sped, and ate some squash on ice, and then he stood upon his head when he was told the price. "Your price on squashes makes me hot!" he cried; "your game is bunk! I'd sell a wagonload for what you charged me for that chunk!" Our eyes with teardrops are awash, we're viewing with alarm; for when we go to buy a squash, we have to buy a farm.
