RUOMANIA'S TERMS.

AMSTERDAM, March 7.
The following are the terms of the preliminary peace treaty: (1) Roumania cedes to the Central Allied Powers, Dobruja as far as the Danube; (2) The Powers of the Quadruple Alliance will provide and maintain a trade route for Roumania by way of the Constant Sea to the Black Sea; (3) The frontier rectifications demanded by Austria-Hungary on the frontier of Austria-Hungary and Roumania are accepted in principle by Roumania, likewise economic measures corresponding to the situation are accepted; (4) The Roumanian Government undertakes to demobilize at least 8 divisions of the Roumanian Army. Control will be taken jointly by the upper command of Field Marshal Von Mackensen's army group, and of the Roumanian chief army command as soon as peace is restored between Russia and Roumania. The remaining parts of the Roumanian army also will be demobilized in so far as they are not required for security of service on the Russo-Roumanian frontier; (5) The Roumanian troops are to evacuate immediately the territory of the Austro-Hungarian Monarchy occupied by them; (6) The Roumanian Government undertakes to support with all its strength the transport of troops of the Central Powers through Moldavia and Bessarabia to Odessa; (7) Roumania undertakes immediately to dismiss officers of the Powers who are at war with the Quadruple Alliance and still in Roumanian service. The safe conduct of these officers is assured by the Central Powers. This treaty enters into operation immediately.

MAY NOT ACCEPT PEACE.

LONDON, March 6.
The often repeated statement of English correspondents, that anything may happen in Russia at any time, and that nothing need cause surprise, may possibly be illustrated by the developments there pending the ratification of the Russo-German peace treaty, according to reports appearing here to-day. It is said that a section of the Bolsheviks is in no wise pleased with the surrender of Nikolai Lenin, the Bolshevik Premier, and they are inclined to join the left Socialist revolutionaries. The war spirit of this body, according to the Daily Mail's Petrograd correspondent, predominates and constitutes a formidable opposition to the peace treaty. This war party, it is said, advises that the Petrograd Government institutions be removed into the interior of Russia, from where they can continue to fight against the Germans. It is suggested that the Congress of the Councils, called to meet at Moscow on March 12th, to consider the ratification of the peace treaty, will be made the pretext for evacuating Petrograd under the excuse that it is necessary for the Government departments to attend the Congress. Opposition to the Germans is said to be greater in the Moscow and Provincial Councils than in Petrograd. A Berlin despatch received in Amsterdam to-day, forecasts the early resigning of Lenin and Trotsky owing to their increasing unpopularity.

BOLSHIEVSKI COMMANDERS PROTEST.

LONDON, March 6.
An official Russian statement received here to-day, says: Ensign Krylenko, the Bolshevik Commander-in-Chief has sent a message to the German and Austrian Chief Commanders, stating that the Germans and Austrians are still fighting, notwithstanding the conclusion of peace. Ensign Krylenko asks whether the German high command has taken all steps necessary for cessation of hostilities.

TROTSKY CAN GIVE NO GUARANTEE.

PETROGRAD, March 6.
Trotsky said that if the Bolsheviks could go back to the state of affairs which existed last October, just before they overthrew the Kerensky Government, they would reveal the whole programme which has been put through since that time. In October we didn't exclude the possibility of a holy war, he declared; now we consider such a war possible. The Soldiers' and Workers' Delegates must now fight for organization and order. Trotsky was asked whether the United States might assist in the process of organization by detailing to the Trans-Siberian Railway the three hundred American railway experts now waiting in Japan and what guarantee the Bolsheviks could give that the goods imported in consequence of such assistance would not fall into German hands, he said that if the Russian Government fell into German hands it couldn't protect such supplies but that all sorts of supplies were being evacuated from Petrograd. He was asked whether he thought it possible that if Russia's peace efforts failed the United States and Russia might battle together against German oppression, he replied America and Russia may have different aims, but if we have common stations on the same route I see no reason why we couldn't travel together in the same car, each having the right to fight when it was desired. M. Trotsky said that until the revolution came to Germany, undoubtedly Russia and America would have a common road. We can't change, and we don't expect the American Government to change its face, he added.

EVACUATING PETROGRAD.

LONDON, March 6.
The evacuation of Petrograd has begun. The state ministers, according to a Reuters despatch from Petrograd, dated Tuesday, have started to leave the capital, from which the population is also fleeing hastily. The Bolshevik Government proposes to declare Moscow the Russian capital, and Petrograd a free port.

HEAVY TOLL.

LONDON, March 6.
Commander Billars, Unionist member for Maidstone, in the House of Commons to-day gave submarine sinkings of merchantmen as averaging 70,000 tons weekly in January, and 80,000 tons weekly in February.

GERMAN OFFICIAL.

BERLIN, March 6.
To-day's report from army headquarters announces violent artillery fighting on German positions on the north bank of the Lys. A strong attack by the British near Waaston was repulsed in hand-to-hand fighting. Activity was revived on both sides of the Scarpe, and also in connection with our successful raids north and northwest of St. Quentin, the statement says.

EXTENSIVE RAIDS.

LONDON, March 6.
Field Marshal Haig's official statement issued last night reads: In the raid last night (Monday) at Warnefontaine strong resistance was encountered and at least forty of the enemy were killed. Our troops nevertheless reached the second German line and repulsed two counter attacks with further loss to the enemy. During the night the enemy raided two of our posts, one south of St. Quentin and the other south of Epehy. Four of our

DEATH OF JOHN REDMOND.

LONDON, March 6.
John Redmond died this morning. Mr. Redmond underwent an operation in London last Friday, passed a fair day yesterday, and apparently was maintaining the progress shown Monday. Mr. Redmond passed away peacefully at 7.45 o'clock this morning. Death was due to heart failure following the recent operation. The Irish Convention, which had been supported by Mr. Redmond, yesterday, adopted a message of sympathy in which an earnest wish was expressed for his early and complete recovery. The news of the death of the Nationalist leader brought messages of sorrow and regret from all portions of the community. King George when he was informed of the event was deeply shocked and expressed his profound regret. Premier Lloyd George was similarly moved when he heard the news. The Premier will move an appropriate resolution in the Commons. The recent operation, which was for an intestinal obstruction, was born courageously, and it relieved the patient, but heart failure intervened. The physician attending Mr. Redmond issued the following announcement: "We regret to announce that John Redmond died at 7.45 this morning. Owing to several attacks of illness, a severe operation was faced with great danger. It had become imperative necessary owing to an intestinal obstruction. This was relieved by the operation, and for some days satisfactory progress was maintained. After a fairly comfortable day Tuesday, heart failure supervened during the night, and after a few hours Mr. Redmond passed peacefully away."

TRIBUTE TO REDMOND.

NEW YORK, March 6.
A tribute to John Redmond, the dead Irish Nationalist leader, was paid here to-day by Earl Reading, the British Ambassador to the United States. "I am upset at hearing of his death," the Earl said. "I had known him for many years. He played a great part in the Irish political life and during his whole association with politics in England and from the beginning of the war, he has always taken the stand in the House of Commons that this was a war for liberty. I should like to express my sympathy to all his relatives and friends. His loss will be a severe blow to all who wish for self-government in Ireland."

BRITISH OFFICIAL.

LONDON, March 6.
English troops raided the enemy trenches early this morning east of Bullecourt, and captured a few prisoners and two machine guns, says to-day's war office statement. Our casualties were light. Successful raids also were carried out by our troops last night north of the Scarpe and in the neighborhood of Lens. Southeast of Geuzeeuacourt, a hostile raiding party was repulsed. Additional prisoners and machine guns were taken by us as a result of these encounters.

SOMETHING FOR POLLETTE.

MADISON, Wis., March 6.
A resolution condemning Senator La Follette was passed by a vote of 55 to 12 in the State Assembly this afternoon.

SINKING FASTER THAN BUILDING.

LONDON, March 6.
Sir John R. Ellerman, controlling owner of several steamship lines, speaking to-day at a meeting of the Chamber of Shipping, declared he believed he was right in saying that the whole output of shipping in this country since the outbreak of the war was not enough to replace the losses by marine casualties alone, leaving the losses by enemy action yet to be made up.

NORWEGIAN STEAMER SUNK.

LONDON, March 6.
The Norwegian steamer Havn, of 1,150 tons gross, has been torpedoed without warning. She sank in less than one minute. The crew of 18 had no time to launch a boat and jumped into the sea. The captain and five survivors were landed Monday night. The captain fears that the remainder of the crew were drowned.

BIG OFFENSIVE EXPECTED.

WASHINGTON, March 6.
Renewed possibilities of an Austro-Hungarian strike on the Italian front are indicated in Austrian despatches received here to-day. Important moves of enemy troops were effected during February. The formation by the enemy of a new tactical group similar to that adopted for the offensive of Nov. last has been detected by the Italians. Long columns of troops are still moving forward towards Val Dastico Leragino, and Giudicaria and there is increasing concentration back of the enemy lines of artillery. From the Russian front the best of the Austrian Army leaders have been sent to the Italian front and it appears that General Koerber, who distinguished himself in the Balkans and enjoys the confidence of General Von Hindenburg, is at present in the Valsugana sector. General Conrad is acting as adviser to the high command. Refugee Italian soldiers and refugees from the territory occupied by the enemy say that in the face of the stiff resistance of the Italian army the morale of the enemy is greatly shaken, and many German soldiers deserted and sought refuge in the mountains. Thousands of the deserters were rounded up, and sent to an unknown destination.

TO PROTECT ALLIED INTERESTS.

LONDON, March 6.
The Daily Mail says that joint representations by British, French and Italian Ambassadors in Tokio that Japan intervene in Siberia will be tantamount to a request that Japan take steps necessary to afford prompt and adequate protection to the Allied interests there, the immediate object being to safeguard the military stores at Vladivostok and along the trans-Siberian railway. The Japanese military authorities, says the Daily Mail, will decide how far in Siberia it is possible to carry protective measures, which besides safeguarding military stores also would seek to prevent vast foot marches in the Siberian area, bordering on the west roughly by a line parallel with Omsk, falling into German hands. There is every reason to believe Japan in return for a free hand desires and is prepared to give the Allies every assistance of disinterestedness, and of a singleminded purpose to act swiftly and efficiently solely in joint Allied interests. The American Ambassador is not expected to join in the request. Although the United States is not a formal party to the Allied proposal no opposition to the step now imminent is expected.

CALGARIAN SUNK.

BELFAST, March 6.
The British steamer Calgarian has been torpedoed off the Irish coast. There were 610 persons on board, nearly 500 of whom have been landed at an Irish port. The Calgarian was struck by four torpedoes. The Calgarian was 17,515 tons gross and built in 1914.

NOT FAR APART.

LONDON, March 6.
In paying tribute to the memory of John Redmond in the House to-day, Sir Edward Carson said, "Indeed we were not very apart in our attempts at a solution of the Irish question." Significance seems to be attached to this expression by the Ulster leader
