Beatty's Signal.

The signal made by Admiral Beatty, commanding the Grand Fleet, on November 21st, after the German fleet had surrendered at Scapa Flow, Scotland, sealing the great ceremonial which ended in the lowering of the German flag was as follows:

"The German flag is to be hauled down at 3.57, and is not to be hoisted again without permission."

The signal made by Sir Roger Kever, in charge of the blocking operations whereby on St. George's Day, April 23, the enemy ports of Zebruge and Ostend were bottled up by the sinking of the old battleship Vindictive and other vessels, was "St. George for Merry England."

Both these signals will go down in history side by side with others of naval fame and like tokens, the most dramatic one of all being that of Nelson's at Trafalgar, October 21st, 1805. But Beatty's signal had a greater significance than even that of the great Admiral. Nelson's was an inspiration to his men, and the victory off Cadix was the result. Beatty's, spelled, signed and sealed the complete downfall and submission of the naval power of Germany. Nelson's signal was made prior to battle. Beatty's was made not after the shock of fighting squadrons and in the moment of the colours of the enemy fluttering down, but following the handing over, without a shot being fired, of the complete ensigns of ships which made up the battle forces of Germany on the sea. Such a spectacle, as we have before stated, has no historical parallel. Never, since naval history first began, has there been a record of surrender on a par with that of Germany's fleet. And what does the capitulation denote, if not the one great fact in connection with the defeat of the Germans—the might and power of the British Navy. The Boston Transcript says "it is the token of the failure of that relentless, that sublimation of frightfulness, that cruel super-efficiency upon which the Teutonic genius depended to break the power of England, to paralyse the efforts of America and to win the war. The submarine surrender typifies the failure of this dark and treacherous means of warfare. It bids farewell to the survival of mediæval brutality under the mask of the ultimate resources of civilization. It is the beast of super-barbarism, disguised beneath modern mechanical invention and skill, howling its head before a nobler and manlier conception of warfare. The British Navy has been a prime agency in the winning of the war. It has made possible the provisioning of France and Britain, and the military assistance of America. It shut Germany in upon herself and it spun disaster. The British Navy has been... the chief instrument in the defeat of the Central Empires. It has its triumph to-day (Nov. 21) and the whole free world will rejoice with it, and this triumph carries with it no threat against the future freedom of the seas."

This tribute, this fine generous appreciation of the British Navy will be read with interest by every son of the Empire, with a thrill of pride in the achievement of the Senior Service, which numbers in its ship lists to many hundreds of the gallant Reservists of Newfoundland who have so well maintained the traditions of the Navy, and to whom no niggardly praise has been given by officers who deemed it an honor to have Terra Nova's sons under their command. So long as we have men like these, "Britannia will need no bulwarks." No towers along the steep. The mastery of the sea has been maintained and in that maintenance the hardy sons of Newfoundland have had to small share. We do not owe them, and send them our congratulations upon the glorious part they have played in the victorious struggle against the enemy of civilization. Nelson's signal animated them, and in doing their duty to the Empire they were won for mankind the peerless right of Freedom.

DIPHTHERIA.—A child residing at Flower Hill, was found to be suffering from diphtheria yesterday. The patient is being treated at home.

St. Andrew.

St. Andrew the Apostle, and Patron Saint of Scotland, whose festival is celebrated to-day, was born at Bethsaida in Galilee, and was own brother to Simon Peter. He had been a disciple of John the Baptist, and followed Jesus upon the testimony given him by the Baptist. "One of the two which heard John speak and followed him, was Andrew, Simon Peter's brother" (John 1: 40). Andrew presented to Jesus, Simon Peter, and after passing a day with Christ, they went to the marriage feast at Cana, afterwards returning to their ordinary occupation of fishermen. Some months after this Jesus met them, during their fishing, and called them, saying "Follow me and I will make you fishers of men." And they straightway left their nets and followed him." (Matthew IV: 18-22).

Thus Andrew was the first disciple. Tradition assigns the field of St. Andrew's ministry to Scythia, Greece and Thrace, and he is said to have suffered crucifixion at Patrae (Patras), one of the twelve cities of Achaia, on a cross of the form of the letter X (Crux decussata), now commonly known as St. Andrew's Cross. His relics were afterwards removed from Patrae to Constantinople. St. Andrew as well as being the patronal saint of Scotland, is held in high esteem in Russia, it being held that he evangelized that country, and a Russian order of chivalry to commemorate his name, known as the Order of St. Andrew, was founded in 1898 by Peter the Great. This order is one of the highest of Russia's decorations, and was bestowed only on members and generals who already held other important orders. The St. Andrew's Cross is a diagonal cross of saltire, white on a blue ground, and formed the Scottish national flag from an early date. On the union with England (1707) it was incorporated with the Cross of St. George, and on the union with Ireland (1801) with the Cross of St. Patrick. The Scottish Order of the Thistle is also called St. Andrew.

Supreme Court.

The Insolvency of R. B. Rideout. The case of R. B. Rideout who applied to be declared insolvent before His Lordship the Chief Justice this morning, and further evidence was given including letters and telegrams between the insolvent and some of his creditors. R. B. Rideout was duly declared insolvent and the Registrar of the Court was continued as Trustee, and costs of petitioners Solicitor, Mr. Hunt, to be paid out of the Estate. The prisoner was then arraigned on charges of fraud under the Insolvency Act, and though Mr. Hunt made a strong plea in his behalf, the facts showed fraud of such a gross character which could not be ignored by the Court and the insolvent was sentenced to 6 months in the Penitentiary. Several of the creditors were fishermen who could ill afford to lose the money they had paid to the insolvent for motor engines, which they never received.

St. Patrick's Sale of Work.

A sale of work will be held in the C. C. Hall on next Tuesday, by the ladies of St. Patrick's Parish, who have been some time in preparing for this event and have spared no pains to make it an artistic success, and would sell the public to endeavour to make it the financial success it deserves to be. St. Patrick's Church has undertaken the repairs the past year and it is to be seen what an immense improvement those repairs have made. The interior has been especially beautified by a ruyt and communion rail of splendid design and the whole newly painted. It has also undergone much needed renovations with regard to its exterior, the grounds around being sodded, a new entrance and vestry being added, and all agree that a vast improvement has been made; well, it cost money—come along with a helping dollar.

Strike Settled.

The coal heavers who went on strike yesterday, returning to work this morning. The American Government agreed to the request of the men in giving them the pay asked, viz., 60 cents per hour for the day and 80 cents by night starting from to-day until the cargo is discharged. It is refused, however, to pay the men the increase from the time they started to unload, and also to pay them for the six hours idleness at the beginning of which, we understand, they demanded.

St. Andrew's Soc'y Celebrates

ANNIVERSARY OF PATRON SAINT.

Last night in their club rooms, Smallwood Building, the members of the Nfld. St. Andrew's Society held an enjoyable affair in honor of their Patron Saint. In the regrettable absence of President H. D. Reid, also Past President Browning, Mr. A. K. Lumsden presided in his usual genial manner. The first part of the night's entertainment consisted of a card tournament, the prizes being won by Mrs. Strang, Mrs. Ross, Mr. Taylor and Mr. Forbes. This was followed by solos by Mrs. King, Miss Mitchell and Mr. Karl Trappnell, each of whom had to respond to encores. The accompanists were Mrs. Dickie and Miss Robertson. After these delightful numbers had been rendered, refreshments were partaken of, followed by dancing. The special feature of the night was telegraphed greetings from St. Andrew's Society of Montreal, and St. Andrew's Society, St. Stephen, New Brunswick, and the President, H. D. Reid, as follows:

St. Andrew's Society of Montreal, 33rd anniversary greeting.
We greet thee once again, our kinsmen true.
In days of triumph we rejoice with you.
A manly fight was fought through all the years.
And none were daunted, nor o'erwhelmed with fears.
On this, the Natal Day of Saint of memory dear.
We send our warmest greetings, all your hearts to cheer.
(Signed) GEO. S. CANTLIE,
President.

Girls! Have a Mass

of Beautiful Hair,
Soft, Glossy, Wavy

A small bottle destroys dandruff and doubles beauty of your hair.

Within ten minutes after an application of Danderine you can not find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance.

Get a small bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter for a few cents and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that all you surely can have beautiful hair and lots of it if you will just try a little Danderine.

Messrs. Cleveland Rubber Co.,
St. John's.

Dear Sirs.—Having bought my second pair of Buddy Boots at Short & Sons, and my first pair at W. R. Goobie's in April 1916, and being the second pair in Hant's Harbor, I thought it may be worth while to drop you a line in recommendation, and thereby enter your contest and make my chance in winning one of your prizes.

I may say I have found your Boots to be very comfortable, and of long wearing quality, fully capable of standing the hardships, and produce the comfort that fishermen require.

My first pair of Buddy Boots lasted me over twelve months, with the hardest kind of wear, and suited me so well that I had no hesitation in buying my second.

Wishing you well and the Buddy Boots every success,
I remain,
Yours respectfully,

How Enemy Attempts to Destroy Tay Bridge. Action of Force Not commenced -- Asquith of Home Rule.

DELIBERATELY UNTRUE.

LONDON, Nov. 29.

A condensed report of the session of the German representatives of the German states, at Berlin early this week, is given in the German wire service of Nov. 27. The attacks of Dr. Solz, the Foreign Secy., and his Erzbischof are omitted in the report, but it includes an account of Dr. Solz's speech. The Foreign minister is quoted as saying, among other things, in England, a mighty spirit of victory prevails, and Lord Lansdowne and Arthur Henderson (Labor Party Leader) have been silenced, and Lord Robert Cecil's resignation may presumably be attributed to his attitude towards the League of Nations. Whether it is laudatory or not, Dr. Solz may be said to be correct, when he says that the spirit of victory prevails in England, everyone included. It is true that Lord Lansdowne and Mr. Henderson joyfully rejoiced at the triumphant spirit of right over might, which Allied powers have secured for the world against the great German empire, but Dr. Solz's statement, regarding Lord Robert Cecil, must be said to be incorrect. Dr. Solz has resigned on no grounds of policy, whatsoever. He has expressed himself in full agreement with the whole policy of the Government, with the one exception of its attitude toward the question of the high church disestablishment and endowment act.

GEORGE CAPTURES PARIS.

PARIS, Nov. 29.

After the luncheon at Versailles, King George and the Princess, accompanied by President Poincare, ministers and other officials, proceeded to the City Hall. Mr. Clemenceau was slightly indisposed, was not present. All along the route the King greeted enthusiastically. Arriving in the inner yard of the City Hall, several addresses were made, including the King to a Paris, and stating him on the victory over the Teutonic Allies. King George, speaking in French, thanked the Government and people for their reception, and expressed satisfaction that Paris had suffered so little in trials it had undergone. After the King had signed the Golden Book of the City of Paris, he left the City Hall and returned to the City Office. Again the populace greeted the monarch enthusiastically.
