

The Advertiser

founded by John Cameron in 1863.

THE DAILY ADVERTISER.

Daily, by mail, per year (6 to 16 pages).....$4 00
 Daily, by mail, for three months.....1 00
 Saturday Edition, 16 pages, including
 "Citizen and Home Guard".....1 00
 All subscriptions payable in advance.

IN LONDON:

Morning Edition, 80 per annum; Evening Edition, 10c per week, delivered.

THE WESTERN ADVERTISER.

(OUR WEEKLY EDITION)

By mail, per annum.....$1 00

JOHN CAMERON, President and Manager.

ADVERTISING RATES

Made known on application at office. Address all communications to

ADVERTISER PRINTING CO., LONDON, CANADA.

London, Friday, Oct. 26.

Canada's Future.

The Liberals, the Patrons and Their Respective Attitudes.

Sir Richard Cartwright on the Duty of the Hour.

Long Fight of the Liberals Against the Class Taxation Law.

They Lost Power Rather Than For-sake Principle.

Mr. McCarthy's Contentment—A Record of Economy—In Favor of Honest Administration—Danger of Division.

The following letter was recently received by a Patron in Lennox county from Sir Richard Cartwright, and has been handed to the Patron for publication:

"My Dear Sir,—I am very well and understand the difficulty felt by you as well as by many other Liberal farmers as between the claims of your party and of the Patrons of Industry.

"Permit me in the first place to say that in its main features, so far as they affect Dominion politics, I am heartily in sympathy with the new movement of Canada, and especially of Ontario, ought to assert themselves more than they do, and as you well know, I have always maintained that they are, from the very nature of the case, in a very special degree victimized by the protective system.

INCREASED TAXATION.

"I know, no man better, how utterly fatal any protective system must be to liberty and to honest and economical government; and it was the profound conviction of this fact, quite as much as any belief in the material injury it was certain to work to the chief interests of Canada (as I pointed out in my budget speech of 1876, and have done continuously ever since), which induced Mr. Mackenzie and myself and our colleagues to set our faces dogmatically against the introduction of that most pernicious system here.

INCREASED TAXATION.

"I know, no man better, how enormously the real taxes paid by farmers (and by all wage earners) have been increased of late years and how greatly their difficulties have been augmented by the developments which have taken place in other great food producing regions. I may add also that very few farmers in Lennox have suffered more than I have done from the very same causes which have injured them. If their lands have shrunk in value, so have mine. If their incomes have been reduced from the causes I have enumerated, so has mine. If they find themselves in a very much worse position after, and in consequence of fifteen years of protection, so do I; nor do I believe there is one single individual in this county of Lennox (quite apart from all questions of politics)—who would be a greater gainer than myself from the removal of these oppressive trade restrictions and by the introduction of a wiser and honest system of taxation.

A WARNING.

"Nevertheless, I feel that there is great danger of their making a very grave mistake at this juncture. The foes of liberty and good government are a very powerful body in Canada today. They are strongly entrenched and very highly organized indeed. Protection has many roots. It has a full treasury and a great hold on a large part of the press of this country. It holds the reins of government, and it has a very large proportion of the active wealth of the Dominion on its side. You may be sure it will die hard here as well as in the United States. Now, this being so, for the opponents of such a foe to quarrel with each other on the very pitched battle against the common enemy is, as the French statesman said, even worse than a crime—it would be an irreparable and unforgivable blunder.

AN ENVILABLE RECORD.

"Under such circumstances it becomes every Liberal who may have joined the Patrons to consider the position seriously. Wherever there is an honest difference of opinion on questions of importance I have nothing to say. But what are the differences between the Liberal party and the Patrons of Industry at this moment? It is true that in matters affecting local affairs there may be differences on one or two minor points—certainly not on any questions of vital importance. But as regards Dominion politics their professed objects are literally identical. The Patrons desire economy in administration. So do the Liberals; and what is more, when they were in power from 1873 to 1878 they practised it. For five whole years the public expenditure was kept stationary at a very moderate figure as compared with the present outlay, and this was done although the Liberal party was compelled to provide for a vast mass of costly engagements contracted by their predecessors before they took office and against their votes and protests. Nay, more, in these five years the 'controllable' expenditure of Canada was reduced about 20 per cent from $8,500,000 to about $6,750,000, a thing no government has attempted before or since; and the gross amount of expenditure was kept steady at $23,500,000, instead of $27,000,000, which it cost last year, being a difference of fully $13,500,000—the exact value, I believe, of our whole export of cheese in 1893, so that the whole fruit of that most important industry, which it has taken 50 years to build up, barely equals the waste of the last four years.

CARDINAL LIBERAL PLANK.

"Then the Patrons desire to reform the tariff and to improve the system of taxation. Good again. By all means let us do so. This is the very cardinal plank of the Liberal platform, and has been so ever since 1878, as the records of Parliament testify most abundantly. The Patrons desire that the interests of the farmers be fairly considered. Was it not solely and simply because the Mackenzie Government would not agree to deliver over the farmer bound hand and foot to the tender mercies of the ring of would-be protected manufacturers that Mr. Mackenzie was defeated in 1878? Let me ask, too, by whose votes was Mr. Mackenzie defeated then? I do not say it as a reproach, but it is a matter of history that Mr. Mackenzie was defeated by the votes of Liberal farmers who were cajoled by the false promises of home markets, high prices and general prosperity held out by the reckless and ignorant charlatans who foisted this precious protective system on Canada in 1878.

THE USELESS SENATE.

"Let us further analyze the Patron plank. Let us take the first plank, the abolition of the Senate. Here the vast majority of Ontario Liberals will certainly agree with the Patrons. The existence of such a body in its present shape is absolutely indefensible and a most manifest blot on representative government. It represents nothing, except the very worst element of a faction. It is irresponsible and entirely irresponsible either to the crown or to the people, and is as nearly absolutely useless (besides being expensive) as any institution of the sort well can be. But waiving the question whether it may or may not be possible to create a Senate which might be of some real service to the State, let me remember that ours is a Federal constitution and that whether the people of Ontario like it or not, the Senate can only be abolished by an act of the Imperial Parliament, which act will assuredly not be passed without the concurrence of a decided majority of the several Local Legislatures. On this point, therefore, while there is no difference of opinion, there is no great possibility of immediate action.

OTHER PLANKS CONSIDERED.

"What are the other planks of the Patron plank affecting Dominion politics? They are these: 1. Economy of administration. 2. Purity and independence of Parliament. 3. Tariff for revenue only. 4. Reciprocal trade. 5. Protection of labor from monopolies. 6. No railway bonuses. 7. Voters' lists by local officials. 8. No gerrymandering. 9. Lands for sale. Now, there is simply no single one of all these objects which the Liberal party have not been fighting for, moving resolutions for and doing their very best to obtain any time during the last twenty years. Look at the records of Parliament. Look especially at the several motions on the budget. Look at the very last plank moved by myself in Parliament, and you will see that as regards Dominion politics there is absolutely no ground for difference between the Patrons and the Liberal party. When the Liberals were in power, as I have shown and proved, they were in fact as well as in name a most economical party. No party either has ever suffered so severely as they have done, especially in Ontario, by franchise acts, by gerrymander bills, by the incessant bribes practiced against them by means of railway bonuses, by the creation of monopolies privileged to plunder the people on condition of sharing the spoils with the opponents of the Liberal party.

TARIFF FOR REVENUE ONLY.

"Tariff for revenue only, and no duties on luxuries and not on necessities, reciprocity and reservation of lands for the actual settler, are things the Liberals, collectively and individually, have always advocated, nor is there any single argument which has ever been advanced in favor of all these things either by the Patrons or anybody else which had not been previously stated and most generally attacked by myself in Parliament and out of it. All this I make no doubt is quite well known to a man of your intelligence and does it not prove the truth of my contention?

OBJECTS ABSOLUTELY IDENTICAL.

"You see as I have said that the objects of both organizations are absolutely identical. The Liberal party for fifteen years and more have been fighting at many points for the very objects the Patrons profess to desire. The Liberal party lost office rather than forsake these principles. The Liberal party might have long since regained office if they would have betrayed them, and yet we find certain Patrons continually declaring that both parties are alike and advising their associates to make no distinction between a Liberal and a protectionist candidate. Take the evidence of our life-long opponents. You know what Mr. McCarthy said on this subject. Here are his very words:

"And to get into power, my friend says. He is a politician. No doubt in the world that we were out of power, and by going in for the N. P. and more have been fighting at many points for the very objects the Patrons profess to desire. The Liberal party lost office rather than forsake these principles. The Liberal party might have long since regained office if they would have betrayed them, and yet we find certain Patrons continually declaring that both parties are alike and advising their associates to make no distinction between a Liberal and a protectionist candidate. Take the evidence of our life-long opponents. You know what Mr. McCarthy said on this subject. Here are his very words:

"And to get into power, my friend says. He is a politician. No doubt in the world that we were out of power, and by going in for the N. P. and more have been fighting at many points for the very objects the Patrons profess to desire. The Liberal party lost office rather than forsake these principles. The Liberal party might have long since regained office if they would have betrayed them, and yet we find certain Patrons continually declaring that both parties are alike and advising their associates to make no distinction between a Liberal and a protectionist candidate. Take the evidence of our life-long opponents. You know what Mr. McCarthy said on this subject. Here are his very words:

"And to get into power, my friend says. He is a politician. No doubt in the world that we were out of power, and by going in for the N. P. and more have been fighting at many points for the very objects the Patrons profess to desire. The Liberal party lost office rather than forsake these principles. The Liberal party might have long since regained office if they would have betrayed them, and yet we find certain Patrons continually declaring that both parties are alike and advising their associates to make no distinction between a Liberal and a protectionist candidate. Take the evidence of our life-long opponents. You know what Mr. McCarthy said on this subject. Here are his very words:

"And to get into power, my friend says. He is a politician. No doubt in the world that we were out of power, and by going in for the N. P. and more have been fighting at many points for the very objects the Patrons profess to desire. The Liberal party lost office rather than forsake these principles. The Liberal party might have long since regained office if they would have betrayed them, and yet we find certain Patrons continually declaring that both parties are alike and advising their associates to make no distinction between a Liberal and a protectionist candidate. Take the evidence of our life-long opponents. You know what Mr. McCarthy said on this subject. Here are his very words:

"And to get into power, my friend says. He is a politician. No doubt in the world that we were out of power, and by going in for the N. P. and more have been fighting at many points for the very objects the Patrons profess to desire. The Liberal party lost office rather than forsake these principles. The Liberal party might have long since regained office if they would have betrayed them, and yet we find certain Patrons continually declaring that both parties are alike and advising their associates to make no distinction between a Liberal and a protectionist candidate. Take the evidence of our life-long opponents. You know what Mr. McCarthy said on this subject. Here are his very words:

"And to get into power, my friend says. He is a politician. No doubt in the world that we were out of power, and by going in for the N. P. and more have been fighting at many points for the very objects the Patrons profess to desire. The Liberal party lost office rather than forsake these principles. The Liberal party might have long since regained office if they would have betrayed them, and yet we find certain Patrons continually declaring that both parties are alike and advising their associates to make no distinction between a Liberal and a protectionist candidate. Take the evidence of our life-long opponents. You know what Mr. McCarthy said on this subject. Here are his very words:

"And to get into power, my friend says. He is a politician. No doubt in the world that we were out of power, and by going in for the N. P. and more have been fighting at many points for the very objects the Patrons profess to desire. The Liberal party lost office rather than forsake these principles. The Liberal party might have long since regained office if they would have betrayed them, and yet we find certain Patrons continually declaring that both parties are alike and advising their associates to make no distinction between a Liberal and a protectionist candidate. Take the evidence of our life-long opponents. You know what Mr. McCarthy said on this subject. Here are his very words:

"And to get into power, my friend says. He is a politician. No doubt in the world that we were out of power, and by going in for the N. P. and more have been fighting at many points for the very objects the Patrons profess to desire. The Liberal party lost office rather than forsake these principles. The Liberal party might have long since regained office if they would have betrayed them, and yet we find certain Patrons continually declaring that both parties are alike and advising their associates to make no distinction between a Liberal and a protectionist candidate. Take the evidence of our life-long opponents. You know what Mr. McCarthy said on this subject. Here are his very words:

"And to get into power, my friend says. He is a politician. No doubt in the world that we were out of power, and by going in for the N. P. and more have been fighting at many points for the very objects the Patrons profess to desire. The Liberal party lost office rather than forsake these principles. The Liberal party might have long since regained office if they would have betrayed them, and yet we find certain Patrons continually declaring that both parties are alike and advising their associates to make no distinction between a Liberal and a protectionist candidate. Take the evidence of our life-long opponents. You know what Mr. McCarthy said on this subject. Here are his very words:

"And to get into power, my friend says. He is a politician. No doubt in the world that we were out of power, and by going in for the N. P. and more have been fighting at many points for the very objects the Patrons profess to desire. The Liberal party lost office rather than forsake these principles. The Liberal party might have long since regained office if they would have betrayed them, and yet we find certain Patrons continually declaring that both parties are alike and advising their associates to make no distinction between a Liberal and a protectionist candidate. Take the evidence of our life-long opponents. You know what Mr. McCarthy said on this subject. Here are his very words:

"And to get into power, my friend says. He is a politician. No doubt in the world that we were out of power, and by going in for the N. P. and more have been fighting at many points for the very objects the Patrons profess to desire. The Liberal party lost office rather than forsake these principles. The Liberal party might have long since regained office if they would have betrayed them, and yet we find certain Patrons continually declaring that both parties are alike and advising their associates to make no distinction between a Liberal and a protectionist candidate. Take the evidence of our life-long opponents. You know what Mr. McCarthy said on this subject. Here are his very words:

"And to get into power, my friend says. He is a politician. No doubt in the world that we were out of power, and by going in for the N. P. and more have been fighting at many points for the very objects the Patrons profess to desire. The Liberal party lost office rather than forsake these principles. The Liberal party might have long since regained office if they would have betrayed them, and yet we find certain Patrons continually declaring that both parties are alike and advising their associates to make no distinction between a Liberal and a protectionist candidate. Take the evidence of our life-long opponents. You know what Mr. McCarthy said on this subject. Here are his very words:

"And to get into power, my friend says. He is a politician. No doubt in the world that we were out of power, and by going in for the N. P. and more have been fighting at many points for the very objects the Patrons profess to desire. The Liberal party lost office rather than forsake these principles. The Liberal party might have long since regained office if they would have betrayed them, and yet we find certain Patrons continually declaring that both parties are alike and advising their associates to make no distinction between a Liberal and a protectionist candidate. Take the evidence of our life-long opponents. You know what Mr. McCarthy said on this subject. Here are his very words:

"And to get into power, my friend says. He is a politician. No doubt in the world that we were out of power, and by going in for the N. P. and more have been fighting at many points for the very objects the Patrons profess to desire. The Liberal party lost office rather than forsake these principles. The Liberal party might have long since regained office if they would have betrayed them, and yet we find certain Patrons continually declaring that both parties are alike and advising their associates to make no distinction between a Liberal and a protectionist candidate. Take the evidence of our life-long opponents. You know what Mr. McCarthy said on this subject. Here are his very words:

"And to get into power, my friend says. He is a politician. No doubt in the world that we were out of power, and by going in for the N. P. and more have been fighting at many points for the very objects the Patrons profess to desire. The Liberal party lost office rather than forsake these principles. The Liberal party might have long since regained office if they would have betrayed them, and yet we find certain Patrons continually declaring that both parties are alike and advising their associates to make no distinction between a Liberal and a protectionist candidate. Take the evidence of our life-long opponents. You know what Mr. McCarthy said on this subject. Here are his very words:

"And to get into power, my friend says. He is a politician. No doubt in the world that we were out of power, and by going in for the N. P. and more have been fighting at many points for the very objects the Patrons profess to desire. The Liberal party lost office rather than forsake these principles. The Liberal party might have long since regained office if they would have betrayed them, and yet we find certain Patrons continually declaring that both parties are alike and advising their associates to make no distinction between a Liberal and a protectionist candidate. Take the evidence of our life-long opponents. You know what Mr. McCarthy said on this subject. Here are his very words:

"And to get into power, my friend says. He is a politician. No doubt in the world that we were out of power, and by going in for the N. P. and more have been fighting at many points for the very objects the Patrons profess to desire. The Liberal party lost office rather than forsake these principles. The Liberal party might have long since regained office if they would have betrayed them, and yet we find certain Patrons continually declaring that both parties are alike and advising their associates to make no distinction between a Liberal and a protectionist candidate. Take the evidence of our life-long opponents. You know what Mr. McCarthy said on this subject. Here are his very words:

"And to get into power, my friend says. He is a politician. No doubt in the world that we were out of power, and by going in for the N. P. and more have been fighting at many points for the very objects the Patrons profess to desire. The Liberal party lost office rather than forsake these principles. The Liberal party might have long since regained office if they would have betrayed them, and yet we find certain Patrons continually declaring that both parties are alike and advising their associates to make no distinction between a Liberal and a protectionist candidate. Take the evidence of our life-long opponents. You know what Mr. McCarthy said on this subject. Here are his very words:

"And to get into power, my friend says. He is a politician. No doubt in the world that we were out of power, and by going in for the N. P. and more have been fighting at many points for the very objects the Patrons profess to desire. The Liberal party lost office rather than forsake these principles. The Liberal party might have long since regained office if they would have betrayed them, and yet we find certain Patrons continually declaring that both parties are alike and advising their associates to make no distinction between a Liberal and a protectionist candidate. Take the evidence of our life-long opponents. You know what Mr. McCarthy said on this subject. Here are his very words:

"And to get into power, my friend says. He is a politician. No doubt in the world that we were out of power, and by going in for the N. P. and more have been fighting at many points for the very objects the Patrons profess to desire. The Liberal party lost office rather than forsake these principles. The Liberal party might have long since regained office if they would have betrayed them, and yet we find certain Patrons continually declaring that both parties are alike and advising their associates to make no distinction between a Liberal and a protectionist candidate. Take the evidence of our life-long opponents. You know what Mr. McCarthy said on this subject. Here are his very words:

"And to get into power, my friend says. He is a politician. No doubt in the world that we were out of power, and by going in for the N. P. and more have been fighting at many points for the very objects the Patrons profess to desire. The Liberal party lost office rather than forsake these principles. The Liberal party might have long since regained office if they would have betrayed them, and yet we find certain Patrons continually declaring that both parties are alike and advising their associates to make no distinction between a Liberal and a protectionist candidate. Take the evidence of our life-long opponents. You know what Mr. McCarthy said on this subject. Here are his very words:

"And to get into power, my friend says. He is a politician. No doubt in the world that we were out of power, and by going in for the N. P. and more have been fighting at many points for the very objects the Patrons profess to desire. The Liberal party lost office rather than forsake these principles. The Liberal party might have long since regained office if they would have betrayed them, and yet we find certain Patrons continually declaring that both parties are alike and advising their associates to make no distinction between a Liberal and a protectionist candidate. Take the evidence of our life-long opponents. You know what Mr. McCarthy said on this subject. Here are his very words:

"And to get into power, my friend says. He is a politician. No doubt in the world that we were out of power, and by going in for the N. P. and more have been fighting at many points for the very objects the Patrons profess to desire. The Liberal party lost office rather than forsake these principles. The Liberal party might have long since regained office if they would have betrayed them, and yet we find certain Patrons continually declaring that both parties are alike and advising their associates to make no distinction between a Liberal and a protectionist candidate. Take the evidence of our life-long opponents. You know what Mr. McCarthy said on this subject. Here are his very words:

"And to get into power, my friend says. He is a politician. No doubt in the world that we were out of power, and by going in for the N. P. and more have been fighting at many points for the very objects the Patrons profess to desire. The Liberal party lost office rather than forsake these principles. The Liberal party might have long since regained office if they would have betrayed them, and yet we find certain Patrons continually declaring that both parties are alike and advising their associates to make no distinction between a Liberal and a protectionist candidate. Take the evidence of our life-long opponents. You know what Mr. McCarthy said on this subject. Here are his very words:

"And to get into power, my friend says. He is a politician. No doubt in the world that we were out of power, and by going in for the N. P. and more have been fighting at many points for the very objects the Patrons profess to desire. The Liberal party lost office rather than forsake these principles. The Liberal party might have long since regained office if they would have betrayed them, and yet we find certain Patrons continually declaring that both parties are alike and advising their associates to make no distinction between a Liberal and a protectionist candidate. Take the evidence of our life-long opponents. You know what Mr. McCarthy said on this subject. Here are his very words:

"And to get into power, my friend says. He is a politician. No doubt in the world that we were out of power, and by going in for the N. P. and more have been fighting at many points for the very objects the Patrons profess to desire. The Liberal party lost office rather than forsake these principles. The Liberal party might have long since regained office if they would have betrayed them, and yet we find certain Patrons continually declaring that both parties are alike and advising their associates to make no distinction between a Liberal and a protectionist candidate. Take the evidence of our life-long opponents. You know what Mr. McCarthy said on this subject. Here are his very words:

"And to get into power, my friend says. He is a politician. No doubt in the world that we were out of power, and by going in for the N. P. and more have been fighting at many points for the very objects the Patrons profess to desire. The Liberal party lost office rather than forsake these principles. The Liberal party might have long since regained office if they would have betrayed them, and yet we find certain Patrons continually declaring that both parties are alike and advising their associates to make no distinction between a Liberal and a protectionist candidate. Take the evidence of our life-long opponents. You know what Mr. McCarthy said on this subject. Here are his very words:

"And to get into power, my friend says. He is a politician. No doubt in the world that we were out of power, and by going in for the N. P. and more have been fighting at many points for the very objects the Patrons profess to desire. The Liberal party lost office rather than forsake these principles. The Liberal party might have long since regained office if they would have betrayed them, and yet we find certain Patrons continually declaring that both parties are alike and advising their associates to make no distinction between a Liberal and a protectionist candidate. Take the evidence of our life-long opponents. You know what Mr. McCarthy said on this subject. Here are his very words:

"And to get into power, my friend says. He is a politician. No doubt in the world that we were out of power, and by going in for the N. P. and more have been fighting at many points for the very objects the Patrons profess to desire. The Liberal party lost office rather than forsake these principles. The Liberal party might have long since regained office if they would have betrayed them, and yet we find certain Patrons continually declaring that both parties are alike and advising their associates to make no distinction between a Liberal and a protectionist candidate. Take the evidence of our life-long opponents. You know what Mr. McCarthy said on this subject. Here are his very words:

"And to get into power, my friend says. He is a politician. No doubt in the world that we were out of power, and by going in for the N. P. and more have been fighting at many points for the very objects the Patrons profess to desire. The Liberal party lost office rather than forsake these principles. The Liberal party might have long since regained office if they would have betrayed them, and yet we find certain Patrons continually declaring that both parties are alike and advising their associates to make no distinction between a Liberal and a protectionist candidate. Take the evidence of our life-long opponents. You know what Mr. McCarthy said on this subject. Here are his very words:

"And to get into power, my friend says. He is a politician. No doubt in the world that we were out of power, and by going in for the N. P. and more have been fighting at many points for the very objects the Patrons profess to desire. The Liberal party lost office rather than forsake these principles. The Liberal party might have long since regained office if they would have betrayed them, and yet we find certain Patrons continually declaring that both parties are alike and advising their associates to make no distinction between a Liberal and a protectionist candidate. Take the evidence of our life-long opponents. You know what Mr. McCarthy said on this subject. Here are his very words:

"And to get into power, my friend says. He is a politician. No doubt in the world that we were out of power, and by going in for the N. P. and more have been fighting at many points for the very objects the Patrons profess to desire. The Liberal party lost office rather than forsake these principles. The Liberal party might have long since regained office if they would have betrayed them, and yet we find certain Patrons continually declaring that both parties are alike and advising their associates to make no distinction between a Liberal and a protectionist candidate. Take the evidence of our life-long opponents. You know what Mr. McCarthy said on this subject. Here are his very words:

"And to get into power, my friend says. He is a politician. No doubt in the world that we were out of power, and by going in for the N. P. and more have been fighting at many points for the very objects the Patrons profess to desire. The Liberal party lost office rather than forsake these principles. The Liberal party might have long since regained office if they would have betrayed them, and yet we find certain Patrons continually declaring that both parties are alike and advising their associates to make no distinction between a Liberal and a protectionist candidate. Take the evidence of our life-long opponents. You know what Mr. McCarthy said on this subject. Here are his very words:

"And to get into power, my friend says. He is a politician. No doubt in the world that we were out of power, and by going in for the N. P. and more have been fighting at many points for the very objects the Patrons profess to desire. The Liberal party lost office rather than forsake these principles. The Liberal party might have long since regained office if they would have betrayed them, and yet we find certain Patrons continually declaring that both parties are alike and advising their associates to make no distinction between a Liberal and a protectionist candidate. Take the evidence of our life-long opponents. You know what Mr. McCarthy said on this subject. Here are his very words:

"And to get into power, my friend says. He is a politician. No doubt in the world that we were out of power, and by going in for the N. P. and more have been fighting at many points for the very objects the Patrons profess to desire. The Liberal party lost office rather than forsake these principles. The Liberal party might have long since regained office if they would have betrayed them, and yet we find certain Patrons continually declaring that both parties are alike and advising their associates to make no distinction between a Liberal and a protectionist candidate. Take the evidence of our life-long opponents. You know what Mr. McCarthy said on this subject. Here are his very words:

"And to get into power, my friend says. He is a politician. No doubt in the world that we were out of power, and by going in for the N. P. and more have been fighting at many points for the very objects the Patrons profess to desire. The Liberal party lost office rather than forsake these principles. The Liberal party might have long since regained office if they would have betrayed them, and yet we find certain Patrons continually declaring that both parties are alike and advising their associates to make no distinction between a Liberal and a protectionist candidate. Take the evidence of our life-long opponents. You know what Mr. McCarthy said on this subject. Here are his very words:

"And to get into power, my friend says. He is a politician. No doubt in the world that we were out of power, and by going in for the N. P. and more have been fighting at many points for the very objects the Patrons profess to desire. The Liberal party lost office rather than forsake these principles. The Liberal party might have long since regained office if they would have betrayed them, and yet we find certain Patrons continually declaring that both parties are alike and advising their associates to make no distinction between a Liberal and a protectionist candidate. Take the evidence of our life-long opponents. You know what Mr. McCarthy said on this subject. Here are his very words:

"And to get into power, my friend says. He is a politician. No doubt in the world that we were out of power, and by going in for the N. P. and more have been fighting at many points for the very objects the Patrons profess to desire. The Liberal party lost office rather than forsake these principles. The Liberal party might have long since regained office if they would have betrayed them, and yet we find certain Patrons continually declaring that both parties are alike and advising their associates to make no distinction between a Liberal and a protectionist candidate. Take the evidence of our life-long opponents. You know what Mr. McCarthy said on this subject. Here are his very words:

"And to get into power, my friend says. He is a politician. No doubt in the world that we were out of power, and by going in for the N. P. and more have been fighting at many points for the very objects the Patrons profess to desire. The Liberal party lost office rather than forsake these principles. The Liberal party might have long since regained office if they would have betrayed them, and yet we find certain Patrons continually declaring that both parties are alike and advising their associates to make no distinction between a Liberal and a protectionist candidate. Take the evidence of our life-long opponents. You know what Mr. McCarthy said on this subject. Here are his very words:

"And to get into power, my friend says. He is a politician. No doubt in the world that we were out of power, and by going in for the N. P. and more have been fighting at many points for the very objects the Patrons profess to desire. The Liberal party lost office rather than forsake these principles. The Liberal party might have long since regained office if they would have betrayed them, and yet we find certain Patrons continually declaring that both parties are alike and advising their associates to make no distinction between a Liberal and a protectionist candidate. Take the evidence of our life-long opponents. You know what Mr. McCarthy said on this subject. Here are his very words:

"And to get into power, my friend says. He is a politician. No doubt in the world that we were out of power, and by going in for the N. P. and more have been fighting at many points for the very objects the Patrons profess to desire. The Liberal party lost office rather than forsake these principles. The Liberal party might have long since regained office if they would have betrayed them, and yet we find certain Patrons continually declaring that both parties are alike and advising their associates to make no distinction between a Liberal and a protectionist candidate. Take the evidence of our life-long opponents. You know what Mr. McCarthy said on this subject. Here are his very words:

"And to get into power, my friend says. He is a politician. No doubt in the world that we were out of power, and by going in for the N. P. and more have been fighting at many points for the very objects the Patrons profess to desire. The Liberal party lost office rather than forsake these principles. The Liberal party might have long since regained office if they would have betrayed them, and yet we find certain Patrons continually declaring that both parties are alike and advising their associates to make no distinction between a Liberal and a protectionist candidate. Take the evidence of our life-long opponents. You know what Mr. McCarthy said on this subject. Here are his very words:

"And to get into power, my friend says. He is a politician. No doubt in the world that we were out of power, and by going in for the N. P. and more have been fighting at many points for the very objects the Patrons profess to desire. The Liberal party lost office rather than forsake these principles. The Liberal party might have long since regained office if they would have betrayed them, and yet we find certain Patrons continually declaring that both parties are alike and advising their associates to make no distinction between a Liberal and a protectionist candidate. Take the evidence of our life-long opponents. You know what Mr. McCarthy said on this subject. Here are his very words:

"And to get into power, my friend says. He is a politician. No doubt in the world that we were out of power, and by going in for the N. P. and more have been fighting at many points for the very objects the Patrons profess to desire. The Liberal party lost office rather than forsake these principles. The Liberal party might have long since regained office if they would have betrayed them, and yet we find certain Patrons continually declaring that both parties are alike and advising their associates to make no distinction between a Liberal and a protectionist candidate. Take the evidence of our life-long opponents. You know what Mr. McCarthy said on this subject. Here are his very words:

"And to get into power, my friend says. He is a politician. No doubt in the world that we were out of power, and by going in for the N. P. and more have been fighting at many points for the very objects the Patrons profess to desire. The Liberal party lost office rather than forsake these principles. The Liberal party might have long since regained office if they would have betrayed them, and yet we find certain Patrons continually declaring that both parties are alike and advising their associates to make no distinction between a Liberal and a protectionist candidate. Take the evidence of our life-long opponents. You know what Mr. McCarthy said on this subject. Here are his very words:

"And to get into power, my friend says. He is a politician. No doubt in the world that we were out of power, and by going in for the N. P. and more have been fighting at many points for the very objects the Patrons profess to desire. The Liberal party lost office rather than forsake these principles. The Liberal party might have long since regained office if they would have betrayed them, and yet we find certain Patrons continually declaring that both parties are alike and advising their associates to make no distinction between a Liberal and a protectionist candidate. Take the evidence of our life-long opponents. You know what Mr. McCarthy said on this subject. Here are his very words:

"And to get into power, my friend says. He is a politician. No doubt in the world that we were out of power, and by going in for the N. P. and more have been fighting at many points for the very objects the Patrons profess to desire. The Liberal party lost office rather than forsake these principles. The Liberal party might have long since regained office if they would have betrayed them, and yet we find certain Patrons continually declaring that both parties are alike and advising their associates to make no distinction between a Liberal and a protectionist candidate. Take the evidence of our life-long opponents. You know what Mr. McCarthy said on this subject. Here are his very words:

"And to get into power, my friend says. He is a politician. No doubt in the world that we were out of power, and by going in for the N. P. and more have been fighting at many points for the very objects the Patrons profess to desire. The Liberal party lost office rather than forsake these principles. The Liberal party might have long since regained office if they would have betrayed them, and yet we find certain Patrons continually declaring that both parties are alike and advising their associates to make no distinction between a Liberal and a protectionist candidate. Take the evidence of our life-long opponents. You know what Mr. McCarthy said on this subject. Here are his very words:

"And to get into power, my friend says. He is a politician. No doubt in the world that we were out of power, and by going in for the N. P. and more have been fighting at many points for the very objects the Patrons profess to desire. The Liberal party lost office rather than forsake these principles. The Liberal party might have long since regained office if they would have betrayed them, and yet we find certain Patrons continually declaring that both parties are alike and advising their associates to make no distinction between a Liberal and a protectionist candidate. Take the evidence of our life-long opponents. You know what Mr. McCarthy said on this subject. Here are his very words:

"And to get into power, my friend says. He is a politician. No doubt in the world that we were out of power, and by going in for the N. P. and more have been fighting at many points for the very objects the Patrons profess to desire. The Liberal party lost office rather than forsake these principles. The Liberal party might have long since regained office if they would have betrayed them, and yet we find certain Patrons continually declaring that both parties are alike and advising their associates to make no distinction between a Liberal and a protectionist candidate. Take the evidence of our life-long opponents. You know what Mr. McCarthy said on this subject. Here are his very words: