The management give no official reasons for the action, but it is generally understood that the games have ceased opelessness of winning the pennant, the option of doing this, but they do not wish to. It would be hardly worth while for a week, especially as the fair would interfere. It is believed the London managers have made money, though not a fortune, and they don't want to drop it now. The players leave with the best wishes of the London baseball enthusiasts, who would like to see most of them back next year. Had the present mempers started the season together, they would have been winners; but the team has been a series of dissolving views, and has been continually crippled by nomenons. The pitching department has been first-class, and if London is to have a club next year its patrons uld ask for no better trio than Lute Johnson, Willie Kershaw and Charles have made a host of friends in Lon-don.
