Buller and the magazines and warehouses at his Christian Botha met at Laing's New from Lorenzo Marquez, dated Tuesat Buller's request, when a three new base, Pretoria, preparatory to a days' armistice was agreed upon. The long chase after the retiring Boers in dispatch adds that the British have evacuated Utrecht.

A STRONG FORCE OF BOERS. Maseru, Basutoland, June 6. — A trooper of Brabant's Horse says that in the last engagement the Boers took 54 British prisoners, including an offi-cer, whom they released conditionally. The officer estimated that the Boer forces between Ficksburg and Bethlehem number 6,000 men. THE LINDLEY DISASTER. London, June 6. — The Thirteenth Imperial Yeomanry Battalion, captured by the Boers on Friday near Lindley, Orange River Colony, consisted of two Irish units and two companies of the Duke of Cambridge's Own, including Lord Donoughmore's company, which was regarded as the crack com pany of the corps, a number of men in the ranks being closely allied to noble families. Among the officers are the Earl of Leitrim, the Earl of Longford and the Earl of Ennismore.

Press Comment ON RECENT OPERATIONS. London, Wednesday, June 6.-The newspapers generally declare that the war, in the sense of a conflict between rival states, is ended by the occupation of Pretoria, but they foresee more or less prolonged campaigning for a part, at least, of the British army. The Daily News says: "The British people and empire are full of gratitude for Lord Roberts' brilliant achievements, and they await their speedy culminaton in final victory and the conclusion of peace. It must be placed to the credit of Kruger and Botha that they did not effect the threat to stagger humanity at Johannesburg and Pretoria, and that resistance was stopped short of a useless sacrifice of life and property. It is impossible not to feel some pity for Kruger, who sees the object of his life slip from his grasp, and every hope and ambition set in gloom. The blame and responsibility rest entirely with himself." The Times says: "To the whole world the capture of Pretoria is a well-understood sign of our definite success. It is a momentous occasion, and it will so be understood throughout the empire. Even the most ignorant dupes of Kruger's organized mendacity will now comprehend the hopelessness of the struggle into which he plunged them. With the banner of England flying at Pretoria, and their chosen leaders in ignominious flight, the Boers cannot fail to perceive that they have been nurtured on lies, and that everything in which they trusted has been swept The Standard says: "The entry of the British into Pretoria marks an epoch in history. It is the end of the Dutch republics and the beginning of the career of South Africa united under British rule. There are few British hearts that will not beat lighter at the thought that the Vierkleur has disappeared forever from the city in which, nineteen years ago, the flag of England was hauled down in circumstances of unforgotten ignominy."

The Daily Chronicle says: "Though the townsmen of Pretoria cannot be glad to see Gen. Roberts, they will have the good sense to co-operate with him in the maintenance of order. The order that reigns at Pretoria is not the order that reigned at Warsaw, and the important distinction will do much to reconcile the peaceful burghers to the new and permanent administration."

The Morning Post says: "The achievement of the army under Gen. Roberts is one of the most notable in its splendid history. The war has cost Great Britain dearly in noble lives, and there is little likelihood of indemnity from the Transvaal for the enormous outlay which the overweening ambition of its leaders made essential, yet the British are richer than ever before, in the consciousness of a united empire." The Daiy Telegraph describes the campaign as one of the swiftest, most certain and most brilliant in the annals of arms, and Gen. Roberts as an incomparable vateran, who proved him-ed That Age. Windsor, June 7 .- Down in Colchester South township, a couple of miles from the village of Harrow, lives Mrs. Revnolds, a colored woman, the oldest resident of the county, and probably the oldest in Ontario. She is declared to have reached the age of 114 years. Like most people who have passed the century mark, Mrs. Reynolds has no absolute proofs of her age, but her neighbors, who have made calculations from what they state is reliable information, say there is little doubt she is the age claimed. People who have lived in the section for 60 years state
