JAPANESE TAKE AND HOLD MORE FORTS; ARE NOW REPORTED WITHIN PT. ARTHUR; GARRISON MENACED BY THE CHOLERA

Desperate Combat For Fort Kuropatkin, Russians Fight | The news which comes from Kuropatkin leads to the fear that he has not been able to check the Japanese flanking movement, and that he may, therefore, be compelled to retire from Mukden.

ese, had been constructed for the purpose of protecting the source of the garrison's water supply. The control of this water supply is now in the hands of the Japanese.

As was announced in these dispatches on Sept. 20, the battle began before daybreak on Sept. 19. At this hour the citizens and the garrison of after the enjoyment of comparative vecurity, awoke to the thunderous reports of artillery along the line extending from the west of Itz Mountains to Rhilungand and Kikwan Mountains. This was but a preface to the assault which was destined to result in the capture of three new and important Russian positions, together with six small but annoying forts lying between Shushiyen and Rihlung Mountains. During the day and night of the 19th and until noon of the 20th, the bombardment continued without cessation and the many shells falling from quarters which previously had been silent, made it obvious that the Japanese had at last succeeded either in mounting many heavy guns in new positions or in strengthening their old positions. Infantry fighting during this period was comparatively trivial. At noon on Sept. 20 the Japanese right and center, the former being to the west, and the later to the east of the railroad, commenced the advance. The troops made use of the trenches and infrequent natural cover that lay in their way, The small forts to the south of Shuy siken resisted their advance, but briefly, their garrisons not being strong numerically. Since the beginning of the bombardment the artillery fire strengthened as far as possible because of the necessity for protecting

This capture lessens further the secur-ity of the fort on Rihlung Mountain, which is now threatened from a new quarter as well as from Palichuang. At 5 o'clock of the afternoon of the 20th the Japanese captured a supwhich threatened the fort on Itze Mountain. This ended the heavy fighting for that day, although the Japanese later were compelled to resist several sorties. During the night sist several sorties. peachable trustworthiness. small casualty list is due to the excessive care used by the Japanese in making their preparations for the advance. Russian sources, however, claim to have information that the Japanese losses were unusually severe, amounting to fully three times the number mentioned above. Possibly the most important capture during the most important capture during the Kuropatkin, which, while of minor value with regard to preventing the confirmation that such an effort is not now being made. Should Wiernius succeed in breaking through the Japanese losses were unusually severe, amounting to fully three times the plan is for a combined sea, and if it is found advisable to have the Baltic squadron sail for the east this year, Skrydloff will bring his squadron to Constadt, where the damaged ships may be thoroughly repaired and put in condition for further fighting with the sistent rumors among the Chinese the Japanese next year.

It is realized that Wiernius will certainly lose some of his vessels in the attempt to leave Port Arthur, but inasmuch as it seems now to be a certainty that he will lose them all if he does not leave, the attempt will be made
