

Miscellaneous.

The New London Dog Law.—A good anecdote relative to Sir Richard Mayne's law of muzzling dogs is in circulation at the clubs. An officer of the Guards went out the other day with a favourite dog with a muzzle fastened on his tail. He had not gone far before he was accosted by a policeman, who told him that as his dog was unmuzzled he should take it up and detain it. This the officer in question defied him to do, maintaining that as his dog had a muzzle on his tail he had complied with Sir Richard Mayne's order, because it was not stated where the muzzle was to be placed on the dog. This so fairly baffled the intelligent policeman that he at once gave way, and let the Guardsman depart in peace with his faithful companion.

THE WORLD.

"It's a very good world to live in,— To lend, to spend, or to give in; But to beg, or to borrow, or recover one's own, It's the very worst world that ever was known."

So some cynical individual has written. It may be true, but it is also true that this is the best world as yet known by us. It is barely possible that the cynical souls may go further and fare worse. Let us hope not. &c.
