ABOVE PRICE

Everywhere in the civilized world to-day, including the Sunday School, there is a new and sincere interest in childhood, and there is certainly a recognition in Sunday School circles that the Primary class is the most difficult to teach successfully. It takes an expert to deal with children, and it is rare to find a young man or woman who is a thoroughly trained teacher, who is deeply religious, and in addition to this, possesses all of the qualifications which go to make one successful with little children. Surely the price of such an one is above rubies.

I am not surprised at all when people tell me that they are willing to pay money for say that, so far as my experience goes, the a teacher of this sort; although it is fair to best teaching is still in the hands of the unsalaried teacher.—Mary Adair, at Knox College Summer School.

THE FIRST ONE THERE

"Last Sunday thirteen classes in the school gathered in their places, visiting and talking with each other, but without their teachers. These had not arrived.

"No moment is so important to the teacher, and no opportunity so priceless, as when the scholars are assembling. This is the teacher's golden chance, and the teacher should be the first one there.

"The teacher who is in his place before any of the scholars are, to greet each as he comes, and thus get into his heart, will find it much easier to teach, and his work will be more effective."—The Helper.
