Editorial Topics.

A NEW EDITOR.

At a college meeting held on February 6th, Mr. Lancefield tendered his resignation from the Board of Editors; he felt himself unable, owing to his duties as Business Manager, to do justice to the position.

Mr. F. H. Hincks, '01, was unanimously elected to fill his place; we feel sure that Mr. Hincks is possessed of no mean literary ability, and that he will do credit both to himself and to THE REVIEW.

CONTRIBUTIONS.

AGAIN we wish to appeal to our subscribers for contributions to the personal column. Some months ago we called attention to the fact that unless we always had plenty of "Personals," THE REVIEW would, to a certain extent, lose interest to the majority of our readers, viz., the Graduates. Our desire is to record in this column the doings of our Graduates in all parts of the world; but it is necessarily impossible that news of these should always reach us here, while it is at the same time most improbable that anything of interest should take place with regard to them without some one of our subscribers hearing of it.

We therefore beg our readers to send in all items that are of interest to Trinity men.

This seems to be a suitable time, also, to repeat another request to our subscribers—that they will please either pay their subscriptions to date or give notice that they wish the paper discontinued. If they would be so kind as to do this, it would save a lot of unnecessary trouble.

YEAR
FEELING.

In the January, 1899, number of THE REVIEW the following article appeared:—"During the past two or three years there has been in Trinity a marked decadence of that abstract quality known as "year feeling," and we feel sure that Trinity has benefited thereby. In past years there were many men who sacrificed the good of the college for the good of their year, and naturally this led to disastrous results.

We are in Trinity one large family, so there is no occasion for internal divisions and we hope that year feeling has become a thing of the past, never to be revived. Of course, it is quite natural that we feel most kindly towards the men of our own year, but when a point is at stake that affects the whole college, let us cast aside year prejudice and act for the best of Trinity."

It seems just possible that this was written in a spirit of boasting, and that it has been rewarded accordingly. Year feeling has not yet "become a thing of the past, never to be revived;" we still, however, entertain the hope that it will. Especially at the present time, when we have reached a crisis, the crisis we might almost say, in the history of Trinity, should we all stand together to further to the utmost and in any way in our power, the interests of our Alma Mater. We must try not to let our personal feelings stand in the way of this great aim. Let us all, grads. and undergrads., try to remember always that we are "in Trinity one large family," and that "united we stand, divided we fall."

TRINITY MEN IN SOUTH AFRICA.

WE have now at least seven Trinity men at the front, or on their way there. In the Imperial army there are Lieut. D. F. Campbell, '96, and Private W. G. H. Bates, '97, both in the Lancashire Regiment. In the first Canadian contingent, we have Lieut. C. S. Wilkie, '97, and Lieut. R. H. Temple, '98; E. P. O'Reilly, '95, is a trooper in the second contingent, and T. W. B. Marling, '98, has gone as a gunner in the artillery. Lastly, Trinity will have a representative in the Strathcona Horse, in the person of E. C. Wragge, '93. As may be seen from the January number of THE REVIEW, Trinity Medical College has no reason to feel ashamed of her representation in South Africa, while Trinity College School has nearly thirty "Old Boys" fighting for their Queen and country. We feel certain that all the Trinity men at the front will not only do their duty, but also if the opportunity is given, will distinguish themselves and prove themselves a credit to their University. Our only hope is that, when the war has been brought to a successful end, they may all return "corpore sano."

Athletics.

THE second general meeting of the T. U. A. A. A. was held on February 5th in Lecture Room No. 2. As the President and Vice-President were unable to be present, the Secretary, Mr. Strathy, took the chair; Mr. Lucas acted as Secretary. The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted.

A letter from Mr. Carman was read, withdrawing his name from those of the candidates for election. This left Messrs. Whittaker and Burbidge in the field. When the ballots were counted, Mr. Burbidge was declared elected by a small majority. The meeting then adjourned.

At a meeting of the Executive Committee, held on February 2nd, it was decided, owing to the uncertainty
