

Bilateral trade between Canada and the Czech Republic totalled $95.7 million in 1994, with exports comprising over $36 million of that figure. Canada's main exports to the country are machinery, electrical equipment, textile fabrics, and printed matter. Imports include machinery, glassware, cotton and woven polyester fabrics. Canada's priority sectors are the informatics and telecommunications, environment, transportation, construction and agri-food sectors.

Canadian direct investment in the Czech Republic is estimated at $150 million. About $500 million is pending in joint-venture and other investment activities.
