THOMAS DONNELLY.

Patrick telegraphed to his sister in St. Thomas, yesterday, to forward him two photos now in her possession, one of the mother and the other of the youngest brother. They arrived by mail from London this evening, accompanied by the following letter :

“ St. Thomas, Feb. 9, 1880.

“ My Dear Brothers, William, Patrick and Robert,—You will find enclosed the pictures of my loving mother and my poor dead brother Tom, who are now before their God. I may say I did not receive the message in time to mail yesterday, as the message-boy could not find the house until just now. Dear brothers, I do not send these pictures for any other purpose but for you to procure fac similes therefrom, and you will kindly preserve and return them when any of you
