

A QUESTION

IF thy life were bound up utterly
In some other life—so, walking free
Through the deserts of mortality—

Ah me! how the wise Apostle saith
(With his calming power, like the night-wind's breath),
Would it be for Life? would it be for Death?—