 But There is to Be No General Revision of U.S. Tariff Until the Next Congress, Year Hence.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24—There will be no general revision of the tariff as a result of the recent election—at least, until the next congress meets a year from next month.
 This much is learned semi-officially incident to the return of President Taft to Washington from his trip to Panama.
 That the president will attempt to have some of the schedules of the Payne-Aldrich bill revised at the coming short session of congress in accordance with his plans for a revision schedule by schedule is admitted. The president is understood to hope a revision of the woolen and other objectionable schedules may be made at the short session, when, with a further trial of the Payne-Aldrich bill during the ensuing year, business will be so good that public sentiment will be opposed to any general revision.
 The president also hopes to get a reciprocity treaty with Canada enacted this winter as a result of which it is hoped that the tariff tension will be relieved further.
 An effort will be made to get an appropriation to begin the work of forming the Panama Canal.
 The president will renew his demand for a ship subsidy bill. This is one of the measures he will do his utmost to have passed.
 Further conservation legislation is to be commended.
 Further legislation regulating corporations, aside from the federal incorporation law, will await the decisions of the supreme court in the Standard Oil and Tobacco Trust cases.

OTTAWA, Nov. 24.—(Special.)—Shortly before recess this afternoon R. L. Borden made a spirited attack upon the government, following the lines so far laid down in the debate on the address in reply to the speech from the throne. What Mr. Borden's speech on Monday lacked in vigor and definition was more than made up to-day. To the accompaniment of applause he affirmed:
 "We will retract no part of our policy because National Liberal agrees or disagrees with it," and declared that, before a permanent naval establishment was created, the people should have an opportunity to pass upon it.
 Dr. Thomas Shaughnessy, in the debate, made a significant reference to the United States influence on the railway commission.
 Taking advantage of the opportunity afforded by the introduction of the amendment of F. D. Monk (Con. Jac.) amendment, regretting that the government gives no indication whatever to consult the people upon the proposal, Mr. Borden spoke for the second time during the debate. Digressing for a moment from the issue presented in the amendment, Mr. Borden proceeded to attack the government's policy on Wednesday, who had declared that Canadian imports from Great Britain last year amounted to $217,000,000, whereas the government returns showed that this trade aggregated but $95,000,000.
 Dealing with the controversy raised by Mr. Guthrie on the alleged ownership of public lands in the western provinces, the leader of the opposition pointed out that the crown owns the lands included in the public domain, and that the real issue was one of administration, not of ownership. Mr. Guthrie had spoken of the value of these lands, and declared that they were one of the greatest assets of the federal government. "This does not seem to be very much in harmony with the proposal of the Government of Canada to build the Hudson Bay lands," he argued. Proceeding, Mr. Borden indicated that Mr. Beland had mistakenly quoted the resolution of the last session of parliament, introduced by Conservatives, in its original form, instead of in the amended form which was finally accepted, in which Mr. Beland said that last year the policy of the Conservative party was to build the Hudson Bay lands, and now it is in disregard to the resolution of 1908, to which that party had assented. The resolution finally said that that policy of regular or periodical contributions to the imperial treasury for naval and military purposes would not, as far as Canada is concerned, be the most satisfactory solution of the question of defence.
 Called Attention to Stations.
 Answering some remarks by the minister of marine and fisheries, Borden disclaimed any statement by him that Canada should send warships to Great Britain, but should not provide for the maintenance and equipment of the naval stations at Halifax and Esquimaux. Last session he had called the attention of Mr. Brodeur and Sir Frederick Borden to the unsatisfactory condition of the stations.
 Comparing statements made by the government in the recent campaign with those which appeared in the Nationalist press, in which the government argued that the extension of a Canadian navy was a step towards independence, Mr. Borden did not characterize as being of a very high order. Mr. Borden then accomplished a discomfiture of Mr. Brodeur by referring to the cartoon painted by the minister of marine and fisheries, as from Le Devoir. Sir Wilfrid had referred to the campaign in the words: "That election was fought by appeals so desperate, that when the smoke of battle had cleared, the public conscience was aroused with shame and indignation."
 That Offensive Cartoon.
 "Does the house realize, does the minister of marine and fisheries realize that that very cartoon was published in his own organ (Le Canada)?" Mr. Brodeur replied that he had never seen the cartoon quoted in any other organ.
 Amid Conservative applause, Mr. Borden then sent to the library and produced a copy of the cartoon, with the objectionable (?) cartoon, published under date of Sept. 26, 1904, in connection with the Dundonald incident. It was all very well, he said, for the minister of marine to publish the cartoon and hold up the members of the Conservative party as holding up the people of the Province of Quebec in the interests of England, "but, when the Nationalists used the very same cartoon, they were to be denounced by the minister of marine and his followers as being guilty of conduct dangerous and criminal."
 He then read the good or bad fortune, according to the point of view that may present itself to anyone, to be denounced beyond measure by the Nationalist speakers who were charged with property as a result of their riding of the post-street police court to-day and sentenced to pay fines of $10 to $25. Many miners' cabins were swept away and grave fears are entertained for the lives of the occupants.
 A CARDINAL DEAD.
 ROME, Nov. 24.—Cardinal San Minia, told to-day. His death makes the number of vacancies in the sacred college nineteen.
 Suffragettes Jailed.
 LONDON, Nov. 24.—All of the suffragettes who were charged with assault and the wilful damage of property as a result of their riding of the post-street police court to-day and sentenced to pay fines of $10 to $25, according to the seriousness of their offence, all of the prisoners elected to go to jail.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—A manifesto credited and signed by Francis I. Madero, calling on the people here to fight by friends and partisans of Madero, who said that it was received in this city to-day. The manifesto is in Spanish, and is dated San Luis Potosi, Mexico, Oct. 1910. A footnote to it says it is for private circulation up to Nov. 15, and thereafter it is to be circulated broadly.
 In their uninterrupted struggle for the triumph of the ideals of liberty and justice, people are compelled, at certain historical moments, to make the greatest sacrifices. It is the way it begins.
 Our beloved fatherland has reached such a stage, it continues. "A despotism, such as we Mexicans have not known, has been imposed upon us, and we are now being asked to accept it with a degree that it has become intolerable."
 Unlawful and Ruthless.
 It recites that a feeling of unrest has pervaded the republic because of this system of government, and because of the following reasons:

SHOT BY HIS FATHER
 Serious Accident to Young Man While Duck Hunting.
 OTTAWA, Nov. 24.—Gilbert Huneau was brought to a local hospital to-day, suffering from a gunshot wound due to duck hunting near Vars. His father was with him at the time, and accidentally discharged his gun, striking the boy in the arm, and the party set off for help, but got lost. They did not tie up the wound, which bled for two hours before help came. The man may recover.

CAR TURNED TURTLE
 Principal of Elmira School Killed by Head Striking Pole.
 ELMIRA, N.Y., Nov. 24.—Robert J. Round, principal of school No. 5 and one of Elmira's prominent educators, was slightly injured, and two others were injured, when a street car bearing a load of spectators to a football game jumped the track on a curve just outside of the city limits to-day afternoon. The car turned turtle and struck a telephone pole, throwing Prof. Round to one end of the car where his head was crushed by a broken timber. There were 22 people in the car at the time, but all of the others escaped with slight bruises and cuts.

RAILWAY TAXATION

 WINNIPEG, Nov. 24.—(Special.)—At the convention of Manitoba municipalities this morning an important resolution was passed requesting that the following words be added to the end of section 13 of the Railway Taxation Act:
 "Nothing in this section shall exempt from assessment and taxation of any lands or property held by any railway company, not in actual use in operation of the railway."

The following new scale was decided upon: Third-class men, $80 to $87.50; second-class, $85 to $100; first-class men, $150 to $150.

OTTAWA, Nov. 24.—(Special.)—In the senate to-day, Senator Landry moved for copies of all orders-in-council, decisions of the military council, and all correspondence concerning the guard and escort of honor applied for in August and September last, on the occasion of the visits in Quebec and Montreal of His Eminence Cardinal Van Riebeeck.
 Sir Richard Cartwright said he had no objection to the motion passing.
 Senator Landry inquired the purpose of the motion.
 Senator Landry replied that it was to obtain information. He had no ulterior motive, such as had been attributed to him by the minister of marine in the commonsense who had charged him with having attempted to ride the racial and religious political horses by means of this motion. It would be time enough to criticize the action of the authorities after the information had been given.
 Sir Mackenzie Bowell seconded Senator Landry's motion, and said he certainly would not have done so if his purpose was that alleged by the minister of marine and fisheries, a censure on the government for not having provided a guard of honor. He would have been inclined to censure the government if it had authorized a guard of honor.
 The motion carried.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 24.—(Special.)—Contrary to expectations, the first witness called before Justice Robson, who is enquiring into the Shearer charges, was Chief of Police J. C. McRae. The chief, who entered the force in 1881, and became chief in 1887, testified that in the spring of 1909, the police commission received a letter from Police Magistrate Hon. T. M. Daly, in which the magistrate called attention to the enormous growth of the former segregated district, and the difficulties attendant on the number of successful appeals against convictions, after they had been secured by the police.
 Hon. Mr. Daly advised that the matter be left to the discretion of the chief of police. After consideration, the police commission passed a resolution in April, 1909, leaving the matter in his hands. The chief then had a conversation with a woman named Mrs. Beaman, who was subsequently established as a real estate man of his acquaintance, named John Beaman, and the colony was subsequently established. The chief at this stage said that the rumor that Beaman was his brother-in-law, was entirely unfounded.
 The chief then stated difficulties in securing convictions and spoke of cases where convicted keepers of resorts had been released by higher courts.
 At a subsequent date the commission decided by resolution that officers should present their evidence to crown counsel before laying informations, Constables in the restricted area, were instructed to have no orders to interfere with keepers or inmates of houses. The change in policy was made at his suggestion, but done by the commission. The chief thought the law could be better enforced in a restricted area than scattered all over the city.
 The chief's evidence was not given. All the members of the police commission will be subpoenaed. It is reported that several persons, whose evidence is considered essential, have crossed the boundary, beyond the reach of process servers.
