Ty Cobb Favors Boston to Win First Game Today

Note and Comment

The experts are trying to pick the winaers of the world's series, when at best it can lonly be a guess. There are so many little things to turn the scale that dope looks a mistake in this kind of a Still, Boston baseball critics have compiled an interesting set of figures to illustrate the remarkable effectiveness of the Red Sox pitchers this year, upon which they base the confident belief that the coming world's series will be captured by the American League champions. The Boston figures include the games played by the Red Sox up to the last week.

Ray Collins, the crack southpaw, won it games and lost 5, coming to the rescue of O'Brien, Hall and Pape, and being withdrawn eight times. His percentage of victories was 737, with thirty-four passes, two hit batsmen and seventy-seven strike-outs.

Charley Hall, Boston's best relief pitcher, won 17 and lost 9, with two ties. He relieved other boxmen in twelve instances and was taken out of thirteen games. His winning percentage was .654 for thirty-four games, in which he handed out seventy-one free tickets, hit four and fanned eighty-two.

Hugh Bedient, who is finishing his first year in major league company, won 16 and lost 9, with a percentage of .640 for thirty-five games, having been used as a relief pitcher eleven times, and being taken out of the box in eleven games. He gave fifty-three passes, hit two men, fanned 114, made a wild pitch and a balk.

Buck O'Brien, the noted spitbail artist, won 17 and lost 18, with a percentage of .567 in thirty-five games. He relieved three and was knocked out nine times. He passed eighty-mine, hit ten, fanned 107, and was credited with seven wild pitches.

Then along comes the Gotham statisti-cian, with just as formidable material.

Corresponding figures setting forth the work of the Giants' leading pitchers are equally interesting and afford material for deep thought among the Hub rooters. Jeff Tesreau, a spitball pitcher, heads the list with 17 victories and 6 defeats, having a winning percentage of .739 for thirty-two games. Tesreau, including the game he pitched on Saturday, gave ninety-five bases on balls, hit eleven men, fanned 102, and had three wild pitches. He relieved five and was taken out of ten games.

Opening Game — Is to Write Series for The

the Boston team has probably settled upon just who is going to work. Most likely, however, Manager McGraw has the most serious problem confronting him, because he has two men, one of whom he must select for the important task of being in the pitcher's box to-

In all probability McGraw has been turning over in his mind today the or Mathewson?" It would not surprise me much if he would once more rely upon the peerless "Matty" to pitch the first game of these important contests. The dope points to the big hurler, Tesreau, who ,they say, is a bear for work, and by opening up with him Mc-Graw would thereby be able to give him the extra work needed so that he can be doubled back much more quick-and had three wild pitches. He relieved five and was taken out of ten games.

Rube Marquard, who won 19 straight, has a record of 26 wins and 10 losses, 722 for 40 games, having relieved Tesreau and Ames once each and wiltse twice, also being taken out of ten games. He handed out 77 passes, hit two, struck out 163 and made six wild pitches.

Christy Mathewson showed that he wasn't all in by any means, by winning 26 and losing 12, also taking part in one tie, a percentage of 684. As a relief pitcher he was called upon in seven games and was supplanted in eight. He gave 33 bases on balls, hit two, struck out 132 and had two wild pitches.

Otis Crandall, the Giants' star rescuer, won 12 and lost 6, and relieved Marquard three times, Tesreau four, Afnes five, Mathewson five and Wiltse six. He was removed from the mound on three occasions. His winning percentage was .667, with 36 bases on balls, three hit batsmen and 68 strikeouts.

Leon Ames relieved nine and was re-

Leon Ames relieved nine and was removed from 14 games. He won nine and was beaten in five, a percentage of .613 for 31 games, in which he gave 33 passes, hit three men and struck out 74, also having seven wild pitches.

Hooks Wiltse relieved seven and was taken out 14 times, winning eight and lesing five, a percentage of .615. Twenty seven bases on balls were charged against him, one hit batsman and he made 57 carve the air.

The infleids are a stand off, while Boston has a margin in the outer garden. Glants shade the Red Sox behind the bat, and there you are.

The cripples, Gardner and Carriga seem to have fully recovered, Gardne-having shown great form in his la game in Philadelphia. Carrigan w undoubtedly have the benefit of a regular duty.

I think New York will show Mathewson, Tesreau and Marquard, and Wood, Collins and O'Brien are the likely selections for the Red Sox.

Cady will receive Wood, Carrigan and Myers will catch the other games for their respective clubs.

All of the fans who are optimistic about one or the other of the teams A LEAGUE. winning surely have no great point argue upon. Boston has never been argue upon. But the New Yorks in a world's series. But the New Yorks with the wonderful lead of 15 games which the fast going Chicago Cubs cut down to about two and one-half games, were only saved by the remarkable work of Tesreau. This, however, gave confidence to the Giants and they opponents were hitting them too hard. Wood's average in hits all season is about six per game. On the other hand, Marquard has been turped time and again and "Mat-ty" also has been hit rather freely. Tesreau has shown remarkable form in most of the games. I would like to say again that I consider Wagner will, on defence, be the star of the series. All the real shrewd baseball fans who notice him closely he is the real pivot of the team.

Doyle and Meyers of the Giants should be the bright stars for the naional leaguers. The batteries should look something like this: Matthewson and Myers for the Glants; Wood and Cady for the Red Sox; Klem behind the plate as umpire and Evans on the bases, with O'Loughlin and Rigler as field judges. In the succeeding games the umpires

Argo Coach Will Be a Fixture on Oarsmen Line-Grass

Out of Game-Gossip.

Johnny Newton, Varsity's great captain and centre half-back of 1908, broke into the game anew at Montreal on Saturday, and liked it so well that he has decided to extend his sphere of influence from that of honorary coach for the Argonauts to regular flying wing. Johnny is only 24 years of age, and some time later he will not feel like playing.

Followers of the Big Four champions are highly elated over the initial victory away, and they are confidently looking to repeat for the honors. The players emerged at Montreal without mishap and will be in fine fettle for the Tigers Saturday at Rosedale. The carsmen have this year the best wing line of their history, and the men seem to have got their tackling down to perfection. On account of the victory there was an extra demand for season tickets yesterday, but there are still left several good locations. The Argos will have a line-up this evening at Rosedale.

The Varsity boys had a light workout last evening. There were about fifty out all told, including the intermediates. They indulged in a signal practice and are showing up in better form every practice. Bob Grass, who was injured in Saturday's game, will not be able to get in uniform for a couple of weeks. Bob Thompson is in harness again and is in good condition. The boys are wortling hard for their game in Ottawa on Saturday, and will leave for that city on Friday night. Pete Campbell will take down twenty-five men with him. The champs, expect a large crowd of supporters will be on hand at Montreal to witness the battle with McGill on Oct. 19. About 300 intend going.

Intercollegiate And Interfaculty Games at Varsity

The University Track Club have decided The University Track Club have decided to hold the annual inter-faculty games next Saturday afternoon, and it is expected that the followers of track and field athletics will show their appreciation of the change from Friday afternoon to the weekly half-holiday by turning out in large numbers to watch the keen competition and well-filled program. In addition to the regular card of fourteen events the meet will have an especial interest this year in that "will be the scene of George Goulding's last public appearance on the track. He will walk an exhibition mile, and on the fast Varsity track may set up a record.

The face that the intercollegiate meet will be held in the stadium on Friday, Oct. 18, and that the Varsity boys are working hard to average last year's defeat at McGill, means that the rivalry among the members of the Varsity squad is nearing the maximum point, as it is only once in three years that the members of the track team are given the opportunity to compete for intercollegiate honors on the home grounds.

Inter-faculty rivalry always runs high at the annual games, and the students will be out in full force to cheer their favorites to victory and to receive the results of the big Rugby match at Ottawa, where the wearers of the biue and white will be battling with Father Stanton's boys for Intercollegiate honors. to hold the annual inter-faculty games
