

Advertisement.

THE Fourth Number of the NOVA-SCOTIA ALMANACK is presented with confidence to its Patrons, the Public. This confidence is occasioned by the very flattering approval which former Numbers have met with, and by the consciousness that care has been taken to deserve a continuance of this approval. This Number contains many useful Tables, New Chronological Series, the requisite Lists, Answers to Questions of 1836, New Questions, and many interesting features which need not be detailed in this place.

NOVA

THE

There
Which

OF the various sciences one better calculated mind than the sublimity it imparts, or strength his sentiments, and Being "in whom life the heavens, "and so declare the glory of Day unto day uttereth

Who can, with a mind with countless myriads soothing influence,—from that militate against it nature experiencing the is well fitted to produce denominated "The son dually rises to that of
of the Divine Architect and by whose omnipotence yields the ready homage

Feeling
Is as a child

Well may he, reflecting universe, exclaim with even the works of thy ordained,—Lord, what of man that Thou visitest

The science we are we live, is itself a planet which it has presented to of view; that the earth the whole creation is gov with the radiant orbs of lig self a luminous body, imp which it receives. Thus is