U. S. SPENT $847,804,654 ON AMUSEMENTS IN YEAR 1922

New York City Alone Took Ten Per Cent. of This Amount.

Americans are prodigious spenders when it comes to the theatre, movies and sports, as the official figures issued by the Internal Revenue office at Washington disclose that $846,804,654.92 was expended in the past year. More than 10 per cent. dropped into the coffers of movies, theatres and sports promoters in New York city, which accounts for $93,592,807.

The State of Massachusetts contributed $46,561,834. Of this amount $4,562,975 was spent in various lines of sports. It is fair to presume that at least 60 per cent. of this money was spent right here in Boston.

The figures show beyond any question that New York is the great sporting centre of the world, for admissions and tax amounted to $10,552,334. The Chicago sports spent close to $7,000,000 and California dropped $6,500,000 into the coffers of the sporting magnates. Approximately $78,000,000 was spent on sporting events in the United States. If the great college football and baseball games were taxable, this would bring it up to $100,000,000.

THEODORE ROBERTS

The most inspiring work of his career is the way Theodore Roberts describes his part in Cecil B. DeMille's Paramount special, "The Ten Commandments." Mr. Roberts enacted Moses in the Old Testament scenes in the prologue. After the plague of Egypt and the miracle-working that divides the waters of the Red Sea, the climax shows the prophet on Mt. Sinal receiving the divine commands as flaming characters in the sky. He engraves the letters on stone and descends to the valley, where the breakers of the First Commandment—the idolatrous worshippers of the golden calf—are destroyed by God's thunderholts.

"To enact this God-given leader in the early uplift of the race, was an Intense emotional experience I can never forget," declares Mr. Roberts. THEODORE ROBERTS

WOMAN'S DESIRE FOR CAREER IS NOT FILMED AS IT IS IN REAL LIFE

New York, Dec. 11.—A vehicle has come to the screen that, despite its ability to afford two hours of fair amusement, belies actuality. It is "This Freedom," taken from A. S. M. Hutchinson's book, and featuring Fay Corpton.

If you aren't familiar with the book, here's a brief summary. Rosalie (Miss Compton) grew up in one of those families where men are masters. So completely does she see the womenfolk dominated that she vows. by heck, when she grows up she'll be tree. She takes a job in a bank. Then marriage enters her life, but she continues with her career, and in time occupies a high position with her firm. Her husband apparently is also successful, so that their three children are raised in luxury.

Years go on, and her dream tumbles. Her son is sent to prison. Her daughter dies from some mysterious cause. I forget what happens to another daughter. Then, only then, does Rosalie realize she is a failure because she has neglected her children for her career.

Outfits For Broadway Movie House Footmen Cost $200 Each

Every movie theatre takes special pains to place only lovely girls in their plate glass box offices. Now four of Broadway's massive film palaces have rounded up a bevy of handsome boys, who serve as footmer in front of the theatres. There are two youths to each of the four big film houses, each built on the lines of Adonis and looking like the chap in the Arrow collar ads. The theatres outlit them in rich uniforms that opera cape, braided trousers and patent leather shoes. These outlits are fashioned by the best Fifth avenue tailors and cost more than $200 each, or about 10 times the young men's weekly salary. The ostensible job of the footmen is to assist movie patrons arriving in limousines. But the real object is for them to look handsome and give the film palace an air of class.

concerts in England, Germany and Switzerland. This period of study paved the way for further achievements during the first American tour upon which he embarked in the autumn of 1899. A period of great activity followed in England and on the Continent, the pianist's engagements including a series of recitals at the Queen's Hall, appearances at the Cardiff Festival in 1902, and at Lamoureux and Colonne Concerts in Paris. A second American tour of 80 concerts, followed by a third visit to Australia and a tour in South Africa, which latter was undertaken primarily for change and rest, but which proved also to be a most successful venture, fully occupied Mark Hambourg's time until 1906, especially as he had to fulfil many engagements in England as well. His recital at the Queen's Hall on June 18th of the same year marked his one thousandth appearance in public. In 1907 Mark Hambourg made his second tour in South Africa, which occupied the whole of that spring and summer. In October of the same year followed a third American tour, while in July, 1906, after a great farewell concert at the Albert Hall, which was attended by over 6,000 people, came a fourth visit to Australia extending over six months.
